By JAMES L. HICKS

ATLANTA— The "kill" order that blacked out the picture taken of Grand Exalted Ruler Robert E. Johnson of the Elks shaking hands with Georgia's Gov. Herman Hummon) Talmadge must have been written by the hand of a powerful personage.

The picture, taken by C. W. Hairgrove, Columbus, Ohio, free-lance photographer and reportedly given to the wire services, was later blacked out before it cooled off from dark-room processing.

Picture Vanishes

After the picture had been taken at the capitol, where the young photographer, a non-Elk—was chatting with the governor —Mr. Johnson was hurriedly called in and it was given to Charles P. McClane, Elk public relations director.

Mr. McClane had several proofs of the negative when he appeared at the newsroom in the auditorium. It was learned that the photo had been released to the wire services, but no one has been "hide nor hair" of it since that time.

The question uppermost in the minds of most newsmen here is: "Who blacked out the picture of the exalted ruler and the governor and why?"

Public co-operation asked in 'Operation Check-Up'

Sen. John Marshall Butler announced Thursday he hoped "the Maryland public will cooperate to the fullest extent with local Civil Defense officials" in the forthcoming state-wide air raid alert, dubbed "Operation Check-up."

In a letter to Sherley Ewing, state Civil Defense director, Senator Butler said:

"The people in our state, and in the nation, do not comprehend the catastrophic conditions which would result from any form of attack in our country. It would seem that very few persons have any conception of the magnitude of the potential seriousness of the situation."

Russian Threat Cited

Citing Operation Check-up as an excellent opportunity for Marylanders to learn how to react when they receive warning of an imminent enemy attack, Senator Butler said the public must be made more conscious of the Russian threat.

The state-wide alert, to be held sometime during the week of Sept. 21, is designed to test the state's existing air raid warning system and also to acquaint the public with what to do when the "Red" warning is sounded.

Civil Defense officials hope to stop all traffic and expect the public to seek cover when they hear the warning.

Jamaicans denounce African federation

KINGSTON, Jamica (ANP)—A stormy night mass meeting, held recently on a portion of the 45-acre Kingston Race Course, Savannah, deplored the Central African Federation which has been approved by Great Britain.

So violent was the meeting that, the darker-skinned section of the crowd booed Noel Newton Nethersole, fair-skinned deputy leader of the People's National Party, who had accepted an invitation to speak at the meeting. Rhodes Scholar Nethersole, who was accompanied by his wife at the meeting, left without being able to speak.

Preceeding the 3 o'clock program, there will be a street parade, beginning at 1 p.m.

Parade Route

Starting from Pennsylvania Ave. and Mosher st., it will proceed on Mosher st. to Calhoun st., to Presstman st. to Druid Hill ave., to Laurens st., to Pennsylvania ave., and back to the K. of P. Hall.

Gideon Warfield is grand master: Samuel Spriggs, Grand secretary; Charles F. Nealy, chairman, publicity committee.

Fire prevention week to be observed here

Fire Prevention Week, which this year emphasizes that carelessness causes most fires, will be observed here and over the nation from Oct. 4 to 11.

The Baltimore Safety Council and Baltimore Fire Department are sponsoring the local observance. A series of dramatic events, radio, television and other demonstrations, will be employed this year to stimulate interest in fire safety, and to cite the fact that lives and dollars lost through fire in most all instances could be saved through practice of care.
