NAACP campaign head well equipped for task

Widely traveled and well experienced in human relations work is Miss Mildred L. Bond, 26, of NYC, the NAACP assistant field director who is conducting the Baltimore membership campaign.

A member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority, Miss Bond was graduated from NYU in 1947.

Shortly after graduation, she was sent to Mexico as a member of the American Friends Service Committee social service project.

She remained there until June, 1948, when she returned to attend an international students seminar, Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. at which time there were 23 students from 12 different nations.

Graduate Student

She returned to New York, Sept., 1948 where she enrolled as a graduate student of psychology at the New School for Social Research.

Concurrently Miss Bond worked as a public interviewer for a research bureau.

In Oct., 1949 Miss Bond was employed as a social service worker for Spanish speaking families with NYC welfare department. In Sept., 1951 he resigned to go to Europe as a part of her educational training.

She remained in France for a year, where she studied French, taught English and participated in the program of International Relations and Organizations as sponsored by the Quakes Centre International in Paris.

Traveled Europe

Miss Bond visited Portugal, Gibraltar, Tunisia, Morocco, Sicily, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Germany, Brussels, England and Austria while in Europe.

She returned to New York Aug., 1952 and entered Columbia University in September for further graduate work leading toward a Ph.D in social psychology and international relations.

Miss Bond expects to go to India in the spring to complete her work in the same area.

She was born in Tennessee, but reared in the midwest, Kansas City, Kans., and has lived for the past 12 years in NYC.

NAACP drive off to rousing start

With a goal of 10,000 members, the NAACP fall campaign got off to a rousing start, Tuesday, with a kickoff meeting in the lecture room of Sharp St. Methodist church.

This meeting introduced Miss Mildred L. Bond of NYC, NAACP assistant field secretary who is directing the local campaign.

She made an inspiring appeal to the workers for renewed vigor in their efforts to recruit 10,000 new members and stressed the fact that 1,000 voluntary workers are needed to accomplish the goal.

Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, attorney, reviewed the Mergenthaler Printing school and Western High school A-course issues which are now pending in the courts.

She also informed the audience that the government Contracts Compliance Committee, in connection with the FEPC, promises prompt action in the near future.

Along this line, Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, NAACP president made a rousing pep talk, emphasizing why an all-out effort is needed in this campaign.

Arrest Protested

Reviewing what was termed the "outrageous arrest" of the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, pastor of Douglas C. C. church for delinquent payment of a traffic ticket, the Rev. Joshua O. Williams urged the body to send telegrams of protests to police authorities.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Pep songs were directed by Maceo Howard. The Rev. Gentry McDonald presided.

Material Issued

Representatives of Northwest, West, South and East Baltimore were given their campaign material.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. on Sept. 22 at Sharp Street church with the Rev. Robert Newbold of Grace Presbyterian church as guest speaker.

Devotionals were handled by Rev. Mr. Williams and the Rev. H. Octavious Graham.

Mrs. Lillian B. Reid gets art teaching post

A $6,200-per-year art teaching post to Mrs. Lillian B. Reid was approved by the board of school commissioners at their meeting, Thursday.

Mrs. Reid will replace Miss Florence V. Purviance, veteran art teacher, who is retiring. The vacancy is on the faculty of elementary school No. 139.

Other teaching appointments approved by the board included:

Stanley Beckett to post as teacher of physical education at School No. 139; Miss Sallie H. Russell to a position of junior high school teacher at the Dunbar junior-senior high school; Miss Mary E. Nicholas to a post as teacher of junior high school business education at Douglass high school;

Melvin Cade and Alberg James to teachers of junior high school education at Douglass High school and the Booker T. Washington junior high school respectively; Isador Oglesby to teacher of senior high distributive education at Douglass High school.

Resignations

Also accepted were resignations of four teachers.

They were Miss Saretha Greene from School No. 137; Miss Joan H. Keene from School No. 106; Miss Valedia J. Sawyer from Douglass high school and Mrs. Emma W. Thomas of Dunbar junior-senior high school who is on maternity leave.

Buildings Use Granted

The board suspended rules to allow six organizations to use school buildings.

These were Delta Sigma Theta sorority for the presentation of a concert on Oct. 11; Sigma Gamma Rho sorority for presentation of a musical and dance group on October 18; Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority for concerts on Jan. 24; Feb. 28 and April 4, 1954; Chi Eta Phi sorority for presentation of a choral group on March 7, 1954; the Madison Avenue Branch YWCA for presentation of a dance concert on May 21.

$110,863.42 Improvements

All of these will be in Polytechnic Institute.

The business office reported that several contracts have been approved by the Board of Estimates.

These included:

$23,940 for new electric wiring and lighting at School No. 129; plumbing installation in School No. 147, $3,275.32; paving at School No. 119, $5,283.40; new floors, risers, treads and finishing at School No. 147, $2,971; alterations to cafeteria at School No. 133-A, $7,389; roof covering, School No. 139, $1,847; roof covering School No. 137, $1,678; roof covering, School No. 112, $2,526; power wiring for shops, Vocational School No. 453, $11,440; and new lighting and power system, School No. 139, $57,900.

Morgan instructor hurt in collision

A 32-year-old Morgan college instructor, James S. Kennedy of the 1700 block Madison ave., sustained a head injury Wednesday evening when his automobile collided with another at the intersection of Lafayette and Fremont aves.

Mr. Kennedy was admitted to Provident hospital with a possible cerebral concussion, but was reported "doing nicely" Thursday.

Police reported that Mr. Kennedy was driving east on Lafayette ave. when a westbound car, driven by Phillip S. Miller, 49, a white salesman of the 2500 block W. Garrison blvd, made a left turn, striking Mr. Kennedy's auto.

Both men are to appear in Traffic Court on Oct. 5.

5,000 Marylanders fired from jobs with 2nd Army

Because of the budget reduction in the Department of Defense, by congress, some 5,000 civilians employed at Maryland installations of the second army are receiving notices stating that their jobs will end in 30 days.

As an economy measure, the federal government has ordered that 1,000 jobs be eliminated by Oct. 16, but the notices are going to all employees until the army decides which jobs will be abolished.

Some of the discharged employees may be reassigned to other jobs, either through the filling of vacancies or by claiming seniority over other workers who are not hired.

Meanwhile a list of job openings are being compiled by the second army and the state for the dismissed employees.

Hit 'Housekeeping' Posts

The job reductions will strike heaviest at army installations "housekeeping" posts, maintained for troop or administrative units.

The army estimated that between 100 and 125 employees will be fired from Ft. Holabird, while 2,046 civilians, (many of whom are Baltimoreans) will be dismissed from 575 jobs at Ft. Meade.

Few job cuts will be made at technical installations such as Aberdeen Proving Ground, the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood and Camp Detrick, the army's bacteriological warfare research center.

Some 180 civilians at the "housekeeping" posts at the Chemical Center, 150 at the Proving Ground and 30 at Camp Detrick will be discharged.

Deadline nears for Korean vets

The deadline for starting training under the Korean GI Bill is less than one year away for nearly 10,000 Maryland area Korean veterans, W. L. Limburg, manager of the local VA regional office has announced.

The veterans are those who served since Korea, who were discharged or separated before Aug. 20, 1952, and who yet have not taken advantage of the GI training benefit.

Under the law, they actually must "enroll in and begin" GI training by August 20, 1954, in order to continue afterwards. The mere filing of an application beforehand, with an intention of starting some time after that date, is not enough.

Mr. Limburg emphasized that the 1954 cut-off date applies only to post-Korean veterans who left service before Aug. 20, 1953. Those separated after that date need not concern themselves with the 1954 deadline. Instead, they have two years from the time they left the armed forces in which to get started.

2 Policemen Dismissed From Force After Probe Of Brutality Charge

Dilly treasure hunt is on, here, there, everywhere

East, South, West, North, Northwest—everywhere in Baltimore those Dilly Dollars are adding a measure of enjoyment and happiness.

Readers of the AFRO from one end of the city to the other—and the suburbs as well—are receiving helpful cash in the exciting treasure hunt.

One Dilly worth $200 is waiting to be found and there are Dillies worth $100, $50 and $25 on the loose—perhaps in your pocket right now.

Alert AFRO readers are checking each and every $1 bill they lay their hands on with the list published below. Every Tuesday and Friday some 20 AFRO readers are lucky enough to find they have a Dilly Dollar worth sums ranging from $5 to $200.

If you have a Dilly Dollar get right on that telephone and call the Dilly Editor at MUlberry 5-6015. Tell him "I've got a Dilly" and make arrangements to come down to the AFRO office at 628 N. Eutaw st. and pick up your money.

The AFRO office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

The Dilly Dollar treasure hunt is the most exciting idea thought up yet and every day some lucky winners rush in happily to back up that statement.

Better check your pocket or pocketbook right now. There could be a Dilly hiding there!

Notorious stag party draws crowd, 2 uninvited guests

Persistent reports of an alleged "raid" that didn't come off, a notorious Saturday night stag party at which the principal entertainers were three blonde lovelies from Washington and rumors of a $300 bribe passing hands continued to be bandied around Baltimore this week.

About the only thing definite about the whole incident is the fact that the stag party was held—at $1.50 an eager customer.

It's also certain that no arrests were made and Capt. Millard B. Horton, commanding officer of the Northwestern district police, flatly denies that any of his officers took part in any raid in the 1400 block of Madison ave. last Saturday night, the scene of the party.

In Full Swing

Sources which, quite naturally, wish to keep their identities unknown, told the AFRO that the party was in full swing with the three young ladies out Kinsey Kinsey when some members of the local gendarmes entered the scene.

Here the reports begin to vary as to what transpired between

Annapolis couple's charge of beating began investigation

ANNAPOLIS — A second policeman has been dismissed from the force as a result of an investigation here into police brutality charges by Police Commissioner George W. Rawlings.

Patrolman Henry W. Knott was shorn of his badge, uniform, and gun after a police trial board found him guilty Wednesday, of conduct unbecoming an officer and violating rules and regulations of the police department.

His brother, Robert Trott, was dismissed earlier this week by the police commissioner after

MORGAN FOOTBALL FIELD DEDICATION

The board of trustees of Morgan State College voted on Thursday to dedicate the college football field on October 3. It is to be named Tamadge Hill Playing Field in recognition of coach Marse Hill's 24 years of service as assistant football coach and head coach of basketball.

STILL SMILING — Although specialists have confirmed that her daughter, Susan King, has only four more weeks to live, Mrs. Doris King, still wears a resigned smile. Interested citizens are formulating plans to give the two-year-old cancer victim a mammoth birthday party.

City denies 6-1 pools is unequal

The city of Baltimore refuses to break down its segregation bars at local outdoor swimming pools, contending that this discrimination does not violate the 14th amendment to the U. S. constitution.

In reply to a suit filed Sept. 5, in U.S. District court by NAACP lawyers, park board officials, the mayor and city council assert that public swimming facilities for colored are "substantially equal" to those provided for white persons.

In Baltimore, there are six outdoor swimming pools provided for white, but only one for the colored citizens.

Ask Dismissal of Suit

The defendants filed their answer in federal court, Tuesday, asking dismissal of the pending lawsuit.

The reply denied that Druid Hill pool was inferior to other pools and added that a new pool now under construction in Cherry Hill will be ready next summer.

The defendants also pointed out that colored Baltimoreans have exclusive use of the all-year round Chick Webb swimming pool but neglected to infer

Susan to celebrate birthday Saturday

By BUDDY LONESOME

Little Susan King, 2-year-old cancer victim, will have her birthday party this Saturday.

But her father has just sailed for a foreign port and won't be present.

The child is dying from the incurable disease and specialists have predicted she will live only four more weeks.

Susan's birthday is on Nov. 3, but with the child's death so near, her parents, William and Doris King, 2317 Poplar Grove st., decided to give a birthday party sometime around the middle of October.

The father, a merchant seaman, had not worked for several weeks in order to be with his daughter during her last days.

Chances of any real party for Susan seemed slight.

Wide Reaction

On Tuesday, the AFRO published a story citing Susie King's pitiful plight. Particular attention was paid to the child's last

School disturbers face jail terms

A solemn warning that youngsters involved in school disturbances face jail terms beginning Oct. 1 was issued Tuesday by Magistrate E. Everett Lane in Northwestern police court.

Magistrate Lane sounded the warning as he fined two youths $25 each on charges of disturbing the peace at Booker T. Washington junior high school. School officials testified that they found the pair raising a ruckus at the school earlier in the day.

Fined were William E. Pulley, 1000 block Shellbank rd., Cherry Hill, and Robert A. Lance, 1300 block N. Carey st.

Magistrate Lane said the youths might have been sent to jail if the charge against them had been disorderly conduct.

A crackdown on juvenile disturbances in and near schools has begun as the result of several lunch-money shakedown cases involving small school children and older youths.

Lester C. Hudgins and Lt. William A. Harris.

Two other officers who were not invited to the meeting because of their previous stand against segregation are Major Melvin H. Cade and Capt. James H. Gilliam.

Deportation warrant out on Scarlett

WASHINGTON—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. announced, Tuesday, that a deportation warrant has been served on Austine Scarlett, 51, Baltimore racketeer in the Maryland State Penitentiary at Baltimore.

The warrant is based on a charge of illegal entry. A detainer was filed simultaneously with Maryland authorities to insure his coming into custody of the Immigration and Naturalization Service when he completes his sentence under a Maryland state conviction.

Scarlett, who has an arrest record dating back to 1928, was convicted in Maryland State court, May 28, 1952 on a conspiracy charge and sentenced to seven years imprisonment.

Lyric refuses to book Marian Anderson recital

Alleged fear of being involved in a racial issue has prevented the Lyric Theatre from engaging colored artists to appear on its stage, it was revealed this week by R. E. Lee Marshall, counsel for the theatre.

Mr. Marshall's statement was made as results of an effort of the Baltimore Fellowship, an interracial group, to arrange for Marian Anderson, celebrated contralto, to sing at the theatre, next January.

According to Mrs. Mae Gellman, executive secretary, the Fellowship wrote on Aug. 14, to Frederick B. Huber, manager of the Lyric, requesting any date between Jan. 5 and Jan. 8, 1954. Mr. Huber replied that none of the dates was open.

However, further investigation by the group disclosed that no booking has been made for Jan. 8. Mrs. Gellman told the AFRO, adding that Mr. Huber still refused to give them date with no reason.

Send Second Letter

A second letter was sent to Morton M. Prentis, president of the board of the Lyric, by a member of the fellowship group, complaining of the segregation policy of the theatre.

In a written reply, Mr. Marshall stated:

"The Board of Directors has no interest, as such, in controversies over racial issues. As clearly indicated in your letter, the booking of the theatre for performances by (colored) artists or casts would involve the Lyric in such a controversy.

"For this reason, the policy of the Lyric is not to make such a booking."

The Governor's Commission on Interracial Problems has been working unsuccessfully for eight months to persuade the theatre to change its policy, the members asserted.

Wednesday, the Commission charged that the theatre has never allowed colored artists to

POW recalls 800-mile trek

Says Commys had nothing to give

By HERB MANGRUM

After surviving an 800-mile "death march," 18 months in a Korean POW camp, and a carefully laid escape plan that failed, a youthful regular army sergeant, came home Saturday, firm in his conviction that "the Communist have nothing to offer."

For Sgt. 1/C Charles Lide of the 1700 block Riggs ave., the roundabout journey home started near Wonsa in February, 1951 when 1,000 GI's were set afoot, and ended with his release on Aug. 31 at Panmunjom.

Out of the 1,000 Americans who started on the journey in which approximately 150 colored noncomissioned officers were included, only a "handful" survived, the 24-year-old artillery soldier, declared, at his home Thursday.

Enemy Overran Position

Captured while directing fire on a Korean hillside position, Sgt. Lide in relating events leading to his capture said his position was overrun "within minutes" after an infantry company fell back.

Chief of a firing battery for A-company of the 203, he said, that only a few men in his unit were able to make their escape on foot. Most of them were killed, he declared, and on the 800-mile march, many were never seen again.

"We never had a chance to get out," Sgt. Lide stated, "and on the 11th, after covering our area with mortar fire, the Communists swarmed over us."

All Officers Killed

With all of the officers and most of the non-coms killed and wounded, Sgt. Lide was the highest ranking non-com to survive the initial ordeal.

His first direct contact with an enemy soldier came on the following morning when a heavily clad Chinese pointed a machine pistol in his direction and motioned for him to raise his hands.

Before surrendering, however,
