Baha'i convention convenes in India

West went East in New Delhi, India Wednesday as members of the universal religion, the Baha'i Faith, gathered from all parts of the world for a nine day intercontinental conference.

It is believed to be the first time in the history of religion that a major conference drawing delegates from all parts of the world has been held in the East.

The meeting is the fourth in a series of intercontinental conferences marking the Holy Year of the Baha'i Faith.

The close of the conference on Oct 15 will coincide with the close ofthe Holy Year which began October 15, 1952. The year commemorates the 100th anniversary of the Revelation which came to Baha'u'llah, founder of the Faith, indicating his future mission as the promised prophet of all religions.

Mother of 8 convicted for slaying of husband

A 36-year-old mother of eight children was convicted for the slaying of her 35-year-old husband, July 3, in criminal court, Wednesday.

Mrs. Rena Brewton, of the 700 block W. Fayette st., was found guilty of second degree murder. Judge Joseph L. Carter withheld sentence, pending a report from the probation department.

Mrs. Brewton shot her husband, James, on the same day he had been released from the House of Correction where he had been serving a one - year term for cutting her in September, 1952.

Wrote Threatening Letters

The mother testified that during his imprisonment he had written her threatening letters which frightened her.

In one communication, he wrote: "I think I did a good job on you after all." Mrs. Brewton read aloud, telling the court that she was certain he was referring to the knifing incident which caused her to have 110 stitches taken in her abdomen.

Mrs. Brewton said she knew her husband had been released the day of the slaying, and for that reason had armed herself with a gun before leaving the house.

"I was going to 650 W. Saratoga st., to see Peete about some money for my children," she said, adding that Peete had been helping her financially while her husband was in prison.

Police identified Earl Peete, of the 700 block W. Fayette st., as being a boyfriend of Mrs. Brewton.

Husband Had Knife

"I called for Peete," Mrs. Brewton continued, "but my husband came out instead with a knife in his hand. I was too scared to run, so I took out the gun and fired one shot at him. Then I went home."

The mother's testimony was verified by Peete who told the court that he saw Brewton pull a scout knife from under his shirt and start up the stairs.

Both men were in a private "club" at the Saratoga st. address, in the basement.

"I heard the shot and rushed upstairs and saw Brewton lying on the sidewalk," Peete said, adding that he found the knife an hour later in the street.

Brewton was shot directly in the face and rushed to University hospital where he died July 5.

Port back in business after five day strike

A ten day federal injunction under the Taft-Hartley law put the Baltimore waterfront back in business Tuesday after a five day tie up.

Activity on the strikebound front was resumed during the early morning hours. All ports on the Atlantic coast were affected by the walkout which cost Baltimore "millions of dollars."

At least 21 cargo vessels were tied up here when the strike began and more than 5,000 employees were made idle.

Hearing Scheduled

A hearing to determine if it is advisable to extend the injunction for 80 days is scheduled to be held Tuesday. The battle centers in New York.

Another battle is shaping up between the International Longshoremans Association and a rival organization of the same name set up by the AFL.

At the heighth of the strike Jefferson Davis of Baltimore, international vice president of the longshoremen was hospitalized in North Carolina. The labor leader was ordered given the services of a chartered plane and the "best of care."

Porters' Los Angeles parley draws train of 300

LOS ANGELES, Calif.— What was perhaps one of the most unique special convention trains arrived in Los Angeles Sunday with more than 300 delegates and friends of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters for the union's first triennial convention and twenty - eighth anniversary convention.

For three days and three nights the seventeen all - Pullman car train was the scene of merriment and numerous activities en route west from Chicago. The convention - bound delegates spent an extensive sightseeing trip in Denver, Colo., and an all - day stop in Salt Lake City, Utah. For many aboard, it was their first trip west of St. Louis.

The railroads, the Chicago Burlington and Quincy, the Denver Rio Grande and Western, and the Union Pacific, combined to provide service for the three-day trip.

The delegates arrived in Los Angeles in time for the opening of the convention with a public mass meeting which was addressed by A. F. of L. President George Meany, Philip Randolph, international president of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; M. P. Webster, Brotherhood vice president and Mrs. Halena Wilson, the international president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' Ladies' auxiliary.

President sends porters greetings

LOS ANGELES, Calif. —President Dwight D. Eisenhower told the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Tuesday that the union "can be proud of its 28-year record of leadership struggles for human dignity and freedom, as well as for economic progress."

From the White House the President expressed the opinion that the first triennial convention and twenty - eighth anniversary celebration of the organization will prove an inspiration to all its members.

The President's message was received by the 500 delegates here in Los Angeles from 117 cities in the United States and Canada. The message was addressed to A. Philip Randolph, international president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Fall from arms of brother, 9, fatal to baby

A three-week-old baby died early Wednesday morning from injuries suffered when he fell from his 9-year-old brother's arms last Sunday.

Mrs. Thelma Smith, 704 Sarah Ann st., mother of the dead child, told Southwestern district police that the older boy, Herbert, was holding the baby while she was doing other work around the house.

In some manner the baby, Bruce, slipped from Herbert's grasp, and fell, striking his head on the floor. The mother said she picked up the howling baby, but could find no discernible injuries.

Tuesday afternoon, however, the baby became ill and cried as if in intense pain. Mrs. Smith rushed the child to Johns Hopkins hospital where he was admitted for treatment.

Shortly after 1 o'clock, Wednesday morning, the baby was pronounced dead.

Morgan grad suffers total loss of voice

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

INSIDE OUR LOCKER ROOM
by JUNIOR GILLIAM
STAR ROOKIE OF THE BROOKLYN DODGERS
Ever see a major-league locker room after a game? Maybe you've seen pictures of one. Man, it's something. If we win, it's full of noise, horseplay and smoke. If we lose, it's full of smoke.
Most of the guys light up a cigarette soon as they come in. It eases things up, 'specially after a tough one. I know, myself—I've usually got a Lucky lighted a couple of seconds after I've opened my locker.
Why a Lucky? That's tough to say. The other day one of the guys asked me why I wear the kind of sports coats I do. I guess they're a little on the bright side. Well, I had no answer, so I just told him I like 'em. That's why I smoke Luckies, too. I like 'em.
I don't know as anybody can tell exactly why he likes one smoke more than another kind. It's pretty much all a matter of taste. I've liked Luckies—you know, the way they taste, the way they smoke—since I broke into the minors. As far as that taste goes, I don't think there's another smoke can touch 'em.
Inside Story on Luckies
We believe—and Junior Gilliam obviously agrees—that smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. And once you've tried Luckies, we think you, too, will agree they taste better.
Two facts tell why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . fine, light, mild tobacco. Second, Luckies are made better to taste better . . . always round and firm to smoke freely and easily.
So, why not get the enjoyment that only better taste can give you. Be Happy—Go Lucky. Remember, Luckies are made by The American Tobacco Company, America's leading manufacturer of cigarettes.
COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY
