Preston choir has first anniversary

PRESTON, Md.—The first anniversary celebration of the Maryland Harmonets of Coppins AME church was held recently, with a large audience in attendance.

Among the choirs appearing were: the Twilight Jubilees, Rodgley choir, Mt. Pleasant choir, Johns chorus, Bethel choir Elder James chorus, Elder Cofa: chorus and others.

Alfred Shockley of Darby, Pa. and Curry Shockley of Wilmington, recently visited their sister, Mrs. Naomi H. McGlotton of Preston.

Along the Avenue

One of the most popular acts in town is Benny Washington and his Four Notes currently holding down the feature spot at East Baltimore's CLUB ORLEANS.

Ben, a local boy, is a comparative newcomer to the professional entertainment field, but already his technique with a song has stamped him as a rising young singer, and has also proven that he made the right the race tracks to the stage.

move when he switched from

For several years Ben was employed by one of the major racing stables and did singing but for the kicks, until the day that he decided the grass was greener in another career.

Over on the avenue, Johnny Sparrow and his Bows and Arrows have been held over for another week at the COMEDY CLUB, which means that the house will be rocking like mad this weekend.

The star-studded show at GAMBY'S has also been held over and three shows are on tap Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 10, 11:30 and 12:45 a.m. It has been a long time since all this talent has been on display on the same show and the fast paced revue leaves little to be desired.

Serving as masterr of ceremonies is the irrible George Craft, always entertaining, with songs that jump from start to finish. Also on the bill are Andre King and Ann Moon, sensational Afro-Cuban dancers, Poke and Moke, The Toppers, Pat Allen and Jerome Berry.

On Sunday at 4 p.m. the American Sportsmen are holding a cocktail party at GAMBY'S, an event that should prove enjoyable for lucky ticket holders.

Across the street, the CASINO will come up with another top flight act on Monday, with the presentation of Frank Motley, the man who plays two trumpets at the same time. Examples of his talents can be heard on a number of the local juke boxes, and in person he is even better.

Uptown at the RED FOX ROOM, Pennsylvania and Fulton aves., the Lou Bennett Trio is returning this weekend after a stay in Cleveland. One of the coziest spots in town, the RED FOX is becoming one of the top gathering spots on the night patrol.

Jerry and his Tom Cats, a four-piece outfit that offers something new in music, has been held over at Carter's EL CAPITAN, Payson and Mosher sts.

The ever popular PHIL'S COCKTAIL LOUNGE is holding over the Varitones for another week, while the KNOTTY PINE CLUB keeps rolling with the Esquires, and the CLUB ASTORIA holds on to the Metronaires.

JONES COCKTAIL LOUNGE will greet the weekend with a new outfit, Charles Beckles and his Peptones.

Patrons of the SILVER DOLLAR at Fremont and Laurens sts., are in for a treat on Monday at 9 p.m., when Col. James Pepper shows up for a personal appearance. The club has recently undergone a face lifting job that makes it a place to visit.

Morgan presents radio programs

Two weekly half-hour shows over station WITH were inaugurated this week by Morgan College.

The first broadcast, a religious presentation, was heard Sunday, Nov. 1 from 5:30 to 6 p.m and featured the Rev. Howard L. Cornish, director of the Morgan Christian Center, and the college choir, directed by Mrs. Dorothy H. Banks.

The broadcast is being presented under sponsorship of the Purex Company through its president, Bruce M Fine, and will be heard every Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

Chorale Scheduled

The second show in this series will be presented Sunday, Nov. 8 and will again feature the Rev. Mr. Cornish delivering the address, and music by the Baltimore Chorale.

The other half-hour show, which will regularly feature Morgan groups, was broadcast Tuesday, Nov. 3 from 9 to 9:30 p.m. and featured the college band, directed by R. Hayes Strider and the Morgan choir.

The second show in this series will be heard, Tuesday, Nov. 10

NEW YORK CITY STAMP

The post office department will issue a 3-cent stamp to commemorate the 300th anniversary of New York City on Nov. 20. This special stamp is being issued in conjunction with the 3-day National Postage Stamp Show at the 71st Infantry Regiment Armory, which is sponsored by the American Stamp Dealers Association.

BOYS' CHOIR CONCERT

The Baltimore Boys' Choir will be presented in concert by the Gaiding Light Circle at St. Matthew Methodist church, 5 p.m. on Nov. 22. The Rev. F. F. King is pastor.

'First Run' Films of The Week in Review

"MOGAMBO" PLAYS THE HARLEM

"Mogambo," new MGM offering starring Clark Gable and Ava Gardner on the Harlem screen, has everything a moviegoer could wish for in the way of romance, thrill-packed adventure and wonderous backgrounds of the fauna and flora of Africa filmed in Technicolor.

This drama of an expedition leader who becomes involved in a triangular romance with an American show girl and the wife of an English anthropologist who accompany him on a safari through the gorilla country was filmed on a four-month location trip through 10,000 miles of territory in British East Africa and French Equatorial Africa, much of it never photographed before.

PLAYS THE MET

A story from the headlines which have shocked the American public is featured in Warner Bros.' "The System," now at the Met Theatre. With Frank Lovejoy and Joan Weldon sharing the top rolts, Warner Bros. has teamed two of its fastest rising stars in a melodrama about the operations of illegal gambling and its consequences.

Lovejoy noted in the past for his hard-hitting characterizations, plays the role of a racket kingpin who runs the gambling activities of a big city, behind the facade of a legitimate business.

"SO BIG" AT CARVER PLAYHOUSE

"So Big," adapted from the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Edna Ferber, comes to the screen of the Carver Playhouse beginning Friday.

It is from the prolific pen of Miss Ferber that some of Hollywood's most compelling story material has come. "Saratoga Trunk," "Stage Door" and "Show Boat" are but a few in the class that "So Big," the dramatic family story of a woman of the soil, now joins.

Filmed by Warner Bros. with a starring cast that includes Academy Award winner Jane Wyman, Sterling Hayden and Nancy Olson, "So Big" as a book has become a perennial best-seller.

REGENT HOLDS OVER "HE ROBE"

Continuing for a second record-shattering week at the Regent Theatre is "The Robe," the first motion picture in the new process of CinemaScope, which comprises anamorphic lenses, stereophonic sound and panoramic, curved Miracle Mirror screen and is seen without use of special glasses.

The Lloyd Douglas masterpiece has received the greatest reviews awarded a motion picture in many years, and unprecedented crowds have been storming the theatre since its opening, as they have wherever 'The Robe" and Cinema-Scope have been shown.

Stars of "The Robe" are Richard Burton, Jean Simmons, Victor Mature and Michael Rennie. The huge cast also includes Jay Robinson, Dean Jagger, Torin Thatcher, Richard Boone, and Betta St. John. Frank Ross produced the film, and Henry Koster directed from a screen play by Philip Dunne. The 20th Century-Fox picture is in color by Technicolor.

"SINS OF JEZEBEL" PLAYING NEW ALBERT

How the wicked Phoenician princess Jezebel manipulated men and rocked a mighty kingdom is bared in the spectacular love story, "Sins of Jezebel," Lipert Pictures presentation in new Ansco color at the New Albert Theatre with Paulette in the title role.

George Nader is cast as Jehu, the young army officer who succumbs to Jezebel's charms, then leads a revolt against her evil reign. Other males numbered among the siren's victims are Edward Franz, as the weakling King Ahab, and John Shelton, as Jezebel's frustrated counsellor, while John Hoyt plays the prophet Elijah, who forcasts the doom of Jezebel's regime.

'FESTIVAL' AT COLISEUM:

Music lovers to witness Kenton, Christy reunion

The inaugural presentation of "The Festival of Modern American Jazz" which will be at the Coliseum here tomorrow (Saturday) evening, brings about the long awaited reunion of June Christy with Stan Kenton's band.

June will sing the songs that made her famous when she was the featured vocalist with the Kenton orchestra.

The festival will be under the direction of Kenton and will be a yearly presentation featuring the leading proponents of modern jazz.

Garner, Gillespie Great

The current all-star festival embraces a combination of America's favorite modern musicians. They include Erroll Garner and Dizzy Gilespie.

Garner is a genuine paradox, a versatile stylist, whom nobody has ever been able to imitate successfully; so versatile that listeners often fail to identify him.

His languid ballad style has captivated the admiration of the American public, on records, in night clubs, in concert halls, but this self-taught young man from Pittsburgh, Pa., also plays with a brilliant drive, with fantastic enthusiasm, that convinces all that here is really a genius of the instrument.

Gillespie has become a national fad. And it is only natural tha. Dizzy should hold star billing on this concert. Every young trumpet player in every band, large or small, seems to be on a Dizzy Gillespie kick. Famous men like Coleman Hawkins, as well as obscure musicians, are now playing Dizzy's ideas.

Four Copies

In Woody Herman's band four trumpet players do a whole series of Gillespie gyrations in unison. Jazz men copy not only Dizzy's music, but even his laugh and odd half bent posture and his little goatee which Dizzy claims helps keep his lips strong.

Stan Getz, who holds tenor sax honors in the Festival, has one of the soundest sounds in today's music. Possessed of a phenomenal musical memory, Stan first came to recognition while he was with Jack Teagarden.

Gaillard, Candido

The next star on "The Festival," Slim Gaillard, has developed a very unusual routine full of progressive sounds with an interspersing of comedy.

And to round out the show, there's bongo man, Candido. When you watch Candido, you are witnessing the most exciting demonstration of rhythm making that you have ever seen.

The nimble fingers of Candido are as fast as a humming bird's wings. He wears socks on his hands to keep them warm between his appearances on stage. His big strong hands are patched with tape at the joints where the skin has broken and worn through.

Candido all alone on the stage is a production number.

Village trombonist new Morgan 'find'

NEW YORK — Loumell Morgan, who continues to hold forth at Arthur's Cafe in Greenwich Village, is introducing a wealth of fresh talent through the medium of his improvised jam sessions there.

Dunham dancers excite Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (ANP)—That the run of internationally noted Katherine Dunham and her 24 dancers increased the growing desire for the return of stage shows in Hollywood was revealed last week at the United Artists theatre.

All who attended went away thrilled and sounding the praises of the gorgeous beautiful costumes, varied, unusual choreography, and beautiful music.

This was the first time a show has been presented on the stage of the United Artist theatre in the heart of the downtown shopping district since the early 20's.

MORGAN DANCERS

The Morgan State college dancers, under the leadership of Miss Dorothy B. Phelps, physical education teacher, appeared recently at the Booker T. Washington junior high school.
