Church women in limelight Enon Baptist cites twelve

—with Lula Jones Garrett

"Twas truly a high week for church women on the local front.

Members of the Baptist Ministers' Wives' Alliance met on Saturday for their annual oneday conference, studied the city's social welfare set up in morning session, had a social hour and then tucked themselves beneath board for a swank luncheon after noon.

More than 300 hundred women of St. James Episcopal church parish communed at eight a.m. Sunday and broke bread together at nine.

And at Enon Baptist church, a whole day of services marked their Women's Day observance, which ended with a delightful fellowship tea at five. At the latter, church women cited 12 women for "outstanding contributions to the community." Highlighted with music by Mrs. Agnes Gibson, Mrs. Bessie Poindexter and Mrs. Esther Lewis, scores of guests were introduced to the honorees and served from flower enhanced, lace covered and silver laden tables.

Mrs. Parrott

The honorees were:

Mrs. Bertha E. Johnson, who has been engaged in church work for more than a half century; Mrs. Katie R. Williams, the city's one feminine licensed mortician; Mrs. Vivian Alleyne, civic and social worker, and recently elected executive director of the non-partisan Voters League; Mrs. Elizabeth Dobbins, oldest member of Enon church; Mrs. Violet H. Whyte, social worker and much-cited police officer; Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney; Mrs. Nannie Gibbs, political worker;

Mrs. Lillian Parrott, special assistant to the assistant superintendent of city schools; Dr. N. Louise Young, M.D.; Mrs. Odell W. Payne, wife of the pastor of Enon, and an outstanding city school teacher; Mrs. Lula Patterson, woman's editor of the AFRO-AMERICAN newspapers.

A posthumous citation went to the late Mrs. Lula S. Richardson, church woman and—fraternal leader.

Introductions of the honorees were made by Mesdames Corrinea Willis, Florence Gardner, Verda Welcome, Gertrude J. Corbett, Audrey Crawford, Katrine Whyte, Victorine Adams, Ethel Hucles, Augusta Chissell, Evelena Henderson, Catherine Adams and Chailey Scott, respectively.

Mrs. Parrott made the acceptance speech for the group of honorees.

Mrs. Evelyn Lindsay presided. Mesdames Rosetta Butler and Mrs. Florence Morman were co-chairmen of the tea committee, with the program being arranged by Mrs. Charlotte R. Marshall. Mrs. Alice R. Matthews was chairman of Women's Day. Mrs. Odell Payne was speaker at the morning services.

And come this Sunday, Circle No. 11 of Douglas Memorial Community church, will hold a "service of recognition" in honor of Mrs. Mamie A. Douglas, widow of the founder of the church, the Rev. Frederick Douglas.

CHRISTENING PARTY

Bettye and Frank Phillips and daughter, Marie, invited godparents, relatives and a few friends to the Morgan Park home of her parents, the Carl Murphys, Sunday afternoon, following baptism of their son, Benjamin, at St. James church.

Present were Mr. Phillips' mother Mrs. Mary E. Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Lansey and Priscilla, Yvonne, Gaines and Frank Lansey; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips, and Laura, Irving and Henry Phillips 3rd, Edward Smith and Carl and Vashti Smith;

Mrs. Frances Wood, and Frances and James Wood; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews, and Robert, Betty, Yvonne and Rodger Matthews; Mrs. John Oliver and Marilyn and John Oliver, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy 3rd, and Danny and Sharon Murphy.

Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Knox and Billy and Karen Knox of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murphy, and daughter, Katherine; Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Byrd and Gene and Erle Byrd; Mr. and Mrs. George Lottier, and Virginia, June, George and Sadie Lottier;

Also, Mesdames Mae Dyson, Sadie and Marie Murphy; Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Lee; Dr. and Mrs. Louis E. Harmon; Dr. U. G. Bourne Jr.

And, Messrs. and Mesdames Freddie Howard, James Murphy, Shelton Coles, David Wright and James Denkins.

MOMS MEET

The "We Moms" gathered at Anna Smith's Bentalou street home on Saturday evening to complete plans for a supper party to be given later in the season.

They also named a committee to map out plans to aid several needy families at Christmas time. Three new members welcomed at the meeting were Ruth Sampson, Mari Coles and Minerva Williams.

The bunch enjoyed a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. They marveled how Anna did it all, pastry included, with two very small fry about.

Those of the eighteen "Moms" present were:

REAL DOLL—Bernadette Norris celebrated her first birthday at a party at the home of her godmother, Mrs. Marie Compton, recently.

Neonta Corbin, Thelma Ruffin, Marion Ampney, Thelma Thompson, Pauline Armstrong, Jeanette Johnson, Cathleen Newsome, Leona Ferrell, Vinessa Porter, Mae Cornish, Anna Smith and the three new members.

Other members included Lucille Williams, Bernice Turner, and Patricia Holtsclaw.

PORTRAIT UNVEILED

The Baltimore Council of Negro Women sponsored a preview of a portrait of Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, president emeritus of the National Council of Negro Women, Sunday, evening at the Civic League House.

Dr. Maybelle Weaver, presiding, introduced Mrs. Celmerine Mayo, who in turn, presented the artist, Mrs. Anna Beadenkopf.

Mrs. Beadenkopf stated that her object in painting the portrait is to encourage others in the work of the Council for which Dr. Bethune has worked so untiringly to promote. Her talk also included highlights of her visit with Dr. Bethune at Bethune-Cookman College when she sat for the portrait. Dr. Ralph Young spoke of the noble work of Dr. Bethune and Mrs. Beadenkopf on Human Relations. The Rev. Ward Yerby brought greetings to the council.

Following the viewing of the full portrait by the council members and a host of friends served with Mrs. Melva Green, pouring.

The League House and the beautiful tea table decorated by Mrs. Ruby Ramn and Mrs. Ada Smith.

The following persons plan to attend the formal presentation of the portrait at an installation dinner in Washington, Saturday, during the closing affair of the National Convention:

Dr. Maybell Weaver, Mrs. Jennie Goldring, Mrs. Alheder Wylie, Mrs. Anne Beadenkopf, Miss Mary Holley.

Mrs. Ruby M. Raun, Mrs. Virginia Grey, Mrs. Catherine Mayo, Mrs. Melva Green, and Mrs. Ada Smith.

CREOLES ENTERTAIN

Colorful no end was the benefit party ("An Evening of Gaiety," they called it) given by the Creoles club members at the Sphinx club, Sunday evening, which was attended by more than 300 guests.

Each year the girls have a party of this kind, garnering funds with which to purchase needs for Crownsville hospital. They have been providing these gifts for six years, now. Last year furnishing radios and televisions.

Enhancing the party were hostesses in luscious costumes, including:

Rosita Uncles, president, in the garb of a princess from Calcutta, India; Alease Jones, vice-president, in Mexican costume, sold hot shrimp; Geraldine Smith, acting secretary, representing "Gay Paree"; Willie Valentine, financial secretary, in black lace mantilla, et al, typically Spanish;

Hazel Owens, treasurer, represented Brazil and wore a very colorful headdress covered with tropical fruit; Ada Smith, business manager, represented India; Margaret Durham, chaplain, was a Japanese princess, and Peggy Berry, in an Italian folk dress, sold pizza pies.

Throughout the evening music was rendered by Rivers Chambers' orchestra. Oliver Travers was soloist. Of course the proverbial "hot dog" made its appearance throughout the evening.

At the culmination of the affair, Charles Tilghman, proprietor of the club, presented a monetary contribution to the Creoles for Crownsville hospital. The Creoles are head over heels in gratitude to Mr. Tilghman for his generosity. The absence of Mrs. Mamie Burke, secretary, who is very ill and in University hospital, was keenly felt by all of the members who sent her wishes for a speedy recovery.

PEREGRINATORS

Members of the new Union Memorial Methodist church were no end tickled Sunday, when their "Family and Friends' Day" turned up those talented members of their pastor's (the Rev. N. B. Carrington) family.

Here from Central State college, Wilberforce, Ohio, was Dr. Leona Carrington Lane; and from Philadelphia, the musical Carrington brothers, George and Jerome and 39 other relatives, from as far away as Texas.

The town's two busiest women, Vivian Alleyne and Verda Welcome, will not be bustling around the heath, this week end. Both being national officers are attending sessions of the National Council of Women's convention in Washington.

But back on the home front is the former Rachel Hatcher whose whirlwind romance with John A. Patton of Indianapolis, Ind. resulted in marriage last April, and ended in divorce last week.

She's house guest of Dr. and Mrs. William Watts, while ten-

Morgan group dinner guests

"And a good time was had by all."

That's the way Morgan State college personnel are describing the first dinner meeting of the college's chapter of the Maryland Classified Employees Association, held recently in the Memorial Refectory.

Led by new MCEA local president, Mrs. Patricia Spaulding, approximately 75 classified employees attended the dinner meeting which was followed by a fashion show featuring the Carson Models.

Novelty gifts were given to two newly promoted chapter members, Sylvester Jones and Miss Mary Hudson, and to chapter members celebrating November birthdays.

In this group are Frederick R. Culp, Gertrude B. Rogers, Jeanette C. Sherman, Margaret R. Sinclair, Mary S. Smith, Doris L. Turner, Mary A. Ward, James H. Welling, Johnnie Mae Brooks, James C. Rich and Herschell Mallory.

A gift was also presented to Miss Chattie Martin, nurse, who resigned from the staff to be married.

Show Participants

Fashion show participants were: Misses Johnnie Mae Brooks, Georgia Newby, Willia Bland, Lucille Kane, Mary Jones, Hallie Watkins, and Lois Lyas.

Clarence L. Carter, director and instructor at the school, introduced the models. Mrs. Frances Taylor was the commentator.
