Roxboro school forms 75-voice choral unit

ROXBORO, N. C. — The music department of the Roxboro elementary school recently organized for the school year with the formation of a chorale club with approximately 75 voices, under the direction of Miss Geraldine P. Dillard.

This department plans to organize a rhythm band in the primary grades.

NEW YORK (GLOBAL) — Louis Gossett, star of "Take a Giant Step" is a modest young man with a great deal of talent. He turns in a first-rate performance as an adolescent boy standing on the brink of adulthood. Wonder what's the next step for him.

He should be on his way to the top, but vehicles are hard to find for the colored actor who plays real drama. Such talent shouldn't be wasted on minor roles. Here's hoping his future will be bright.

Incidentally, Maxine Sullivan dropped out on doctor's orders just before the play opened.

'Born Yesterday' comedy in Baltimore, Nov. 25

Glamorous Edna Mae Robinson will be seen as Billie Dawn, the ex-chorus girl with more glamour than grammar, and Powell Lindsay will be playing the roughneck war-profiteer who thinks the donation of a mink coat has given him a lifetime claim on her, in "Born Yesterday," at the Coliseum, Nov. 25.

These are the coveted roles that first catapulted Judy Holliday and Paul Douglas to stardom and film fame when the three-act comedy began its fabulous four-year run in NYC.

This Garson Kanin comedy tells how a junk-dealer grown fabulously rich and overbearing through wartime deals, comes to the most expensive suite in Washington to make sure that the senator on his payroll—puts through the legislation he wants for his greedy plans.

Snipe At Each Other

He brings, along with his permanently drunk lawyer and a few other assorted snobbies, a brassy trollop he extracted from a chorus-line, and the crafty sniping of these two at each other provides some of the most jovially amusing lines of the modern stage.

The main plot shows the results of the bullying junkman's decision to make his feminine companion more presentable (or his social contacts by having a high-brow magazine writer tutor her.

Henry Scott, who played opposite Barbara Bel Geddes in "Deep Are The Roots," will have the writer's role.

She Educates Him

He teaches Billie Dawn some big words and small graces, while she educates him along other lines.

The Coliseum showing, being brought to Baltimore by Biddy Wood and Charlie Tilghman, will be the premiere of the revival of the play. There will be one showing—at 8:30 p.m.

The star of the show, Edna Mae Robinson, is in real life, the wife of ex-boxing champ Sugar Ray Robinson.

The show has signed Al Saxe, noted Broadway director for the final weeks of directions. He was last on Broadway as assistant director of "Mrs. McThing" which starred Helen Hayes.

Rating the RECORD

One such disc heard this week was an LP album by Teddy Wilson, the peer of jazz pianists Entitled "The Didactic Mr. Wilson," the album of eight tunes gives a completely satisfying picture of why Sir Wilson remains a great figure in the jazz world.

According to Webster's didactic means "teacher" or "professor," and such an adjective quite aptly describes the artist, who as one of the original figures in jazzdom's inner circle, has had such a tremendous influence on the medium. For one thing, he is the original "cool" one, as is demonstrated by his relaxed and orderly approach. His ideas are well conceived and carry their point with ease and clarity.

Especially is his "cool" style evident on such items as "Darn That Dream," "Tea For Two," "Emaline," "All The Clouds Roll Away," "Everything Happens to Me," and "Tenderly." For swing stuff at a relatively faster pace are "Oh Lady Be Good" and "Liza." The rhythm on four sides are Buddy Rich, drums, and John Simmons, who also showed with Erroll Garner, the newest (relatively speaking) "Mr. Piano." For the other four, there are Denzil Best, drums; and Aaron Bell, bass (Clef).

While about the business of "cool" ones, we cannot bypass the "Pres," Lester Young, on an LP album waxed under Granz' supervision. This one, labeled "Lester Young Trio, Vol. 2," is the other half of a series waxed at a session which Granz called together and in which Buddy Rich again shows on drums, and Aye Guy is at the piano.

Baltimore Boys' Choir opens season in District

WASHINGTON

A capacity audience of over 400, greeted the Baltimore Boys' Choir Inc. and their conductor-founder William Meredith H. Birche Jr. as they opened their 13th concert season at Galbraith AME Zion church auditorium Sunday afternoon.

These young singers, long favorites of the Capital music-lovers, presented a diversified program of Chopin, Bach, Billings, Schubert, Handel, Gounod, Frank, Torovsky, Parrot, Loeser, and arrangements by Johnson, Wilson, Howorth, and Mr. Birche.

Soloists, for the occasion were the young Baltimore Sopranos, Helen Maria Armstrong who made her debut in 1951 with the "Boy" and Lilli Nelson, a new comer who, Mr. Birche stated in his remarks, "is making her first concert performance today."

Ensemble soloists were: James Balis, David McMillan, William Land, and Thomas Taylor. Richard G. Richardson Jr. was the percussionist.

Alyne Dumas Lee in new triumph

NEW YORK ANP) — Alyne Dumas Lee, soprano, returned last week for her second Town Hall appearance, and was greeted by an appreciative audience in an interesting program singularly devoid of songs in Italian and French.

The singer's voice traversed an exceptionally wide scale round and full at the bottom and richly opulent, oftimes thrilling at the top.

She chose for her opening number Purcell's "I Attempt From Love's Sickness to Fly," the Dido and Aeneas aria, "When I am Laid in Earth," and the well-known "Nymphs and Shepards."

Following these were Vier ernste Gesange (4 Serious Songs) by Brahms, based upon the Holy Scripture extracted from the 3rd, 4th and 41st (found only in the Latin version) chapters of Ecclesiastes: "Denn es gehet dem Menschen," "Ich wandte mich und sahe" and "O Tod, wie bitter bist du." the last of the 4 songs having been inspired by St. Paul's 1st Epistle to the Corinthians in which he philosophizes on faith, hope and charity: "Wenn ich

Moments Musical

By ADAH K. JENKINS

INKED BY NBC — Natalie Hinderas, was signed last week by the National Broadcasting Company to appear on a number of radio and television shows. This is the latest of a long series of triumphs for the talented young pianist.

Last week your reviewer had the opportunity of hearing a comparatively new female ensemble—Rose of Sharon Singers in their 3rd annual "Music at Eventide." A sizable audience at the Madison avenue YWCA enjoyed thoroughly the program of classic and semi-classic music.

The quintet is composed of three sopranos and two contraltos. All were attired in identical coral lace and tulle gowns and were quite a feast for the eyes. Their style of singing reflects the influence of some of the more popular television and radio ensembles.

Has Worked Hard

Juanita Davis who directs and accompanies the group, has evidently worked diligently and with the unfailing co-operation of the singers. Sunday's program covered a wide variety of compositions, such as Campbell-Tipton's "Spirit Flower," a Bach chorale, the spiritual "Little David," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and Rogr-Baldwin's "The Star." It is no small accomplishment to study and present music that covers such a broad [illegible] style and mode.

Ensemble or group performance requires much patient and serious rehearsal if it is to be at all effective. In addition to this, the development of the individual voice is most valuable to any choral group. The more highly developed each singer becomes the fewer basic difficulties the chorus will encounter and the more opportunity there will be to develop encouraging results of a high order in the ensemble.

Miss Ringgold Impresses

Soloists who assisted on the program included Hilda Ringgold, lyric soprano, Arthur Wagner, bass, Margaret Blake McRae, contralto, and Leroy Davis, tenor. Due to another commitment at the same hour the writer heard only two of the singers —Miss Ringgold and Mr. Davis. One was particularly impressed with the quality of voice both singers possess. They also presented their numbers with warmth and sympathy, yet not overdoing or falling into the trap of too much sentimentality.

The Rose of Sharon Singers include: Geneva M. Thomas, Catherine B. Middleton, Naelmer Staten, Idella M. Corbin and Juanita E. Heggie. They and the director, Mrs. Davis, are to be congratulated on presenting a dignified and enjoyable program of worthwhile music.

Comic Opera Set

Saturday, Nov. 14th at 11 a.m. at the Baltimore Museum of Art, 31st street and Wyman Park driveway: "The Music Masters" a short opera buffa (comic opera) by the 18th century Italian, Giovanni Pergolesi. The concert is sponsored by the Young Musicians Series and is the second Saturday morning affair this season for youngsters. Adults may attend only if accompanying children. There are no separate tickets available for the opera; although tickets for the entire series of 5 concerts may be purchased (at a very nominal fee) at the Musuem.

CLASSIC GUEST — Dinah Washington, queen of the juke box, who will be the featured artist at the Capital Classic dance at Turner's Arena tonight (Friday) and also be among the honored guests at the game at Griffith Stadium.

AT CONFERENCE — Miss Madeline Porter, contralto, from the American Theater Wing of New York, will sing at the National Council of Negro Women conference.

Mrs. Mildred Webb and Mrs. Jennie Lou Smith as they give a preview of the costumes that will be worn at the coming Flora Dora Girls' 4th annual cocktail party to be held at the Smalls Paradise, New York City, Sunday.

USO plans entertainment for 375 honor servicemen

Some 375 servicemen and women from Maryland camps will be honored at a USO GI dinner at the Emerson Hotel at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 30.

Among the honorees, selected on a merit basis, is Pfc. Hickman Dunn, stationed at the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood, Md. whose sponsor is Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State college.

Pfc. Dunn, 22, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunn of 45 Franklin st., South Bound Brook, N.J.

To Boost Morale

The objective, concurred in by the national USO headquarters, is to dramatize the need for civic acceptance of members of the armed forces during off-duty time.

"This organized effort is designed to make the service personnel feel they are welcome among the civilians, and to stimulate civilian activities whose purpose is to provide recreations and diversion for the members of the armed forces.

Civic leaders, as well as the heads of the military, have long been aware of the critical problem of morale created among service men and women when there is little effort toward planned recreational activities in areas adjacent to military installations.

Celebrities Expected

The Baltimore entertainment program is the special project of the executive director of the Baltimore USO, Francis J. Cross. Through this activity he hopes to establish a pattern for a national plan.

Celebrities and stars of the entertainment world, civic leaders and high-ranking officers of the military will be special guests of honor at the dinner.

The sponsoring committee is headed by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr., with the assistance of General Henry C. Evans, chairman of the Baltimore USO Committee.

Music Bureau concert lists noted soprano

The Bureau of Music announced this week that the well known soprano, Fannie S. Newton, will be the guest soloist at the concert to be given in the auditorium of the Douglass High school on December 4.

Miss Newton is a graduate of music from Howard university and has appeared in concerts not only in Baltimore, but in many states as far as Texas. In addition to her concert work, Miss Newton is a teacher of voice.

Several years ago this young lyric soprano appeared at one of the combined outdoor concerts given by the Bureau of Music and won the acclaim of the large audience attending.

The Baltimore City Orchestra and Chorus under the direction of Harrison M. Dodd will also appear on the program.
