Philadelphians guests as Mrs. Bando hosts

with Lulu Jones Garrett

That delightful Philadelphia club, the D.A.'s (they keep the name a secret, but I pried) came down for their annual guesting with Thelma Bando (she's dean of woman at Morgan State) to have a gourmet's dream of a holiday dinner ere settling down to an evening of pinochle.

That is, all but her guests turned to cards.

The guests, Mabel Turner (she's a smart little Quaker City attorney, and as cute as she is smart) and I, batted conversation about when she wasn't doing score-keeping duties. And such a batch of information I gathered, particularly about Philadelphia's family and children welfare problems, in which she has a special interest.

Maud Woodland, of this town, was also a guest, lending both her wit and looks to upping the zestiest of the affair. Were the smartest pair of shoes, black suede, subdued brilliant trimmed, craftily strapped, that I've seen in a moon. But then, shoes are a hobby with her. "Would be with me too, if I had the feet and gams of that chick!

Thelma had banked her beautifully embroidered lined and sterling bedecked table with chrysanthemums in many colors. Offered the whole of traditional Thanksgiving dinner, after the serving of subtle cocktails.

There for the session were Members Nora Norman, Josie Atkins, Lucite Mitchell, Margaret Fisher, Gladys Delvin, Ruby Smith, Myrtle Windham, India Lee (a particularly charming gal who came up from the South, conquered the East) Minnie Mills, Vera Hunt, Freddie Rodrique and Nancy Yancey.

GOLFERS PLAY

If the calories bulge in other places than on my balance sheet, don't blame me. Blame those folks who are throwing turkey dinners around so profligately.

Take, for instance, the Pitch and Putt club, who held their awards dinner at the Kleeco Club Saturday night.

In their best bibs and tuckers (and a likely bunch of bibelots they have, too, being gals known equally well for how to put on a frock as to putt a golf ball) they garnered husbands and escorts, sipped a highball while gathering, then dived into turkey and fixings ere dispensing trophies.

'Twas a very gay party, interspersed with some serious moments while Doris Parker told of the past doings and future aims of the group; while William Dixon urged them to renewed civic responsibilities, and while John H Murphy Jr., kept the whole uproarious with his puns and pranks.

Mr. Murphy awarded the swelliest batch of trophies, which had been donated by L. B. Gatchy, who gave the trophy for club championship, which went to Marie E. Murphy, who is also club president; and Mr. Murphy, who donated three cups.

Goldie Watson was winner in C class, Mrs. Murphy, A class championship, made most progress during year; Minnie Davis, runner up in B class; Nettie Brown, runner-up in C class; Norma Staubs, winner in B class; Alma A. Arvins, most progress in beginners class, won first leg on trophy for person showing greatest progress; and Morphenia Winston, runner up in A class.

Others of the club about were Mamie M. Davis, Alice Tucker, Gloria Wilson, Helen Tilghman, Landow Houston, Mary Mack, Mildred Young, Armita Grinner, Lucille Brown, Lucille Monroe, Julie Porter, Allegra Taylor.

Their guests also included Louis Tucker, Robert Wallace, Edward Young, Parthenia Roberts, Walter H. Cook, Walter Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. James Dorsey.

Walter Tilghman, Hezekiah Davis, Harvey Polston, Milton Carr, Samuel Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Patterson, Mr. Fortune, Alonzo Willis, Milburn Woodson, Leroy Lindsey, Leroy Taylor, Damon Fulton and Walter Burke.

BRIDGE TEST

And about that bridge fest!

'Twas Saturday night at the home of Dolbert Harden, when eight tables, if you please, gathered for the affair, and, the majority of them in time to garner extra points for being on and ahead of time.

And there were also all kinds of snarky prizes, from money clips to cuff links, to say nothing of a well-filled snack, and other bar, and an adequate cuisine. This, of course, I was told, it being, of all things, a strictly stag affair.

But I hear that when the smoke had cleared away, the top gifts went to James Hite and William White, first prize; Frank Ellis and Robert Nerrie, second; and Wilbur Stewart and Harry Cummings, booby.

"Slam prizes were garnered by the Leonard Anderson-Yancey Whittaker and the Barnett Rhetts-Myles Robinson teams.

It also seems that prizes were offered to anyone bidding and making grand slams but that the only so-doers were members of the host club. Hence, no takers!

Playing were:

Drs. Barnett Rhetta, James Burke, Martin Jenkins, Richard McKinney, Clyde Dillard, Harold Delaney, George Spaulding, George Lancaster, Laws Nickens, Yancey Whittaker, Leonard Anderson;

Reginald Watts, John Procone, Francis Green, James Hite, Charles Micharels, Herbert Brown, Paul Harris, Myles Robinson.

Daniel Harris, Mickey McDaniels, William White, Robert Norris, Charles Wilson, Clifton Tarter, Edward Watson, Wilbut Stewart, Embra Bowie, Frank Ellis and Harry Cummings.

Members of the Double Pinesses, the club which gave the affair are Robert W. Matthews, Alfred Woolridge, Dolbert Harden, Mickey Robinson and Carter Wood.

EVENING OF POETRY

The annual open meeting of the Book-A-Month club, Friday evening, was exceptionally refreshing.

Members, and scores of guests, gathered in the auditorium of Coppin State Teachers College, to hear Mrs. Carolyn Hill Stewart in an evening of poetry and drama. Later they sauntered to a lower floor for refreshments.

Mrs. Stewart was introduced by Mrs. Winston Hunt. Mrs. Marian Johnson presided, and the group was welcomed by Dr. Miles Conner, member of the club and president of Coppin.

But I just had to exclaim when Mrs. Stewart's program turned out to be as utterly vivid as the club is utterly intellectual.

For instance, the artist's drama was confined chiefly to scenes from "A Street Car Called Desire." Her poetry tangled with Langston Hughes' "Simple Speaks His Mind," and ended with lines from "This Is My Beloved." Un. huh!

PETAL CROWN QUEEN

Miss Classie Gillis, winner of the popularity contest sponsored by Alpha Zeta chapter of Zeta Phi Beta sorority for the benefit of the scholarship fund, was crowned "Miss Autumn Harvest" at the YWCA on Friday night when the chapter was hostess to over two hundred guests at a card party. First prize of a radio phonograph combination was presented to Miss Gillis by Chuck Richards.

The second prize, a wrist watch, was received by Bettye Phillips, and the third prize, a camera, was presented to Ida Bazemore. The remaining contestants who received bracelets as prizes were Misses Dorothy Barnes, Rose Surratt, Margeurite Scales, Sonia Roden, Jean Pompay, and Shirley Noel.

Contestants and guests were entertained by the singing of Miss Junetta Jones and the interpretive dancing of Miss Gwendolyn Powell.

Soror Thelma Ashe, chairman of the contest, was assisted by Sorors Audrey Davis, Ethel Payne, and Mary Hurtt. Mayfortune is basileus of the chapter.

CHI WIVES MEET

Mesdames Thelma Bando and Maude Woodland entertained the Chi Delta Mu Wives at a buffet supper meeting, Monday night at the home of Mrs. Bando.

Members present were Mesdames Mamie Williams, Vassal Christmas, Delores Hunt, Mina Ann West, Elsie Harris, Charlotte Shervington, Alice Sykes, Maude Lee, Dorothy Hawkins and Bernice McDaniels.

The Wives are planning a post-Thanksgiving party for their husbands, Saturday.

Their project for the year will be gathering toilet articles to send to Henryton State hospital at Christmas.

POT-POURRI

Two delightful ladies celebrated birthdays last week. Mrs. George F. Bragg, widow of the former rector of St. James Episcopal church, was 80 years old. And Mrs. Martha Brown (she's the grandmother of Letitia Brown Ashe) ran her a close second by adding her 85th year.

Ruth Lighston is out of the hospital (having been under surgery at Johns Hopkins) and about her home. When she Omegas fetch out their laurels, next month, they will lay a wreath for our own Bishop Edgar A. Love, Dr. Oscar J. Cooper and Dr. Frank Coleman, all founders. The honors are to be bestowed at the conclave in Cincinnati, post-Christmas week.

Mrs. Canada Lee, of New York, widow of the famed actor, in town, this week, stopped for a chat with Verta Wescome. She was enroute to Washington, thence to Hampton for a speaking engagement. Her particular interest, these days, is in building the Canada Lee Foundation, proposed to provide scholarships for talented youngsters.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Dobson, who welcomed a grandson about this time, last year, (on Nov. 17th, to be exact) welcomed a second grandson, on Sunday, the 8th. Accommodating parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dobson (the former Mildred Turner). The new babe has been named Sherman Woodrow.

Baptised at St James Episcopal church, Sunday morning were Dr. and Mrs. Wayland Jones' small daughter, Monica ReNee; and Mr. and Mrs. Queener Willis' recent arrival, Karen Maria.

CRUSADER—The flower circle of Easter held its annual pre-Thanksgiving party, Thursday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lassiter, Hopewell ave.

Guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Brittingham, James Cheatham, Leroy Pullum, Lewis Lassiter and Robert R. Dennis;

Mesdames Mary Cross, Alvertis Jordan, Bertha Lee, Mary Wooden; Miss Phyllis Peters, Earl Kearney and George Pullum.

Turkey Day In Baltimore

By LULU JONES GARRETT

This was Thanksgiving in Baltimore.

Morning breaks cold, clear and crisp, with the forcasters predicting snow, but a bright sun belying the forecast. Dawn, and the soft stir of motors easing smoothly to curbs, presage a day sparked with new faces, new fun.

Jonases Entertain

Barely in from the Eve before and the flurry of parties that inducted the holiday . . . many with a purpose other than hooing-a-ing a calendar date. As for instance Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jones and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Hunt celebrating wedding anniversaries.

Mrs. Jones (they noting a 25th anniversary) a dream in embellished blue tissue taffeta. Aided in the receiving line by Mrs. Howard Nuckles, suave in beige lace and Mrs. Houston Jackson, an elegantly embroidered knit above her cocktail skirt.

Aiding on the door were Mrs. Douglas Sheppard, in her most flattering shade of blue; and with Mrs. Sadie Douglass and Mrs. Charles King keeping an eye on guests drifting in and out of the dining room. The Jones' houseguests, Dr. and Mrs. C. Everett Knox of Washington and their babies, Billy and Karen, the latter drifting down the stairs, pajama clad, in the midst of the reception.

Hunts Host

Mrs. Hunt (she and the Dentist had been wed three years) suave in red that did miracles with her platinum locks, having as much fun as anyone at her party . . . and the town was there! They hadn't marked it an anniversary affair, just a party, so many didn't know it was a special event. Folks lingered 'til past midnight.

Maids, Matrons Play

A wink, and back into harness. A black coffee and a dash to York Hotel, where the Maids and Matrons held forth at their special pre-game cocktail party, as early as 10 a.m. Merrial S. Bethel, Alyce L. Brown, Anna Calhoun, Vera Carrington, Eva Creigier, Jeanne Davis, Ella Edemy, Eola Knox, Mae Medders, Marguerite Wilkins in hostess roles.

And the game, amid the hundreds there!

Town Filled

The eyes pop as pretty Mrs. Sugar Ray Robinson arrives. She's the guest of Coach and Mrs. Edward Hurt, whose flower girl she was at their wedding 20-odd years ago. In the party also was Mrs. Robinson's aunt, Mrs. Blanche Holley, also of New York, Mrs. Hurt's classmate at Cheyney and her maid of honor at the wedding.

There were other guests in the Hurt household, including that charming Hunter college coed, Barbara Gray, who is Edward Reid's (the Hurts' nephew) special interest.

Hills' Open House

That lovely Morgan Park home of Coach and Mrs. Talmadge Hill is the chief beacon on the post-game program.

Their open house (dinner and all) drew a bunch of Washingtonians, including Myra Reeder, Dr. and Mrs. Purvis Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Brown, Dorothy Young of Asbury Park was there. Ditto Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Rivers of the Capital, Sylvester Hall, Va. State football coach; Tom Verdel and Dr. James Moore, also of Virginia State;

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Weeden of Lynchburg; Ann Price of Corona, N.Y., the George Dreddens of Bridgeville, Del., the Thomas Thomasses of Seaford, Del., the Carol Hersonts and Douglas Kings (house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Adams) from Annapolis. Jamaicans Here

Dr. and Mrs. Rodney entertaining a fascinating Jamaican, Mrs. Evadney Mitchell. Smart, too, she's a top business woman in her area, being in real estate and transportation. I think she has a string of busses. Right now she is dismissing business and having fun. Has done Europe, came on to see something of the States, will take a peep at Canada, go on to Cuba.

Here, she met her brother, Harold Mitchell, Panama pharmacist, who came down from Philadelphia, where he is visiting.

At the Rodney's dinner for them were her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Rhomas Adams, her parents; Gerald Adams, her brother and a couple of nephews, Francis and Kesler Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watts.

From Jersey

The Young Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Christmas also enhanced the heath with a couple of charming guests, Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Wright of Redwood, N.J. The couples became fast friends when the dentists were finishing a stretch in the army abroad, their mates with them.

Jenefer Waters, from the Eastern Shore, was house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Welche. Mr. and Mrs. Leeland Jones and their sons, Tony and Jackie, flew down from Buffalo N.Y., for dinner with her brother-in-law and twin sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews. Will be among with all the family on Sunday, when the parents, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Murphy, gather them about.

Miss Nadine Wellman and Mrs. Jane Thomas of Washington, W. Va., came back to their Alma Mater's classic, Fleer Hall, guests of Mrs. Sophie Clark.

Dr. and Mrs. Norris Atkins of Washington, were guests of Dr. Walter Dixons. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stewart of Roanoke, Va. saw the game with Mrs. Sally Fletcher.

VOWS EXCHANGED—Miss Esther Stokes and Donald Knox were married in St. Francis Xavier church, Baltimore. They are daughter and son respectively of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stokes and Mrs. Sarah Knox. (Photo by Clinton).

Mrs. Sarah Williams, Edgar I. Manns wed

On Saturday, at four o'clock at St. James Episcopal church, Mrs. Sarah Isabelle Williams, supervisor, special education in Baltimore schools, became the bride of Edgar Thomas Manns.

Father Cedric Mills performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a pale blue dress of bridal cloth trimmed with seed pearls, a hat to match, long white kid gloves, black suede slippers and carried a white prayer book covered with pink camellias.

She was given in marriage by her father, Charles H. A. Scott.

Her sister, Mrs. Mary K. Pool, matron of honor, wore a pink faille dress trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, black suede slippers, white gloves and carried a bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

Bridal Party

Other members of the bridal party included the bride's mother, who wore a gray faille dress trimmed with rhinestones, black suede slippers, pearl accessories, and a pink orchid; a sister, Mrs. Frieda Brown, who wore a red rose crepe dress trimmed with black velvet, black suede slippers, pearl accessories and a red rose corsage; Mrs. Elaine Swann, daughter-in-law, who also wore a pink faille dress trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, black suede slippers, a corsage of pink and yellow roses.

Mrs. Elsie Scott, daughter-in-law, wore a pale green silk taffeta dress; black suede slippers, rhinestone accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Ellen Russell, a sister, wore a black silk taffeta dress trimmed with black sequins, rhinestones, black suede slippers and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Carrie Wilkerson, sister in law, Washington, wore a navy blue crepe dress trimmed with pearls and black suede slippers.

The bridegroom's brother, Bernard Manns, Boston, Mass., was his best man. The ushers were friends of the couple, Alonzo Maith and Percy Tyler. All wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

Guests at the wedding and reception following included:

Mrs. Rose Miller of Atlantic City; Messrs. and Mesdames George Payne, Joshua Kelley, Edward Jones, Littleton Harriday, Reuben Jones, S. Reginald Watts;

Church to honor Mrs. F. Gillis

Macedonia Baptist church will honor Mrs. Fannie E. Gillis at a testimonial banquet on Dec. 7.

Mrs. Gillis, a former choice school teacher and a past grand matron of Myra Grand chapter, Order of Eastern Stars, and who also served as president of the United Women of Maryland, will mark her fiftieth year as member of the church.

Subscriptions for the affair which is to begin at 6:30 p.m. are being received by Mrs. Nicolas of 717 N. Mount st. and Mrs Martha B. Pulley, 2324 Parkwood ave.

Mrs. Cornelia Ringgold is chairman, and the Rev. Willard W. Clayton is pastor of the church.

Recipe of the week

By LOUISE R. PROTHRO

There just isn't anything that smells quite as good as a pumpkin pie fresh from the oven—or anything that tastes quite as good as pumpkin pie, this time of the year!

I've already made several, using my favorite Pet Evaporated Milk recipe. But they're so good, they don't last long at our house . . . and I know I'll be making a lot more before the season's over! Fortunately, a big, golden-brown pumpkin pie is easy to make, and thrifty, with my Pet recipe. It takes no butter, no cream, and just one egg. But what a wonderful pumpkin pie it makes!

Pumpkin Pie

½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt,
2¼ teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1½ cups Pet Evaporated Milk
1 slightly beaten egg
2 tablespoons dark molassas
Turn on oven and set at very hot (450). Mix sugar, flour, salt, and pumpkin pie spice in a bowl. Add pumpkin milk, egg, and molassas and stir until smooth.

Pour into pie pan lined with unbaked pastry made from pie crust mix. Bake 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderately slow (325). Bake 40 minutes or until firm. Cool before serving.

Club pre-game cocktailer gay

In an atmosphere of soft lights, sweet music and banked flowers, the Maids and Matrons entertained at a gay pre-game cocktailer on Thanksgiving Day in the York Hotel Blue Room.

The hostesses were:

Merrial S. Bethel, Alyce L. Brown, Annie E. Calhoun, Vera H. Carrington, Eva L. Creigler, Jeanne F. Davis, Ella B. Edemy, Eola B. Knox, Mae M. Medders, and Marguerite Wilkens.

Among the merry-making guests were
