Star denies charge songs were 'unfit'

HOLLYWOOD — Torch singer Eartha Kitt retaliated here last week against Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson for his denunciation of her performance before King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

The mayor and the Los Angeles city council blasted as "unfit and vulgar" Miss Kitt's singing and the other acts on a program staged for the visiting royalty on last Tuesday.

Before launching into her criticism of the city officials, Miss Kitt expressed delight over the report that the King and Queen had told newsmen they enjoyed the show.

"It just shows their majesties are sophisticated," she said. "I've entertained royalty before and I know what they're like."

Sang For Royalty Before

Curled up on the davenport of her suite in the Garden of Allah Hotel, Miss Kitt gave her side of the hot debate as to how the King and Queen of Greece should be entertained.

"I sang for members of the royal family in London and never had any complaints," she said. "Matter of fact, a lot of earls and counts came back to hear me sing.

"These charges by the mayor about being filthy and suggestive just don't register with me. It's getting so I don't know what being sexy means. None of the words in my songs are risque—look at 'em.

Good Enough For Millions

"Besides, the songs I sang at the benefit have sold more than a million and a half records. What's good enough for millions of Americans should be good enough for Mayor Poulson and the city council's Eartha pouted.

"I've asked the mayor to apologize to all the entertainers who were in the show. After all, we appeared for nothing—and none of us has even been thanked. We were honored to perform for the king and queen and now all of us have been embarrassed by what these men have said.

"Sure, it'll help sell my records, but what is it doing for me as a person?" she asked.

Calls It Silly

Eartha, who is busy singing nights at the plush Mocambo on the Sunset Strip and working in the movie version of "New Faces" during the day, said she thought the whole situation was silly.

"Everybody tells me I look sexy—so I play sex down in my songs. I can't help it if my voice sounds sexy to other people. I don't try to make it sound that way," she added.

The 23-year-old Columbia, S. C. native rocketed to fame earlier this year with her recording of "C'Est Si Bon," and takes her career seriously.

ALONG THE AVENUE

The CLUB CASINO comes up with another top drawer act on Monday when glamorous Sarah McLawler and her trio take over at the musical bar. Currently holding down the fort at the popular fun spot is Bobby Green and his combo.

For nightlifers who perfer their relaxation without benefit of live entertainment, the CASINO has a smaller bar, where you can still get the same delicious drinks and fine service, as at the main dispenary.

Newest story making the rounds has it that the successor to the record hit "Shake A Hand" will be "I Can't Shake A Hand, I'm All Shook Out."

Holding down the spotlight at the COMEDY CLUB come Monday will be another lady of glamour and talent. Miss Reta Mess, Mercury recording star whose pressing of "When Day Is Done" stirred quite a bit of excitement in the entertainment world.

Miss Ross and her piano stylings are not too well known to uptown audiences, but she has played at several of the swank downtown spots, and should be a hit at the COMEDY CLUB.

According to the latest issue of Billboards, the top tunes in the Baltimore area are: "I Had A Notion," "Money Honey," "Fat Daddy," "Shake A Hand," "In The Mission of St. Augustine," "Rosemary," and "Take Me Back."

One interesting note is the heavy play being given the Orioles disc of "In The Mission of St. Augustine" a fellow up in their "Crying in the Chapel."

GAMBY'S is holding on to their big floor show which features the talents of George Craft, the Toppers, Pat Allen, and Jerome Berry, all backed by the music of Reuben Woods and his Ambassadors of Rhythm.

"Up at RICTOR'S RED FOX ROOM the patrons are still applauding the music of the Hammon Tones feature Earl Omara on the bongo drum. Rundown on the groups shows Phil Harris, bass, and Hilton Brooks, guitar.

The Bop Man himself, Sonny Stitt, is humping at Club Tijuana for his third straight week and the music is heavily flavored with the progressive touch. On Sunday the club has a special matinee from 5 until 9.

Following a long run by Ben Washington and his combo at the CLUB ORLEANS the management is introducing a new group to the customers, "The Four Jays."

Holding spots in the outfit are: Edward White, drums; Jay Evans, bass; Al Stafford, piano, and Wendell Jackson, tenor sax.

Holiday fun seekers will also have a full round of entertainment to choose from this week from among the following clubs:

UBANGI, with Pee Wee Wooden's Three Kings and a Queen; CARTER'S EL CAPITAN, with Jerry and the Tom Cats; JONES COCKTAIL LOUNGE, with Charles Beckles and his Peptones.

The CLUB ASTORIA spotlights the METRONAIRES, and PM has Teddy and his Tip Toppers.

Army medic wins Bronze Star medal

ALBANY, Ga. — Capt. Louis V. Reese, Medical Corps physician, attached to the 45th Infantry division in Korea, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an armed enemy.

Captain Reese is on leave, where he served as school physician until he was recalled to military service.

His award came as a result of his "superior performance and exemplary achievements, under adverse conditions on the battlefield."

Captain Reese received his M. D. degree from Meharry Medical college. He and his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Reese, a registered nurse, have two children, Ruth Norrine and Louis V., III.

NY history club sees India films

NEW YORK—The Carter G. Woodson Juniors history club, in co-operation with the New York branch, Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, saw films of India, during its November meeting at the Harlem YWCA.

The films, made possible through the courtesy of Mr. T. Pande, director of government of India, information services, portrayed the cultural, artistic, and educational background of India.

Hear Talk

Dr. James Egert Allen, educator and treasurer of the History association, and Mr. H. A. Tynes, teacher and president of the N.Y. branch, addressed the group. Several students and citizens from India, residing in New York, and Miss E. Carey, social worker, who recently visited India, were introduced.

Mrs. Gertrude Robinson, president-elect of the N.Y. branch of the association, N.Y. city school teacher, and former educational director of the library association and Mrs. Rose Gaston, adviser and organizer of the Carter G. Woodson Jrs., with Miss L. Peerman, secretary, planned the program.

Americans retire too early, writer asserts

NEW YORK, N.Y. — America's most prolific woman writer, still turning out best sellers in her seventies, feels that Americans withdraw from activity too soon in life.

"The retirement age is altogether too early in this country," declares Mary Roberts Rinehart in the December issue of the Journal of Living.

"We can't afford to put our best brains on the shelf, particularly at this time in the world's history."

Mrs. Rinehart, who has triumphed over cancer, 15 operations and three heart attacks, holds a record for word production. Now 76, she has 16 books, six plays and innumerable short stories to her credit.

NORTH CAROLINA WINS CIAA CROWN

Eagles beat A&T Aggies by 15 to 6

GREENSBORO, N.C. — The North Carolina Eagles defeated the A. and T. Aggies, 15-6, here Thursday in the 5th annual Carolina Classic football game and were virtually assured of their first CIAA championship in the long history of football competition at the college.

The game, played in windswept Memorial stadium, before some 7,000 chilled fans saw a grim and determined band of warriors from Durham take their first game from the Aggies in the past seven years.

It was this grimness which impressed the Turkey Day crowd, for it was evident from the beginning that the Durhamites knew where they were going.

Stuck To Ground

Sticking to the ground for the entire game, passing just once in each frame, Herman Riddick had put all of his hope in his ground-gaining backs of Amos Thornton, Jerome Evans and Linwood Johnson, easily the stars of the game.

A lot of credit goes to Albert Montgomery, Gastonia, N.C., freshman quarterback, who field-generalled his team to victory.

In addition to the yardage piled up by these fellows, it was the outstanding kicking of William Hollingsworth which kept the Aggies fighting in their own territory most of the way.

It took a freshman quarterback, also, for the Aggies to get their team moving. Howard Battle, a Rocky Mount youngster was called in during the late stages of the fourth period to get his team in action.

Rally Too Late

But the rally he inspired was much too late to pull the game out of the fire.

The Eagles hit the scoring column early in the first quarter, when William Hollingsworth kicked a beautiful 25-yard field goal from an angle.

After taking possession on the Aggies' 46-yard line, they had three consecutive first downs, featuring the hard running of Amos Tornton, North Carolina halfback.

Their goal line plunge for a touchdown had been nullified with a 15-yard penalty for holding to the spot from which the kick was made.

Poor Punting Sets Score

Hardly before the Durham fans had finished congratulating themselves, the Eagles were out in front with a 9-0 lead as Jerome Evans, halfback, had shot through the middle of the line to score from the 7-yard stripe.

The score was set up by a poor Aggie punt to the latter's 13-yard line. In successive line plays they moved the ball down to the spot of the touchdown play. The try from placement by Hollingsworth was wide.

North Carolina opened in the second half with a quick touchdown just two plays after the kickoff, when L. Johnson, fullback, sped one yard over the goal yard line on the first play from scrimmage.

After the kickoff, the Aggies had fumbled on the five from which the scoring play began. Hollingsworth again failed to convert. But the Durham club had tallied 15 points, their total and enough to win.

Score in 3 Minutes

The lone tally of the Aggies came with just three minutes to play in the game. Spencer Gwynn, Aggie fullback, gathered in a pass from Howard Battle, freshman quarterback, on the Eagles' 15 and raced into the end zone untouched. An attempt for the extra point by a Battle pass was no good.

The Aggie drive began on the Eagles' 41-yard line. Battle had passed to James Hamilton for 10 yards and to Lawrence Payne for 10 more yards to place the ball on the Eagles' 21-yard strip.

A second Aggie threat was stifled by the clock as they had worked the ball down to the Eagles' 25-yard line as Battle clicked with passes to William Bush, Aggie end.

GREAT CONTRAST—In contrast to the corporal's guard who attended the venerated Howard-Lincoln classic football game in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day was the crowd of 10,000 avid fans who turned out in the balmy weather to see the Morgan State Bears vie with Virginia State in Baltimore. Here is a section of the crowd in Hughes stadium.

3 named to All-Big Ten

Caroline picked on All-America eleven

CHICAGO—Three colored players were named Monday to the All-Big Ten football team for 1953, and one of the trio was picked in Collier's All-America selections, the AFRO learned early this week.

Chosen for the All-Big Ten star aggregation were J. C. Caroline, of Illinois, and Leroy Bolden, of Michigan State, at halfbacks, and Calvin Jones, of Iowa, at tackle.

J. C. CAROLINE

BOLDEN JONES

Caroline was also named to the All-America eleven, picked annually for Collier's Magazine by the American Football Coaches Association.

The only sophomore on the team, Carolina, a six-foot, 190-pounder broke Red Grange's total yardage record of 1,200 for one season as early as the second Saturday in November. That includes yards on rushes, run backs of kickoffs, intercepted passes and punts. He also broke the Big Ten conference mark for one season of 721 yards rushing, held by Alan Ameche of Wisconsin.

Linwood Johnson, Carolina halfback, who tallied the game's only touchdown, was named to the Big Ten team for the second straight year. Johnson, who is a 195-pounder, was also a member of the Collier's All-America selections.

Perry leads way for 49er victory

MILWAUKEE (ANP) — Playing in a blazing snowstorm, the San Francisco 49ers rocked the Green Bay Packers 37 to 7 before 16,378 hardy fans Sunday afternoon.

Fullback Joe Perry, the league's leading ground gainer, scored one touchdown and spearheaded the 49ers' ground attack which covered 290 yards. Perry's TD came on a 17-yard bolt in the second quarter.

Also playing for the 49ers was defensive end Charley Powell. Bob Mann played at end for the Packers.

Giants defeated by Redskin rally

NEW YORK (ANP)—Two pass interceptions in the final quarter gave the Washington Redskins a 24 to 21 victory over the New York Giants Sunday.

The Giants presented end Clifton Anderson and tackle Roosevelt Brown in the starting lineup. Halfback Emlen Tunnell was featured on defense.

OFF AND RUNNING — Virginia State halfback Steve Ellerbe races for a 14-yard gain in the first quarter of the Thanksgiving Day game with Morgan State College at Baltimore. In mad pursuit is Morgan co-captain and tackle William Buford. The Trojans won, 20-7, thus spoiling any chance the Bears may have had to win the CIAA football championship.

ONE DOWN AND — Umpire Harry Williams evidently put too much into his job Thursday as Virginia State College defeated Morgan State, 20-7, at Baltimore. The game official run down during a Trojan advance and suffered arm injuries. He is shown being aided by fellow officials, referee Maxie Robinson (back to camera) and field judge Ernest Tinnee. After first aid treatment, the Richmond official returned to action and finished the game.

Michigan State, with 7 stars, go to Rose Bowl

CHICAGO (ANP) — The Big Ten Sunday officially voted to send the Michigan State Spartans to the 1954 Rose Bowl Game against University of California at Los Angeles Uclans, champions of the Pacific Coast League.

The Spartans, who feature more colored players probably than any other white college team, were voted the Bowl bid following a bitter discussion despite the unimpressive final victory over Marquette, while co-champion Illinois won an impressive till from Northwestern.

Top offensive threat of Michigan State is Leroy Bolden who scored the winning touchdown Saturday as the Spartans defeated Marquette 21 to 15. Also on the first team is left end Ellis Duckett. James Ellis, a defensive great, is second string left half. Beside these three regulars, Michigan State features four other colored players.

—Va. State wins

State automatically removed the Baltimoreans from the CIAA title picture. Only if they had won the traditional battle will their Old Dominion rivals could be Bears hope o gain he crown, and then their victory would have needed a defeat of North Carolina by A. and T. at Greensboro the same afternoon.

Morgan Completely Outsloyed

Virginia won — and most decisively—by the simple formula of over-running their opponents on offense—and bottling them up on defense.

So completely overshadowed were the Bears that their most notable gain of the afternoon—aside from the interception a TD runback—was on a play even older than the 21-year-old rivalry between the schools. Midway of the fourth quarter, quarterback George Williams and halfback Jack Dennis collaborated on the moss-covered Statue-of-Liberty play for a 51-yard advance to the State 15.

In this maneuver, a halfback circles behind a teammate who is poised as though to pass, takes the ball from his hand as it is drawn back in throwing motion, and breaks for freedom.

Bears Are Checked

But even then, stunned and finding itself backed against its own goal posts, the Virginia defense thwarted the Morgan bid. An incomplete pass and a futile thrust at the line preceded a fumble by Bear halfback Al Scott and center Lloyd Hopson recovered for the Trojans on his 12-yard line.

Immediately the visitors launched another of their many ground-devouring attacks. Nate Smith was through the line on a trap play for 25 yards and on the next play Freeman found Wilson with an aerial that gave the Trojans a first down on the Morgan 5.

Interception Pays Off

At this point, a holding penalty pushed the visitors back to their 40, from which point Freeman elected the pass that went astray and resulted in the interception by Dennis, the lateral to Gaines and the subsequent 61-yard touchdown jaunt.

Before this ice-breaking score for Morgan — her first in two years against Virginia—the Hallmen had romped to their second and third period markers on a wide assortment of ground and air plays.

Use Ground And Air

In the first drive, they moved the 81 yards on running alone, going to the air only for the last four yards. And in it, Wilson, Nate Smith and Ellerbe took turns hauling the leather for Virginia.

In the second goalward march, the invaders called on a resourceful aerial game to befuddle the Morgan defense.

Taking advantage of two poor center passes which killed off two drives, the Trojans put together tosses from Freeman to Evans, then to Thompson, then to Ellerbe, to reach the Bear 11. But here the clever Freeman outguessed his foe by feigning a pass and keeping the ball himself to burst over tackle for the score.

McArthur, Williams Halted

Throughout the contest, Trojans tackles Norman Day and Charley Fruikyman and ends Thompson and Evans were barrelling through the Morgan forward wall to harass the Baltimore ball carriers before they could get under way in any given play sequence.

So devastating was the Petersburg surge that Morgan's brilliant Jerry McArthur was never able to break away for one of the scintillating bursts that have characterized his play all year. Largely because of this superior line play, the Trojans contained the fleet Baltimore halfback with relatively little trouble, and effectively smothered quarterback George Williams' every attempt to get his attacking forces in order.

Dennis' chances of getting off a worthwhile punt, the Trojans put together tosses from Freeman to Evans, then to Thompson, then to Ellerbe, to reach the Bear 11. But here the clever Freeman outguessed his foe by feigning a pass and keeping the ball himself to burst over tackle for the score.

CAN COLTS STOP HIM? — Joe Perry, an even more devastating runner than Deacon Dan Towler, who single-handedly whipped the Colts at Baltimore last week, will be the problem child for the Monumental City horde at Municipal Stadium Sunday. Perry leads the National Football Football League in rushing, holding a 57-yard advantage of the Los Angeles Rams' Towler in their nip and tuck battle for the individual title. Joe and the tricky San Francisco 49ers come to Baltimore for the Colts' final home contest.
