Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy celebrate 25th anniversary

— With Lula Jones Garret

While Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy Jr. (Marie Briggs) were quietly celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary, Saturday night, Edith L. Ricks and Roosevelt Brown were just beginning to contemplate what marriage would be like.

The Murphys marked the date with a dinner party for immediate family sisters, and cocktails for the younger generation. Incidentally 'twas her birthday also.

Mrs. Gracie E. Ricks made the announcement of the betrothal of her child to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Brown of Dothan, Ala.

Miss Ricks is a senior at Coppin State Teachers college, where she is a member of the United Nations club, the Future Teachers of America, and the Student Senate. She and her fiance are active members of Leadenhall Baptist church.

PHI DELTAS PLAN

Gamma chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa sorority held its monthly meeting on Saturday at the YWCA with its new basileus, Beatrice Rawlings, presiding.

The group enthusiastically accepted a program submitted by Chairman Delores Hunt which included educational activities, community services activities, culture and fun and relaxation.

Come February the group plans a joint celebration of Negro History and Brotherhood Week. Special guest speaker will be Miss Carrie Peet, who recently returned from a teaching post in Africa.

At the conclusion of business on Saturday sorors gathered in the dining room where a dinner was served.

Hostesses included Sorors Mary Proctor, Edith Spriggs, Victorine Adams, Delores C. Hunt, Catherine Adams, Audrey Butler, Virginia Hobb, and Bessie Anderson.

Sorors present were: Rosalie McGuire, Mildred Pierron, Mary Brooks, Alverta Cundieff, Beatrice Rawlings, Alberta Briggs, Rebecca Brown, Bertha Cross, Theresa McIver, Sadie Bryant.

Augusta Smith, Ethel Clark, Gladys Daniels, Della Macer, Delores Hunt, Mildred Williams, Agnes Payne, Elmira Collins, Louise Jones, Romaine Jones, Fannie Lawson, Elizabeth Stewart, Katherine Carrington, Lelia Jenning, Clarice Robertson, Allegra Taylor, Dorothy Thomas, Orangie Epps, Ethel Bowling, Alice Ford, Bennie Roey, Inez Redmond, and Ethel Spriggs.

NCS CLUB MEETS

The Northwest Child Study Club, which is composed of twenty young mothers, sponsored a teen-age Mitch Reed Record Hop at the YMCA last Friday.

It was thoroughly enjoyed by the teen-agers such as Gail Spaulding, Josephine Lockhart, the Stewart Sisters, Peggy Gee and Evangeline Mayo.

A Dunbar student won a prize from Fred Walker's for doing the best dance. The money from this benefit affair will be donated to Department of Education to purchase shoes for needy children, who, otherwise could not attend school.

The club members met last Thursday at the home of Flozella Clark. President Jimmy LaForrest presided over the business session. Plans were completed for their annual Valentine party.

Hostesses Clark and Marjorie Chatman arranged bridge and pinochle games.

Present were:

Iona Collins, Hazel Barrett, Jimmy La Forrest, Virginia Newkirk, Lucille Cephas, Marion Meyers, Elsie Scott, Reyrella Waters, Margie Sheffy, Alice Payne, Arnethia Williams, Jessica Taylor, Ellen Johns, Lyna Skinner, Gloria Phillips, Courtney Valentine, Mary Sprow and Anne Pinkney. Guest was Mrs. Irene Hill.

MRS. KINDLE FETED

Mrs. Ethel Kindle, widow of William H. Kindle, a former YMCA executive director, who moved to Detroit a half year ago, is the guest of Mrs. Thomas Smith.

Mrs. Kindle was honoree at luncheon and bridge with Mrs. Catherine Adams, with whom she spent the past week end. Guests at the Saturday afternoon party were Mesdames Smith, Melissa Perdue, Annie Smith, Estelle Thomas, Ruth Burgess, Carl Murphy, Corrine Precope, Dougherty Lee.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Kindle and Mrs. Thomas; bridge prizes to Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Burgess; and a score keeper's gift to Mrs. Perdue.

DATE DATA

The Baltimore Lincolnettes have set a cocktail date, at the Sphinx, on the 31st. They're the distaff side of Lincoln university grads.

Come Feb. 28, and Zeta Phi Betas will have their annual tea in observance of their "Finer Womanhood Week." They've garnered a brilliant sorer, Deborah Partridge of Queens college, Flushing, N.Y., as guest speaker. Morgan State college Christian center is the site.

The Maryland League of Women's Clubs has decided upon March 27th for the annual conference. Dr. Mary Just Butcher will be luncheon speaker. And the YWCA of Baltimore's annual meeting and elector's assembly is scheduled for Jan. 25, at Central branch building.

On the eves of the 29th and 30th, the Arena Players have scheduled a double bill of two one-act plays at the Arena Playhouse, 308 Warick ave.

Elbert Wilson and Cora Williams will play the star roles of a pair of juvenile delinquents in "This Property is Condemned" the first evening; reserved for sponsors of the newly organized group; while the play on Saturday evening will feature Margaret Christopher, Carroll Seward and Arthur Thorogood in "Twenty-seven Wagons Full of Cotton."

Both plays are by Tennessee Williams, author of "Street Car Named Desire." Saturday matinee will be available for the public.

CHIPPERETTES' BALL

Prettiest party on Saturday night, or any other night in many a moon, was the Chipperettes' "Snow Ball" at Biddle hall, that evening.

The group set themselves a pace to follow at their first formal.

And almost, not quite, as pretty as they, was the hall, in its dress of snow men, its garnish of white drapes and myriad of white balloons.

Guests were requested to wear white frocks and they did (with the exception of three) making a striking picture against the black of the men's wear.

And such frocks!

Nickie Randolph in sparkling white net . . . going to waste, because few got pass her flashing smile, baby pout; Ellsworth Rheta in the smoothest white taffeta, fitted to an eyelash at the fore, a pouf of pleated net stemming from the back waist to hem at back to add dash.

Bernadine Harrison deserting her own designing to pick a net ensemble, all swish and glitter; Frances Wood's frock having a most entrancing neck line; Arnetta Lottier, whose dream of a frock was rose spattered from top to bottom; Louise Robinson's statuesqueness adding enchanting dignity to her flowing white; Wilhelmina Garner, who is really reaching the top these days in her selection of garb.

For the party, she wore separates . . . the top a fitted, round-necked, sleeveless affair; the skirt oceans wide, quite short, the whole having as trim only the intricate weave of the wool from which it was knitted.

Add Vonzella Murray, pretty as a peach; and Pauline Caulk Blackwell, whose frock you couldn't see for the dazzling happiness in her face as she introduced her bridegroom, Samuel Blackwell, to friends, and you have a part of the picture.

The other part was the lush cocktail tables over which each hostess presided, assisted by their husbands: Mr. Blackwell, Miles Harrison, Dr. William Garner, Arthur Murray, George Lottier and Dr. Barnett Rhetta Jr.

Table decorations included snow men, place cards in form of snowballs, plus the flock of blue birds, etc. Came midnight their caterer served plate suppers and delicious coffee, much needed at that time. Strider's Riders tied the whole together with dance music.

Guests added their bit with such innovations as that "snow ball" dress, designed and worn by Dorothy Johnson, its fitted top with a neck band of mink; its skirt a round puff of taffeta that topped a sheath skirt from waist to about four inches above the hem.

With the Chipperettes for the evening were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Jesse Clark Jr., Royal Weaver, David Scott, Clarence Maiden, John Hall, Harold Jennifer, Richard Perkins;

Messrs. and Mesdames Onarew Gee Jr., Albert Jacobs, Walter Dyson, Bruce Edemy, Edward Watson, Frank Phillips, Robert Matthews; Edward Smith, John Wood;

Messrs. and Mesdames Warmings, Wallace Blackwell, Herndon White, Vernell Lockwood, W. Emerson Brown Jr., William Harris, Cecil Johnston, George White, Radcliffe Finney; Doctors and Mesdames Robert McDaniels, Orris Walker, Arthur West, Garland Chissell Jr., Simeon Carter Jr.;

Mesdames Agnes Underwood, Lula Patterson, Virginia Gray; Harry Adams, John Burley, Donald King.

Dr. and Mrs. Garner took a gang on to their home after the dance, lingered over breakfast, at sat. until morn.

MARDI GRAS — Prize winners at the Mardi Gras given by the Morgan State college chapter of Classified Employees association, Friday evening, included, left, Archie Scott and Miss Marlene Proctor, in Indian costume, and at far right, Nesbitt Brown and Miss Mitzi Peace, Scots, as most authentic. First prize went to George Boston, who came as a mummy. Top feature of the entertainment program were the can can dancers, center, left to right: Misses Mary Hudson, Jeanette Sherman, Constance Braxton, Ethel Boston and Georgette Merritt, all members of the association.

Morgan classified employees dance at colorful Mardi Gras

"A mummy" from Ancient Egypt, Scots, Indians and alluring Harem girls came colorfully alive, Friday at the Mardi Gras given by the Morgan chapter of the Classified Employees association in the college refectory.

Approximately 300 costumed revelers braved inclement weather to make the affair a smashing success, so much so that the sponsors are considering making the Mardi Gras an annual undertaking.

The Mardi Gras setting was brilliantly decorated in colors of red, purple, gold and green with an honest-to-goodness traffic light that blinked red, amber and green, to lend authenticity to the "street scene" motif.

Can-Can Danced

Table decorations included snow men, place cards in form of snowballs, plus the flock of blue birds, etc. Came midnight their caterer served plate suppers and delicious coffee, much needed at that time. Strider's Riders tied the whole together with dance music.

BALTIMORE RITUAL — Miss Vivian Ridout of Dover, Del. and Willis C. Boney of Wilmington, Del., both Morgan State college graduates were married in the Christian Center on the campus in Baltimore, recently.

Miss Ridout recent bride

The Morgan Christian Center at Morgan State college was the scene of a simple but impressive wedding ceremony recently when Miss Vivain Jone Ridout, of Dover, Del. became the bride of Willis C. Boney, of Wilmington, Del.

The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, the Rev. Daniel L. Ridout, who is administrative secretary of the Baltimore Area of the Methodist Church, with offices in this city.

Brother Officiates

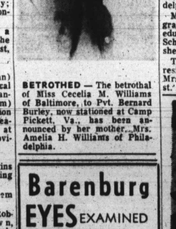
Miss Ridout was given away by her brother, Daniel Lyman Ridout, Jr., teacher of music in Moton High School, Easton Md. The younger Ridout was also soloist. Mrs. Frances Hill Berry of the Morgan faculty was organist and accompanist.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Henrietta Ridout of Wilmington. The bridegroom's brother, John Boney, of Philadelphia, was best man.

Miss Ridout, a Morgan State graduate, is teacher of instrumental education in the Henry High School, Dover. Like her brother, she is an accomplished musician.

The reception was held at the residence of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Ridout, 2000 N. Benfalou, st.

NEWLYWEDS — Mr. and Mrs. Nat Gales were married in Baltimore recently. The bride is the former Mrs. Lena E. Foggie.



BETROTHED — The betrothal of Miss Cecelia M. Williams of Baltimore, to Pvt. Bernard Berry, now stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Amelia H. Williams of Philadelphia.

"ANN PINKHAM" reports doctors' findings on

What every girl should know about sickening MONTHLY CRAMPS!

Tests show they can often be stopped — even the very first day!

Here's wonderful news for women and girls who suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual pain — headaches, backaches and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine—famous for relieving such suffering — even on the very first, worst day of your period!

HOW IT WORKS: Pinkham's beneficial action includes a quieting effect on contractions that may cause "periodic" pains.

ANN PINKHAM, today's famous name of Lydia E. Pinkham

To doctors' tests, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave complete or partial relief in striking ratio of such distress . . . in 3 out of 4 cases!

Lydia Pinkham's is architecturally modern in action! That's so superior to the old formula to whom is prize to the discriminating!

Why not—start today taking Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, (now in convenient Tablets (with added iron). Both are wonderful, too, for relieving "hot flashes" and other functional distress of change of life.

South Baltimore Notes

By GEORGE W. E. HILL

Personality of the week is 19-year-old Glenda Sharp of 611 Bridgeview rd., Apt. H.

Miss Sharp is employed as secretary at the Phillips Brothers warehouse, 829 S. Howard st.

She says "I enjoy my work very much. I get along well with the manager, L. W. Nelson and the company truck driver, Donald Turner."

She is a graduate of Carver Vocational high school. Her hobbies are keeping house for her father, sewing and cooking.

At Ebenezer AME church, she is secretary of the Young People's Choir, the Junior Missionary Society, and assistant secretary of Mrs. Gladys Gantt in the quarterly conference.

School Health Skit

A skit dealing with the cause and cure of ringworms was presented at Diggs School No. 102 last week. The demonstration was given by University Hospital nursing students affiliated with the Western Health District.

The reaction of children, parents and teachers gave real evidence of their interest and learning.

The student demonstrators were Mrs. Shipley, Mrs. Reinhart, Miss Marshall, Miss Ritter, Miss Lewis and Miss Wilson.

The cooperative project was brought to the school through the efforts of the school nurse, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson.

It was sponsored by Miss Martha Baer, instructor of community nursing at the University nurses' school. School No. 102 is pioneering in the experimentation of student participation in the adult education program.

Miss Roberta Church sees no employment crises for women

Despite the downward trend in employment, Miss Roberta Church, of Washington, painted a rosy picture for working women, here, Sunday.

Speaking at the 41st Founder's Day celebration of Epsilon Sigma chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority, Miss Church said that teaching, nursing and social work fields were wide open.

Medical Field Open

There are still scarcities of workers to fill social service posts with children, and medical and psychiatric positions go wanting, she said.

Increased educational facilities, the lowering of age bars to older women, and improved salaries are being offered to draw more women into the labor field, she said.

Miss Church who is minorities consultant in the Department of Labor, was introduced by Mrs. Gladys Sheppard. Other speakers on the program were Mrs. Sanonia Nixon, president of the chapter; Mrs. Vashti Murphy, a founder; Mrs. Ruth Rosedom who officiated in lighting the birthday candle; and Miss Marion Gover who gave the closing remarks. Benediction was by the Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor of Marison Avenue Presbyterian church in which the celebration was held.

Girls Sing

Music was by the Girls' Choir of Douglass high school, directed by Mrs. Marian Smith. Mrs. Carol Blaston Diggs gave a piano selection and the Epsilon Sigma chapter octette sang the Delta Hymn.

The committee which arranged the program included co-chairmen Thelma Lawrence, Juliet Bragg, Dorothy Johnson, Ellen Fisher, Mary Pitts, Vivian Washington, Martha Gover, Ruth Rosedom and Sanoma Nixon.
