Tigers romp, 79-59, to 3rd championship

Eagles drop finale; victors in NAIA tourney in Kansas City

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee State university defeated North Carolina college of Durham, 79-59, Wednesday night to win the national collegiate basketball championship.

The victory, third in a row for the Tigers, meant that Coach Clarence Cash and his charges will represent District 29 in the NAIA tournament at Kansas City, March 8-13.

For the 5-foot, 2-inch Tennessee tutor, it meant three titles in three tries in college competition.

Cash came to Nashville in 1952, straight from St. Elizabeth's High school, Chicago, and has not lost a national journey since.

Favored to win, despite the fact they were in only as an "at large" team — they were eliminated early from the Midwestern Conference playoff — the Tigers had little difficulty handling the CIAA visitation champs from the Tarheel State.

Except for the first few minutes, when Benny Dix hit a 4-3 lead and then made it 6-3 on a basket interference call, Tennessee was in front through the first half.

Vernon McNeal and Willie Thomas, feeding off the clever post of Willie Reed, paced the Tigers to margins of 16-13 at the quarter and 34-26 at the intermission.

Coach Of Year

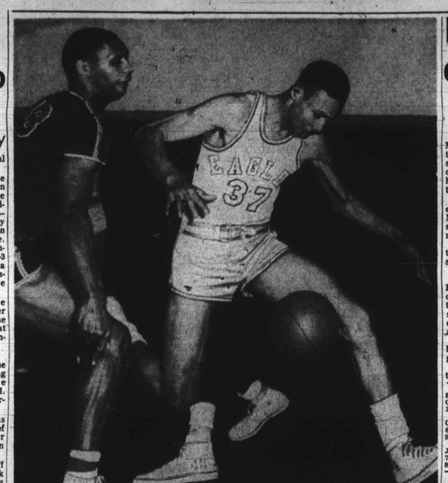
Trophies were donated by the Coca Cola company, including first, second and third place prizes, plus a citation to R. H. (Bob) Lee, of Southern university as "Coach of the year."

Third place went to Texas Southern university by way of a runaway, 97-69, victory over Southern university, of Baton Rouge, La.

The Houston aggregation, off slowly, warmed up to its task as the game progressed, running up 62 points in the second half.



COURT DRAMA—The upset of the recent CIAA cage tournament was scored by Morgan's Bears 87-66 over the highly favored Eagles of North Carolina College. Tex Harrison (37) of the Eagles is pouncing on a loose ball as Morgan's Talmadge Hill, Jr. trails. The game was held in NCC's gym.

Mims wins over Ward

Decision unpopular with Detroit fans

DETROIT, Mich. — Holly Mims, a fancy-dan boxer from the District of Columbia, won a split decision over Moses Ward of Detroit in a 10-round bout here Wednesday night that was televised nationally.

Although it was clear to the experienced ringsiders that Mims clearly won the fight by superior infighting, the ring patrons voted the decision.

It was the second straight week that boxing fans gave the Bronx streatmont a television bout.

Philly Fans

The previous Wednesday saw Philadelphia fans voice their disapproval of the Johnny Bratton-Johnny Saxton bout that saw Saxton pound out a decision over an apparently lethargic Bratton.

In Wednesday's bout, Ward, a hometown favorite, was the aggressor most of the way.

However, Mims, a cagey counter-puncher, caught most of Ward's blows on his elbows and gloves and retaliated with combination punching.

In the fourth round, Mims had Ward apparently ready for the finish, but the bell ended the action.

In the tenth round, the fighters slugged toe-to-toe in the most exciting exchange of the bout.

Mims was trying to finish the game Ward, who managed to connect with several solid rights to the head.

The scoring was 94-96 for Ward by Judge Jack Asprey; 89-98 for Mims by Judge Malcolm House and 93-89 for Mims by Referee Johnny Weber.

In 1950 a total of 1,790,030 crimes were committed in the U.S.

Heavyweight bout scheduled

By HERB MANGRUM

Bert Whitehurst, Maryland's No. 1 heavyweight fighter will meet Willie James in a ten-round bout at the Coliseum, Thursday, March 11.

As a result of the match, the Morgan college alumnis will attempt to avenge one of two defeats in his ring career.

Withehurst suffered the only TKO in his career at the hands of James. He lost the same match last December to Gene Jones of Camden, N.J. Whitehurst has won 19 bouts within the past 30 months.

Knocked Jones Out

He scored his most impressive victory in Brooklyn last January, where he knocked Silvester Jones to the canvas twice in the first round.

In his last local fight last November, Whitehurst scored a fourth round knockout over Vines of Washington. In August he beat Al Schlimm in the first round at the Coliseum.

James who hails from the New England states, started his fight career three years ago. His most impressive wins were scored over Rex Layne and Art Henri.

The supporting card for the local bout will be announced at a later date by Promotor Benny Trotta.

Dykes pulls squeeze play

Did Jimmy Dykes cut off Satchel Paige because he did not want to pay him as much as $25,000 a year?

Bill Veeck says that is the reason. Veeck says Paige is worth $25,000 and can draw that much money into a ball park in one night.

Veeck recalled the fact that he had invited all the mayors of Ohio to see a game in Cleveland one night because that was the night that not many people would show up at the ball park. He was to entertain them after the game at a lawn party in centerfield.

However, he announced two days ahead that Satchel Paige was to pitch that night. The stadium filled up with over 70,000 people, one of the largest crowds of the season and Veeck had trouble finding his mayors in all that big host.

Jimmy Dykes had no colored people on his roster in Philly. He only has one on the Orioles and the question is whether Satch should have been kept on the team until he could get a colored player who could make the team and be a box office attraction.

All this hoorah about "I am not going to name a colored boy because he is colored" is a lot of baloney. If a colored boy is good, he will draw the fans—colored or white and he will certainly draw the colored fans.

This is the reason the new baseball manager in the country makes certain that Catholics, Jews, Italians, and Germans and every other identified group is represented on the team.

Dyke' complaint that Satchel Paige would not work and decorate the other players is hardly in accordance with the facts, Veeck says, and besides, this is not an argument to say Dykes is not right in letting Paige go.

"We are only raising a question. What is he going to do about a first-class colored player on the Orioles or in the team to be lily-white?" J. J.

Aaron may become Brave's sensation

TOLEDO, Ohio (ANP) — One of the most talked-about players in spring training is the 20-year-old Henry Aaron, who was tickled for Toledo last year but may wind up with the parent Milwaukee Braves.

The young outfielder - infielder, most valuable player in the South Atlanta League with Jacksonville, last year, has received high praise from all basemen, including Ty Cobb, who watched him perform this winter in the Puerto Rican League.

He batted .322, to finish third among the hitters. Last year, he stroked the ball at .362, with a number of triples, doubles and home runs included in his collection, to take the MVP award in the southern league.

Impressive

Bob Buhl, Milwaukee pitcher, who hurled in the winter league, said Aaron was the most talked-about performer. Said Buhl:

"Aaron, in my opinion, is good enough to win a regular job" (Bob) or Pafko (Andy)," said Buhl.

"Big league pitchers, among them Harm Wehmeier (Cincinnati) and Steve Ridzik (Phillies), told me that they tried every pitch in the book while hurling to Aaron and they couldn't get him out. Aaron is a terrific line drive hitter. Besides, he's quite an outfielder, with a great arm."

Charlie Grimm, manager of the Braves, plans to alternate Aaron with Rafko in rightfield in spring exhibition games.

"If he's as good as Buhl and others claim, he's got to get every chance to win a job." Grimm said.
