A HEARTY WELCOME TO ALL

Spirit of obedience should prevail during Lenten season

By The Rev. Bartholomew F. Hines, S.S.J.
St. Peter Claver's Church

By The Rev. Bartholomew F. Hines, S.S.J.

In the same spirit of obedience with which Christ entered upon his passion.

It is God who has given you your daily work to do. He has so arranged the circumstances of your life that you have a definite job to do each day.

Your work may be in an office or a shop, it may be laboring on the docks or with a construction crew, it may be as a secretary or a housewife. Whatever it is, it is God's will for you

Some Trying Times

There will be trying times—persons with whom you find it difficult to work—tasks which are particularly displeasing to you.

But remember, no matter how difficult and unpleasant your task might be, it is not as difficult and unpleasant as the task of redeeming you which Christ accepted in obedience to his Father.

With that same spirit of obedience, enter upon your daily task. Be mindful of the fact that the greatest weariness or suffering that it can bring to you will be as nothing compared to the weariness and suffering of Christ.

Civilization near the end, but not earth

The following are some of the quotes from the sermon given by W. A. Elrod at the conference of the Jehovah's Witnesses last Sunday.

"This civilization's end is near, but it does not mean the end of the earth.

"Many teach the world has progressed from barbarianism to our present culture, but today we see chaos and savagery on a world wide scale.

Civilization, A Veneer

"We call man civilized, but are crime, obliquency, murders, atrocities and wars a mark of civilization? Civilization is only a veneer.

"But we cannot afford to be swayed by such fears of men. Religious leaders have made false predictions too.

"All the evidence shows this world is controlled by Satan and is soon to be destroyed.

New World

"God's new world of righteousness will take its place and last forever as prophesied in Daniel 2:44 and Isaiah 65:17.

"We are living now in the last days of this old world. All the signs of Matthew 24 point to our day.

"But there is a way out, a road to safety to the new world," he said.

He urged the people to study the Bible and to preach about God's Kingdom.

"Do this now, for the time is very short," he concluded.
