Moments Musical

By ADAM K. JENKINS

Over 1,300 students from Maryland high schools attended the third annual All - State Festival at Morgan College last Friday. Of this number, over 1,250 participated on the program and the remainder were observing groups.

The brilliant hues of band uniforms contrasted with the conventional choir attire, as the groups took their assigned places in Hurt Gymnasium. Each choir and band was accompanied by its director and a guide-monitor.

One orchestra, from Douglass High School, Baltimore, eight bands and sixteen choruses, rendered two selections each. The program contained a wide variety of music — light opera, oratorio, semi - classics and folk music.

Mass Chorus, Bands

The climax of the day was the rendition by the mass chorus and bands in a "festival finale," "God of Our Fathers." This was conducted by John Work, composer and head of the Music Department at Fisk University.

The massed choirs also sang "I Gotta House In Baltimore," an arrangement by Mr. Work, and dedicated to his former pupil, R. Hayes Strider, acting head of the Music Department at Morgan State College.

Singing Sergeants

Mr. Work secured the original melody from an old lady in Georgia, while he was traveling through the country in 1928 collecting folk songs.

Plaintiff On Program

The ninth event of the Festival was devoted to an artist appearance by Ruth Hutzler Shaffer, pianist. She gave an inclusive program of widely varying music.

The evening began with the J. S. Bach "French Suite in G Major." It is made of seven dances that were popular in the 17th and 18th centuries.

The concert closed with four Chopin compositions — "Nocturne" (an evening song); "Etode" (study), "Mazurka" (Polish dance) and the famous Ballade in f minor. With such a wide choice, the devotee of Chopin could not help being satisfied.

Green Concert

On Thursday, May 13, at 8:30 p.m., Theresa Green, one of Baltimore's favorite sopranos who is becoming a national figure in the music world, will appear in a benefit concert.

The occasion is sponsored by the Young Musicians' Series of which Mrs. Charles W. Collier is director. Proceeds are to insure concerts in our public schools in the 1954-55 season.

With this most worthy cause in mind, Miss Green is donating her services. The concert will be given in the auditorium of the Baltimore Museum of Art, Wyman Park Drive and 31st St.

ALONG THE ...AVENUE

The CLUB CASINO has taken on a gay carnival air thanks to the decorations installed for a party given by the Smarties on Tuesday night.

Directly over the bar are hung strips of brightly colored paper and dancing balcons. Tis quite a sight to see. Incidently the party by the Smarties was quite an affair according to Dickie Newton the affable manager and greeter par excellence.

New at the club and playing his usual excellent brand of music is Cecil Young. He also has added another dash of color to the CASINO by dressing his musicians in plain jackets that are "the most," to quote a good drawing card at the CASINO, tributes to the colorful reel music he plays.

Next on the bill of fare is Curtis Harmon and His Top Notes. Harmon is a fairly new name in the Baltimore area, but judging from the past performances of the CASINO, night lifers can be sure that the music will be out of the top drawer.

The column had a long talk with J. C. Bailey the other p.m. and discovered quite a few things about the man who has become a landmark Along the Avenue. J. C. is now manager at the SPHINX CLUB, which is good news for his host of friends who are glad to see him back on the Main Stem.

J. C. was christened Junius Columbus Bailey in Norfolk, Va., a number of years ago. He came to Baltimore in 1905 and this city has been his home since then.

Smith's Hotel, under the ownership of the late Tom Smith, was going strong in these days, and J. C. made this his headquarters. After watching Tom Smith operate his club, J. C. decided that the night club business was for him, and he has been in, it ever since.

The list of clubs that J. C. has been connected with, brings back a host of memories. There was the Big Apple on Pennsylvania Ave., the Sportsmens' Comedy Club with the late Ike Dixon, and the New Catonsville Country Club, also with Mr. Dixon.

When J. C. and Mr. Dixon opened the Catonsville club, the section had not been built up as it is at present. In fact J. C. says it was rather "rough" in those days and he and Dixon sold out and moved back in town.

For 16 years J. C. was a partner in another Avenue club, but he sold out a short time ago because of ill health. His physical condition has improved since then and he has gone back into the night club business.

"It's good to have J. C. back. He is a wonderful man and the Avenue never seems the same without him.

Lou Bennett and the Hammondtones wind up their engagement at RICTOR'S RED FOX LOUNGE on Sunday night and their exit will be marked by a farewell party, an indication of the high esteem in which the group is held.

Starting on Monday music will be supplied by Raphael P, an organist with a distinctive and pleasing touch at the keyboard. As always you can be sure that at RITOR'S you will receive the best in everything and the good news is that the prices are lower.

Anytime you want to have a good time, why RITOR'S is the place to go.

Billy Taylor, the man who has made such a hit with Baltimoreians with several appearances at the CLUB TIJUANA, winds up a stint at the club on Sunday. Opening Tuesday will be another music master, Sonny Stitt.

At the COMEDY CLUB is music by James Moody and a group of young musicians, who play some of the finest notes heard in many a night. Moody records for the Prestige label, and even though he has had several hit records, the disc makers have yet to capture the Moody is great. That's about the size of it, but you can't appreciate how great he really is until you hear him in person in the wonderful confines of the true artistry of the man.

Moody, who has been a professional musician for eight years, calls East Orange, N.J. CLUB cafe is his first night club engagement in the city. He has had his own group for about three years and has made an intensive tour of Europe.

An articulate speaker and a man who believes in the rights of all men to live without discrimination, Moody doesn't like the southern traits of Baltimore. He likes the people and the way they like his music, but he feels bitter about the social mores of this town.

Another great artist Lester Young comes to the COMEDY CLUB next Friday. On Saturday afternoon a jazz concert from 4 to 8 p.m. will be held at the club. Don't miss it, and don't miss Moody. He's the end.

Joe Mazer's ROSE ROOM at the OLDE MILL is attracting more and more customers who are finding it the perfect answer to the question "where to go." Simply saying that the ROSE ROOM is different is not enough.

You actually have to see the place, sink into one of the soft chairs, be served at one of the beautiful tables, to know why the ROSE ROOM is out of this world.

Beef of all the ROSE ROOM makes a visitor feel right at home. It has an easy relaxed air that makes you feel welcome and completely satisfied.

TILLIE'S at Fayette and Wolfe Sts., is featuring the music of Sam Taylor and the Mello Aires, and quite a group they are. Music goes on every night except Tuesday. Next time you visit the East side of town don't forget TILLIE'S.

Across the street is the CLUB AMBASSADOR where the Mello Jacks are currently holding forth. That's it for now. Have Fun.

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care
What it strong as your hands can make it,
Make it as your purse can bear.
Hide there all thought of your failures,
And each bitter cup that you quaff,
Lock all your sorrows within it
Then it can do you no harm.

CONGRATULATIONS
