STREAM LINE

By ARTHUR E. WALTON

Fishermen with a taste for black bass should bear in mind the following facts:

Best results for small - mouth will be obtained in moving fresh water where rocks and minnows frequent, in any rivers where there are banks or piles of rock or coarse gravel, and along rocky shores, ledges and wing dams.

A wet fly with spinner, or line weighted with a lead shot so that the rig will work at the very bottom, should do well. Most river small - mouth, it should be remembered, seek cool refuge from the heat waves nearer the surface.

The best time to fish the bottom is early this month as the bass quit spawning. Also promising is late September. Small-mouth bass are nervous, so drop the line in the water easy.

One of the best bass spots at present is the Pocomoke River at Snow Hill, Md.

Tops For Trout

James L. Goodman a veteran angler passed along a bit of information on how to catch more trout.

Last year Mr. Goodman used a No. 12 Black Ant on the end of a 3-x tippet, attached to a 10-foot leader. In no time, he landed four trout. Most trout love insects; especially ants and beetles. The veteran angler also stated that he has used wooly worms.

Ocean City Fishing Good

Down Ocean City way, porgies, hard-heads and sea bass are biting good. Also weakfish are on the run. Peeler and salted mullet will turn the trick.

If the weather stays favorable the bridge leading into Ocean City and the bayline will be dotted with anglers from all points.

All recent reports are that fishing from this point will be better than ever.

Ocean City for marlin, blues, porgies, hard-heads, sea bass, weakfish, flounder, trout, and king fish.

Robbie faces fans' lawsuit

Tossed bat hits 3 in Milwaukee game

MILWAUKEE — Threats of a lawsuit faced Jackie Robinson here this weekend as the aftermath of a bat-tossing incident in which an usher and two fans assert they were struck.

Robinson, Brooklyn Dodger leftfielder, threw the bat upon being ejected from Thursday night's abbreviated game in which the Bums defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 7-6.

According to Attorney James Stern, he was retained by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wolinsky, of this city, after a bat, tossed by Jackie, reportedly bounced into the field box seats and struck them. Stern said the bat ricocheted off the concrete runway to the Dodger dugout and tipped into the seats.

Hits Usher, 2 Fans

It struck an usher, Harry Yelvington, then hit the Wolinskys. The lawyer's report is that one end of the stick bruised the eye of Mrs. Wolinsky and the other end knocked her husband "dizzy."

The incident took place when, during the course of a 5 - run fourth inning for the Braves, Umpire Lee Ballanfant called a fourth ball on Milwaukee Shortstop Johnny Logan, allowing him to draw a walk and fill the bases.

Moments later, Eddie Mathews hit a grand-slam homer, to further enrage the Dodgers.

Ump Clears Bench

They tossed towels from the dugout onto the playing field, and Ballanfant retaliated by ordering the bench cleared.

When finally the side was retired, Robinson was the first batter up in the Brooklyn fifth. He said something to the umpire as he stepped to the plate and the latter tossed him out of the game.

As this took place, Jackie whipped his bat toward the stands and the ill-fated bounce occurred.

Admits Error

Admitting his error, Robinson said later: "I immediately went to the box seats and apologized to those persons concerned. I told them it certainly was not my intention to throw the bat into their midst. After all, I'd never intentionally throw a bat into the grandstand."

Stern told newsmen shortly thereafter: "We've all been baseball fans all our lives and don't want to cause Robinson any trouble in the twilight of his career.

"But it my clients' injuries prove serious then there's little else we can do."
