Singing commercials, a product of the free enterprise system, hardly have a place behind the Iron Curtain. But perhaps even the Russians like a catchy ditty now and then.

According to Hy Gardner in his "Coast to Coast" column in a New York newspaper, a member of the paper's Washington Bureau phoned the Russian Embassy recently to inquire about Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's contemplated trip to Russia.

The correspondent did not get much information, but he did gather that the Russians like the game of baseball and perhaps American singing commercials, too.

For in the background of the conversation, the reporter recognized the singing commercial for National Bohemian Beer, sponsors of the Washington Nationals' broadcasts and telecasts.

—Primary

interest to colored voters is the fight between Dr. Harry C. (Curly) Byrd and George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Each has accused the other in a rather bitter campaign.

It is a foregone conclusion that Governor McKeldin, although opposed in the Republican primary, will be renominated.

State Senate Battle

Of much interest to the voters in the Fourth Legislative District is the battle between Harry A. Cole and Dr. Robert L. Gill, for the Republican nomination of State Senator.

This is the first time two colored candidates have made this bid.

Mr. Cole is an assistant attorney general while Dr. Gill is a political science professor at Morgan State College.

In the Fourth Congressional District, there is also another race of particular interest. This is the bill of Linwood G. Koger who has become the first colored candidate to run as a Republican candidate for the U. S. Congress.

Koger May Win

Mr. Koger, a well - known attorney, is being opposed in his bid by Arthur W. Sherwood. Many political observers feel that Mr. Koger has a good chance of winning.

In the race for nomination to the House of Delegates there are five colored candidates entered in three Legislative Districts.

In the 2nd District, Samuel Stewart, nightclub operator and 11th Ward Executive, is entered in a race which has 24 candidates listed. Only six can win.

In the 4th District, Truly Hatchett, a member of the Interracial Commission and a Democratic leader in Baltimore for many years is a Democratic candidate.

Ernest Perkins

Another candidate on the Democratic ticket in the 4th District is Ernest L. Perkins, an attorney and graduate of the University of Maryland Law School.

On the Republican ticket in the 4th District is Emory Cole, a lawyer who is making his first attempt for public office.

U. Theodore Hayes and Dr. Thomas A. Pitts are Democratic candidates in the 5th District for the House of Delegates.

Mr. Hayes is a lawyer and Dr. Pitts a praticing psychologist.

To State Convention

Seeking election to the Democratic State Convention in the 4th District are William B. Dixon, Lloyal Randolph and Dr. William R. Boykin.

W. C. Flippen is a candidate in the 4th for the Democratic State Central Committee.

Other candidates who are of special interest to colored voters include the following:

States Attorney

The race for States Attorney between the incumbent, Anselm Sodaro and William P. O'Donnell and the bid by the three sitting judges, Cullen, Niles and Carter to return to the Supreme Bench.

Another candidate is drawing a lot of interest. He is Albert Duke who is running to unseat the present incumbent, Joseph Deegan, as sheriff of Baltimore City.

Colored voters are also expected to support the bid in the 5th Legislative District of City Councilman Philip Goodman who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator.

HARRY C. BYRD
For Governor

Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd is one of the Democratic candidates for nomination as governor. The 67-year-old former university president is regarded as an able administrator.

He attended the University of Maryland when it was known at the Maryland Agricultural College and he helped to develop the school to its present size. In 1912 Dr. Byrd became a teacher of history, English and all sports at the school.

As a football coach Byrd earned wide praise. He became president of the school in 1935.

More Democratic voters registered than Republican

When 365,360 Baltimoreans cast their votes on Monday, June 28, the majority of the 62,869 colored voters will be Democrats.

The records at the Board of Supervisor of Elections office show that of the 282,074 registered Democrats, 32,074 are colored. There are 29,349 colored registered Republicans, of the total 74,017.

Percentage wise, however, there are more colored voters in the Republican party than there in the Democratic party. About 39 per cent of the Republicans are colored while only 11 per cent of the Democrats are colored.

Of the total registration, only 8,516 citizens indicated they do not belong to either of the major parties. Only 1,446 of these voters are colored.

COURT OFFICES

The Supreme Bench has authorized the clerks of the various local courts to close their offices at 3 p.m. during the summer months instead of the usual 4 p.m. hour.

Sodaro kept 2 campaign promises in last election

State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro, who is seeking re-election to office, Monday, has carried out two of his major campaign promises which he made prior to his election in 1951.

Shortly after his inauguration, he established an investigation department in his office, headed by Lt. Vincent Gavin, former investigator of the Missing Persons' Bureau.

He also named to this staff, Sgt. Robert Hewes, Homicide Squad; Officer Dennis Mello, who made the AFRO Honor Roll in 1951 for his work with Juvenile Delinquents in the Eastside Community Council; and Officer Francis Woods, electronics expert who assists in construction fraud cases.

Tan Assistant

In February 1954, Mr. Sodaro named his first colored assistant, George Rosebom, who has been assigned to the Domestic Relations Division.

To cut down the dope traffic in the city, Mr. Sodaro was chiefly responsible for the provision of a narcotics squad in the Police Department which works with the Federal Narcotics Agents.

He has been praised by every Grand Jury since the beginning of his administration, in addition to the commendation of the Kefauver Crime Committee.

Commenting on the present campaign, he said "my sincerest wish is that the present question of whether the State's Attorney's office shall continue free of political domination will be decided by a large majority of the voters, for I am confident that a true expression of their will means my re-election."

Byrd accuses Mahoney ticket of 'race baiting'

Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd charged Tuesday night that George P. Mahoney supporters were telling colored voters in Baltimore City that he (Byrd) is opposed to them and at the same time issuing race baiting literature in the counties stating that Dr. Byrd was doing too much for colored voters.

"He's playing both sides against the fence," Dr. Byrd told 350 persons who crowded the Elks' Home at 1528 Madison Ave., during a political rally.

The rally was sponsored by the Citizens Democratic Club and Monumental Democratic Club.

Dr. Byrd spoke briefly at the end of the meeting.

Perlman Speaks

Earlier a speech had been made in his behalf by former U.S. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman.

Dr. Byrd later accused the Mahoney supporters of conducting a "two-faced" campaign. He said the counties where the "race-baiting" literature was being distributed are Charles, Anne Arundel, Kent, St. Mary's, Carroll, Cecil and Wicomico.

"The literature is a reprint from a Baltimore daily newspaper which reports on a speech Dr. Byrd made before the Frontiers Club on April 6.

Paragraph Circled

"Circled in it is a paragraph in which Dr. Byrd is quoted as saying he "will do more for all of the colored people of Maryland than any other governor has ever done."

The article's headline reads "Racial Equality Asked by Byrd."

The literature is signed by authority of William C. Greenwell Mr. Greenwell has been identified as an 84-year-old white man who works on Pratt St. in Baltimore.

Mr. Greenwell stated that he gave permission to use his name to a political agent for the Mahoney camp, but he would not name the agent.

Repeats Promise

Speaking Tuesday night, Dr. Byrd repeated his promise to "do my best to help all the people," if elected.

"I will work for all and see that all have equal opportunities," he said.

Mr. Perlman, who attacked the present Republican administrations, both state and national, said that the "time is approaching when the voters of Maryland can remedy the effects of the crime of 1950.

"Our state, as a result of four years of Republican failures and Republican misrule, faces financial disaster," he charged.

Would End Strife

Mr. Perlman said he believes that "Dr. Byrd's nomination will put an end to the factional contests which have contributed to the defeat of the Democratic party in recent years."

He also stated that Dr. Byrd' "long experience with the problems of minorities makes him the ideal person to see to it that Maryland does its full share in the battles to end discrimination."

Many members of the Byrd ticket spoke before the audience including William O'Donnell, candidate for States Attorney; Morton C. Pollack, candidate for the House of Delegates (4th District); U. Theodore Hayes, candidate for House of Delegates (5th District).

Also Albert Duke, candidate for Sheriff of Baltimore City; Truly Hatchett, candidate for House of Delegates (5th District); John A. Dewicki, candidate for Judge of Orphans Court; Albert A. Levin, candidate for the Supreme Bench; and Martin E. Miller, candidate for the Supreme Bench.

Blue ticket men in Turner Station

By CARROLLTON SHEPPARD

For the second time in two months, Blue Ticket candidates converged on Turner Station last Saturday.

They cited their plan to bring a charter form of government to Baltimore County and promised better paving and sewerage to the residents of Turner Station.

They also charged one of the community's leading figures with being a co-conspirator in quest for political power.

Irvin C. Adams, owner of the Adams Cocktail Lounge at Turner Station and probably the community's most popular resident, was attacked by Maruice Baldin, son of the late H. Streat Baldwin, former president of the Baltimore County Commissioners.

Baldwin A Candidate

Young Baldwin is currently a candidate for the House of Delegates.

In a later address James A. Pine, former Baltimore County Solicitor and a current candidate for Baltimore County Commissioner, joined the attack.

"If Ted Graft and Irvin Adams want to boss Turner let them get on a ticket," he said.

He accused Graft and Adams of being "Birmingham Puppets" and asserted that cow paths are called roads at Turner Station.

Michael J. Brimingham is the present president of the Baltimore County Commissioners.

Sewers in Streets

"Sewers run to the streets," Pine said, "and the only contribution the Birmingham administration has made to Turner Station is a street sign that resembles a cracker box."

In other addresses, John Askew, candidate for the State's Attorney's office attacked John Raines present State's Attorney for Baltimore County.

William G. Green also a candidate for County Commissioner confined his address to the necessity of a charter form of Government in Baltimore County.

Walter Tabler, candidate for the House of Delegates, presented a petition for signatures of residents favoring a charter for Baltimire County.

Duke attacks sheriff's office as 'antiquated'

The office of sheriff of Baltimore is the most inefficient and antiquated in the city, Albert Duke charged this week.

Mr. Duke

The job pays $12,000 a year and the present incumbent, Joseph Deegan, has held it for 20 years.

Mr. Deegan, according to Duke, has 50 employees drawing $3,500 to $7,500 a year and employs neither women nor colored persons as deputies. In addition to the charge that the sheriff's office is pathetic, it is pointed out that Deegan is close to 70 years old, was originally a Curran appointee, and there has been little or no change in the office since 1918.

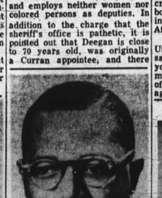
The forms, methods, location, and even the paint on the walls are the same. No modern changes have been made. "It's almost impossible to get service."

Deputies are deprived of transportation, he says, and often only three to five papers a day are served.

Duke is opposing Deegan in the Democratic primaries June 28.

He is 36, an Air Force reserve lieutenant and survived the crash at sea when his Mitchell bomber was shot down at sea in World War II near North Africa.

Educated at Hopkins and the University of Baltimore, Duke says he is campaigning as a young man, flexible enough to modernize the stagnated sheriff's office and distribute the patronage evenly.



U. THEODORE HAYES

He is a member of Zion Baptist Church, Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, the NAACP, Urban League, YMCA, Veterans Memorial Association, Morgan College Alumni Association.

He is former post commander of the Walter Green Post of the American Legion, vice-president of the Monumental Bar Association and president of the Baltimore chapter of the Howard Alumni Club.

SAMUEL STEWART
For House of Delegates

Samuel R. Stewart, nightclub operator at 311 W. Preston St., is a Democratic candidate for a Second District seat in the House of Delegates. He is now 11th ward executive of the fourth, fifth and sixth precincts.

He was born in the neighborhood where he now makes his home. Mr. Stewart is chairman of the house committee of the Monumental Lodge of Elks, and grand deputy for the state of Maryland. He is also affiliated with the Masons.
