Mrs. Webb said she asked the girl not to drink any alcoholic beverage if she was offered any. Mrs. Webb emphasized that she had not scolded the girl but had talked to her "as any mother would."

Made Threat

Mrs. Webb thought no more of the incident and left the house. A short time later Emily called Mrs. Turkel and told her that she was going to leap from a window.

Mrs. Turkel rushed to the house and went up to the bedroom. She and Emily's cousin, Miss Webb, were talking to the girl when she leaned out of the window and then fell to the yard.

Her cousin attempted to grab her but could not prevent the fall, Mrs. Webb said.

Mrs. Webb said the girl is a ninth grade pupil at the Druid Junior High School, and had been living with her since she was five years old.

Northwestern officer nabs wanted suspect

An escaped convict from the House of Correction was ordered held without bail for action of the grand jury on a sodomy charge, following a hearing on Thursday in Northwestern police court.

Robert S. Taylor, 35, no fixed address, made no defense to the charge brought against him by a 16-year-old boy, who said the man used force to make him submit to unnatural sex practices.

Police identified Taylor as a convict who escaped from the House of Correction five months ago. He remained at liberty until Wednesday when he was arrested by Officer James Watkins of the Northwestern police district.

—Scholarships

In 15 years, scholarship grants have exceeded $1,500,000.

No Longer Legal

The announcement of the change of policy at the University of Maryland makes new grants no longer legal, according to the committee.

The Attorney General also agreed that those already receiving scholarship aid should not be cut off until 1958.

Medical Schools

Because of the long time needed to process applications to medical schools, the committee may be asked to make exception in some cases.

Ordinarily, medical schools are so crowded that no student has a chance to enter unless he applies at least a year in advance.

A University of Maryland official told the AFRO Wednesday that "any young man, who took a pre-medical course last year knew he would graduate and if he hasn't already applied for entrance to some medical school, is crazy.

Difficult

"It's hard as the dickens to get in any medical school," this official said.

"New Jersey has no medical school. We could fill Maryland a half a dozen times from applicants from New York and New Jersey.

"We can't do it.

"Maryland seeks to find students who, when they enter, can be relied upon to finish the course. Income is affected if students drop out in junior and senior years.

"I know there would be no discrimination," the official concluded.

Text Of Attorney General's Ruling

The following is the statement of Assistant Attorney General W. Giles Parker on the out-of-state scholarships:

Dr. McDougle: We acknowledge your recent letter requesting state scholarships for colored, together with a memorandum, stating the proposed policy of your board, as to the immediate refusal to issue any further scholarships beginning with the academic year, 1954-55, and continuing to the new grants of candidates for degrees already enjoying scholarships under the law for a reasonable time until graduation.

Section 5 of Article 49-B provides that scholarships shall only be available for bona fide residents and citizens of Maryland possessing the qualifications required for admission to the University of Maryland.

And since you read in the newspapers that the University of Maryland has, by official acts of its Board of Regents, decided to admit to all of its schools, beginning next fall, all qualified colored applicants who are residents of the state of Maryland, such action on their part in our opinion automatically removes every applicant for admission to the freshman year from the application of the scholarship act.

The above action on the part of the Board of Regents was apparently not extended to transfers from other institutions, but only to new admissions to the university.

And, this, coupled with the fact that it would seem rather unfair to cut off the scholarship when a student is almost finished his course, I believe that your second proposition proposing to renew the grant, until degrees are obtained, with a deadline of June, 1958, is not only fair but within the law as it now stands.

It is also, of course, a pertinent fact that the Legislature has already appropriated more than sufficient funds for this purpose.

Very truly yours,
W. GILES PARKER
Assistant Attorney General

witness, Robert Thomas, 30, 3100 block Pressman St., refused to accept his legal right not to give testimony that might incriminate him.

The biggest shock of all, however, came to the defendants when it turned out that Thomas' testimony added more weight to the state's evidence.

Honest and Holmes wanted Thomas to back up their story that he was working with Lt. Carroll and had been ordered to "plant the stuff (heroin)" on them.

The two men were nabbed by Lt. Carroll and his men, May 29. Police found 60 capsules of heroin on Honest and 15 capsules of heroin and a marihuana cigarette on Holmes.

Nabbed After N.Y. Trip

They were caught exactly a half hour after they had returned from a 12-hour motor trip to New York with Thomas.

Honest insisted that Thomas had planned the trip, but when Thomas took the stand, he told an entirely different story.

The witness said that he first met Honest when the two were arrested in April during a crackdown on the local drug racket spearheaded by the tall, handsome, brown-skinned "Agent D."

At that time, the agents were only able to book Honest on a deadly weapons charge and at the court hearing, Honest was dismissed on a technical point of illegal arrest.

While in custody, however, Thomas said that Honest promised he could "get stuff in New York and really do business if he beat the pistol rap."

On May 25, Thomas, who is out on $1,000 bail, paid a social call on Honest. "He made arrangements to go to New York but said he needed money," Thomas said.

Tells Lt. Carroll

"I went to Lt. Carroll because I didn't know whether this was a plan to frame me up. The lieutenant gave me $175 to make the trip."

He said that while in New York, Honest drove to a place on 147th St. and sent him to purchase the heroin. He paid $170 for one ounce of the drug, he said.

Before leaving, Holmes "tested" the dope by sniffing it, then the three returned to Baltimore.

At Thomas' house, they filled 75 capsules with one-third of the drug. The remainder, Thomas kept and turned over to the local agents, the court learned.

Thomas denied that he had contacted Lt. Carroll upon returning to Baltimore, but admitted informing the agents before leaving for New York.

Both defendants were nabbed as they were leaving Thomas' home.

Offered $50

Honest and Holmes asserted that Thomas had offered them $50 to drive him to New York. In the big city, they "stopped off at a friend's house" while Thomas kept the car. They said

A few hours later, they met Thomas at a previously arranged meeting place, but because they were a little late, Thomas "seemed to be angry," they testified.

"He drove back while Holmes and I slept," Honest said, adding that their sport coats (where police found the drug capsules) were thrown across the front seat of the car."

Enroute to Baltimore, they were stopped by a state trooper for speeding, and Thomas allegedly said, "Don't worry, they won't search us," the court learned.

"We stopped at Thomas' house to have coffee and our coats were on a chair," Honest said.

'Thomas Did It'

"How the dope or stuff got in the pockets, I don't know. I think Thomas put it in there for Lt. Carroll, so he could stay on the street."

He was referring to the fact that Thomas' trial is the only one of five the April arrests, which has been postponed temporarily.

The others, except Honest, were convicted and given four-year prison terms.

"The lieutenant told me the last time that he'd get me," Honest said. "I think he has a personal grudge against me. I've never associated with people like that (drug addicts and peddlers) in my life."

In cross examination by Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Stark, however, the court learned that Honest had connections in New York at 829 W. 147th St. Honest denied that he stopped by the place during his visit.

Made Phone Call?

It was also revealed that before the trip, Honest allegedly made a phone call to New York. WA. 6-3537, from a phone booth in a drug store at Smallwood and North Aves.

Honest denied this also.

Questioned about 200 empty capsules and a quantity of milk sugar (used to dilute pure dope) that was found in his house during a previous investigation, Honest said that he used the capsules for medicine (bicarbonate of soda) and the sugar for cooking.

When confronted with the fact that milk sugar was far more expensive than ordinary sugar, Honest said that he knew nothing about that and didn't know who bought the sugar.

Judge Niles, in convicting the two men, said he did not believe their story and that there was no evidence to show that they had been persuaded.

Working with Lt. Carroll on the case were: Officers Clarence Roy, Newton Scott, Kenneth Vaught, "Agent D" and another federal narcotics agent.

Lodge pays loan, keeps building

Settlements amounting to $6,132 were paid off by members of the W. Sampson Brooks Elks Lodge No. 98, last week, two hours before the lodge building at 1202 Madison Ave. was scheduled to be auctioned.

The payment was made to William Gosnell, attorney, 14 E. Pleasant St., who had lent the lodge $5,207.35, Oct. 31, 1950.

Because the money was not being paid as agreed, Mr. Gosnell, on May 18, filed a petition for the foreclosure of the mortgage in Circuit Court.

The auction date for the property had been set June 25 at 2 p.m. However, at 12 noon, lodge members with their attorney, Josiah H. Henry, met with Mr. Gosnell, paid off the mortgage by refinancing the loan and the foreclosure was dismissed.

Applications for the remaining 20 openings must be filed with the Commissioner of Personnel at 31 Light St., by July 24. Test dates will be announced later.

J. S. Ave.

Jobs are open for automobile mechanics, and auto mechanic for the State Roads Commission' chauffeur, deputy state health officer, dietitian, and director of rehabilitation therapies.

are members of the Pollack faction.

Mr. Douglass said for the sake of his party, he had agreed to be independent so as to split the colored vote and insure the election of Mr. Melnicove.

On The Team

Asked who was on his team in addition to Randolph a Dixon, Mr. Douglass said, "Dr. Harris, Dr. Jackson, all those fellows.

"I can easier give the fellows who are on the opposite side than the fellows who are working. All the regulars who are in politics are supporting me."

Why He Is Not A Regular

Asked to explain why Pollack would not put him on the ticket as a regular candidate, Mr. Douglass said, "It is easy to explain that. Sometime ago when we were talking about it, it was thought that a colored candidate could not survive the primary.

"Now that Truly Hatchett has proved to him that a colored candidate can survive a Democratic primary, he is going to have to take colored candidates from now on.

"Truly Hatchett is just the same as elected now. He is in, no question about it."

Why Pollack Wanted Both

Asked if there were any other reasons why Pollack wanted both him and Melnicove, members of his faction, to run on the same ticket, Mr. Douglass said, "There was a possibility that the Attorney General would turn his petition down because the signatures were not proper or people who had signed it and said they were voters were not on the books."

Good Politics

Asked if he thought it good politics since the party fight was now between Melnicove, Democrat, and Harry Cole, Republican, that he should enter the race, so that the choice would no longer be between a Republican and a Democrat, Mr. Douglass said.

"To be truthful, on that basis it would not be good politics.

"However, when you are with an organization, you are obliged to see that your organization man gets in. That is the only basis you could consider. On that basis, it is good politics."

Difficult

Asked whether it was pretty difficult to put the loyalty to his party organization above the desire of colored people, after all these years, to have a representative in the State Senate, Mr. Douglass said, "Frankly, I can tell you it was.

"When you belong to an organization and control a certain number of jobs, you stick with the party organization. It is difficult to say, a difficult job all around, but you either have to hold your affiliation with the party, or you will have to say 'I will forget the party and stay with the race.'"

Gosnell-Koger-Ellison

Asked if this situation had ever occurred before where two colored persons were put on the ticket in order to split the vote, Mr. Douglass said, "We had an identical situation sometime ago when Gosnell, Republican, opposed Ellison.

"In the primary election, Governor McKeldin put in Koger, so that Koger and Gosnell would fight each other and Ellison could win the primary.

Asked if he had received any public criticism, Mr. Douglass said, "No, not directly."

versity that is now closed to colored applicants.

It was also pointed out that the resolution applies only to students who are residents of Maryland.

The board was asked to act promptly on the question in order to notify high school graduates before they left on summer vacations.

Conferred Twice

The office of the Attorney General told the AFRO that Judge Cole conferred twice with Edward D. E. Rollins, but that the office had given no written opinion.

2 meat dealers give court fines

Summoned into Housing Court on charges of adding a chemical substance to meat products which they sold for human consumption, a Northwestern grocery man and a wholesale meat dealers were issued fines Tuesday.

The groceryman, Emmanuel Tralins of the 200 block N. Gilmor St., was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate Helen Brown. The meat dealer, William H. Mangor of the 100 block Franklintown Rd., was fined $100 and costs.

Health department officials testified that both had been adding sulphite to their products as a means of making decomposition.

Mattiwilda's husband dies

ATLANTA (ANP) — The husband of Atlanta's Mattiwilda Dobbs, internationally known coloratura, died late Friday night in a London hospital where she was at his bedside after a performance at the Glyndebourne Musical Festival in a London suburb.

The interracial couple had been married only a little more than a year.

Luis Rodriquez, 31, of Madrid, Spain, a newspaper correspondent, died of a liver ailment and will be buried in London, according to John W. Dobbs, father of the widow.

"I talked with her and my wife by telephone and they said arrangements have been made to bury him in London on Tuesday," Mr. Dobbs explained.

Urges Wife Continue Career

He said Rodriquez, a former Spanish army officer who also had trained for the law, "was afflicted with a fatal liver ailment."

Before his death Friday, he urged his wife to continue her successful work as a concert artist and to aspire for greater heights in the field, Miss Dobbs told her father.

Slated For Royal Audience

Miss Dobbs was summoned to her husband's bedside while she was playing the role of Zerbinetta in "Ariadne Auf Nexos," by Richard Strauss. She appeared at the Glyndebourne Musical Festival last year.

Miss Dobbs' itinerary will take her to Scotland for the month of August, after which she and her mother, Mrs. J. W. Dobbs of Atlanta, will return to America.

Newslips bring $$ from AFRO

Several persons are richer this week because they called in news tips to the AFRO-AMERICAN last week.

Each week the AFRO has $25 to give away to persons who call in news tips to the City Desk which we use and which otherwise might receive too late.

The person who called in the tip about the 150 families who have to move in Annapolis will be $5 richer this week.

Tip on Fire

Another $5 winner is the housewife who first called to notify us of the fire which destroyed the portable school on Whatcoat St.

Others received payments ranging from $4 to $1 for the following newstips last week:

A man who fell three stories, a fire on Pennsylvania Ave., a youth being struck by a railroad train and a fire at Bentalou.

Pressman Sits

Also a fire in the 600 block W. Franklin St. and a man being hit by a car at Franklin and Pearl Sts.

You, too, can become eligible for some of this easy money. If you see an accident, or anything happen you consider newsworthy, just pick up the telephone and call MU. Cherry 5-6015.

That makes you eligible for the $25 that the AFRO gives away each week for tips.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Find Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The same to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly. Trade Mark

"Mrs. Moss" reinstatement at the pentagon speaks for itself and her conscience seems to be clear."

Senator McClellan, it was reported, in his office, had not been informed of the Winchell broadcast.

In her home at 1244 Evarts St., NE, Mrs. Moss said that she would prefer not to comment on the Winchell broadcast. Regarding her reinstatement at the Pentagon, the 49-year-old widow reported that "everybody has been very nice."

Mistaken Identity

Mr. Winchell, in his broadcast Sunday night, referred to a previous Sunday broadcast on which Mr. Cohn had appeared.

The columnist stated that one of the questions which he had not been able to ask Mr. Cohn during the previous broadcast was in regard to Mrs. Moss and whether her case was one of mistaken identity.

According to Mr. Winchell, the McCarthy aide replied that there was no mistake identity in Mrs. Moss' case and that he could prove the case "if they'll let me."

Pentagon officials said on Wednesday that, although her case is still "under consideration," no charges yet have been brought against Mrs. Moss.

"I am as satisfied as a person can be who is in a representative capacity for someone that there is absolutely no correctness in their position claiming her to be a Communist.

"It is unfair for them to say what they are in a position to prove rather than having the hearing and attempting to prove."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Moss was back on her job at the Pentagon where she was reinstated late in March after being suspended for 30 days.

McCarthy Departed

Her suspension from her job as a supply-clerk in the Signal Corps came after Senator McCarthy criticized the Army for failing to fire Mrs. Moss, following communist allegations made against her by an informer for his sub-committee.

Later, in a public sub-committee hearing, Senator McCarthy departed from the Senate hearing - room as Mrs. Moss steadfastly denied any communist affiliations.

Her testimony was so convincing that Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) told her he believed her and that if she did not get back her Army position he would help her get a job.

It was at the close of Mrs. Moss' testimony refuting the charges made against her that Mr. Cohn mentioned "corroboration" of the charges by an unnamed witness in executive session.

This brought from Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) a denunciation of the "convicting of people by rumor, hearsay and innuendo." He said that Mrs. "corroboration" testimony proves Moss had the right to have the duced in her presence.

Since it had been mentioned in a public hearing, Senator McClellan added, the public has a right also to know what the alleged testimony is and to weigh its value.

Cohn's Remarks Stricken

Sen. Karl Mundt (R., N. Dak.) ordered Mr. Cohn's remarks stricken from the record and stated that the sub-committee would clear with the FBI about producing the unnamed witness public.

To date, however, no further public hearing of Mrs. Moss' case has been scheduled, according to a secretary in the offices of the sub-committee.

The secretary said on Wednesday that Mr. Cohn was out of town and could not be reached.

Reinstatement Cited

In Senator Symington's office, an aide to the Senator said that Mr. Symington had no comment. The aide added:

James McCoy, 42, construction company employee of 2250 Madison Ave. divorced Mrs. Lillian McCoy who he said took a Labor Day trip in 1949 and has not returned yet.

The husband said that his wife left purportedly to visit her mother in Murrell's Inlet, S.C. When last he heard, she was in Miami, Fla., he testified.

Also on desertion charges Richard Goodwyn, 36, divorced Mrs. Beatrice Goodwyn of NYC, who, he said, walked out on him in 1946, four years after their marriage.

A rigger at the Bethlehem Steel Company, Mr. Goodwyn lives at 3029 S. Atlanta Ave. He said that when he chanced to meet his wife three weeks after she left, she told him, "I am gone and I am going to stay gone."

Edward Stewart, railroad company janitor of 2043 Harlem Ave., won a divorce from Mrs. Thelma Stewart of 1509 Clifton Ave. He said that he came home from work one day to find her gone.

Father's divorce, remarriage to benefit children

Granted a divorce this week, Louis Holton, 31, testified that he would marry his housekeeper immediately so that he could regain custody of his children, now wards of the city welfare department.
