NEWLYWEDS—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Millard were married in Washington, recently. The bride is the former Miss Jean Holly.

Ceremony in Washington for Miss Holly, Lloyd Millard

WASHINGTON

Miss Jean Falvia Holly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holly of Baltimore, became the bride of Lloyd Millard, son of Mr. Oscar Millard in a pretty double ring ceremony at St. Augustine Catholic Church recently.

Miss Holly, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a traditional white gown of nylon tulle, the bouffant skirt enhanced with several rows of ruffles. The neckline was of lace and her fingertip veil was of lace and pearls. She carried a prayer book adorned with a white orchid and satin streamers.

The Rt. Rev. Gingrast officiated.

Sister Attends

Mrs. Sylvia H. Gladman of New York, sister of the bride was matron of honor and only attendant. Her dress was of maize lace and nylon net and she wore a matching headpiece. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Little Diane Dixon, niece and goddchild of the bride was flower girl. She wore green net.

DeWalden Jones served as best man for the bridegroom. Ushers were Marshall Bradley, Pat Jamison, and Irvin Millard, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Daisy Holly, mother of the bride, was dressed in aqua lace. She wore a white feathered hat, encrusted with rhinestones, white gloves and shoes.

Mrs. Rosie Millard, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of silk over rete.

Both wore orchid corsages.

Reception Held

At the reception following the wedding, hostesses were Mesdames June B. Thorn, Zerita T. Skates, and Odessa W. Dyson of Baltimore, and Mesdames Clark of Washington.

The new Mrs. Millard, a former Baltimorean, is a government employee. Mr. Millard is a teacher in the Washington schools.

They are at home at 3537 11th St., NW, Washington.

St. Mary Choir holds banquet

On Thursday evening St. Mary's Choir Club held its fourth annual mother-daughter banquet in the church recreation room.

Miss Charlotte E. Williams, vice president of the club, served as mistress of ceremonies. Music was provided by Mrs. Hazel Duvall, president.

Program

A playlet was presented under direction of Mrs. Mary W. Jones by a group which included Vermel Faulk, Sheila Bonds, Rosa Young, Delores Epps, Clarence Dixon, James Hendricks, Monfray Aldrich, Anna Moody, Barbara Truitt and Leonard Pickett.

Folk dances were performed by Rose Marie Satables and Lorraine Booker, with John Taylor as choreographer.

Remarks were made by the priest of the congregation, Father L. Locher.

AFRO columnist married to Morgan ROTC officer

Miss Margot M. Williams AFRO - AMERICAN columnist became the bride of Lt. Edward M. Scott in a recent wedding at Asbury Methodist Church.

The Rev. R. M. Williams, pastor of Asbury, and the Rev. Eugene Williams, pastor of Simms Memorial Methodist Church, and grandfather of the bride, officiated at the doubble ring ceremony.

Miss Myrtle E. Fentress was soloist, and Mark Fax was at the organ.

Palms, gladioli, and candles added much to the beauty of the church.

Wears Lace

Miss Williams was charming in a gown of chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with oval neline appliqued with hand-clipped medallions, embroidered with pearls and opalescents. The bodice was tightly fitted and boasted long pointed sleeves.

The bouffant skirt cascading into a cathedral train, had godets of pleated tulle. The veil of pure silk illusion fell from a fedlet cap embroidered with opalescents. And the bride carried a Bible topped with two white orchids.

Sister Attends

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister Miss Gail C. Williams. She wore a yellow net dress and carried a bouquet of scarlet roses.

The six bridesmaids wore gowns of dream blue nylon net with matching hats, shoes and gloves and carried nosegays of yellow roses.

They were Misses Beverly Ann Brown, Karen Wiggs, Carol Dibble, Suzanne Miller, Lois Turner and Mrs. Beverly Johnson Kelly.

Prevent accidents, repair the little things at home

Tripping and falling flat on one's face isn't funny, even if the only hurt is one's dignity. It is definitely un-funny when skinned knees, bruises, or even broken bones are involved.

"Accidents will happen," we sometimes say, and perhaps this bit of philosophy helps us feel better when one has happened to us. But many accidents wouldn't happen if we were less philosophical and more careful about preventing them.

So often, what causes an accident is such a little thing. A little spot of wax on the floor that wasn't thoroughly rubbed—a little tear in the stair carpet—a little toy left in the dark of the upstairs hall—a little nail loose in a board on the porch—little things that should have been taken care of before they could cause trouble.

Always 'Going To'

Most of us are "going to" fix the things around the house that we know are hazards. We are going to find a place to put the flower pots that have piled up on the cellar stairs.

We are "going to" fasten the screen in the children's room more securely and "going to" get a covered metal basket for burning trash in the backyard, and get a non-skid pad for the rug in the front hall.

"I must have a small stepladder in the kitchen," we say, but we go on using a precarious chair to stand on.

Today is a very good day to do these things we are "going to do." And while we're at it, why not . . . . . .

that wiring we've had your doubts about?

Why not put a lock on the medicine cabinet, so that the youngsters can't help themselves to the grown-ups pills? And how about a screen to fit clear across the fire place?

Because accidents aren't fun at any age. Bruises and burns and broken bones are not funny at all.

New Miracle Bleach WITH "Hair Trigger" Action Lightens Skin from Inside Out

Paris, Tenn. — A new and entirely different skin bleaching cream was announced today by Golden Peacock, a 32-year-old laboratory in this city. The cream has "hair-trigger" action, it is claimed. When you apply the light, fluffy cream like a vanishing cream, then take it right off with a cleanser or cloth, there takes place a brief moment the cream is on, the bleach sinks through the surface, reaches every layer of the skin where there is dark pigment to be whitened. Bleaches from inside out. The result—faster bleaching, lighter, prettier even skin color almost over night. Gone are blackheads and pimples, oily skin and coarse pores. Remember, cleaned by washer and regular cleansers never. The product has been kept secret until now. Now it is offered nationwide. Get this new "hair trigger" Golden Peacock Bleach Cream in its familiar tube, gold and red box from druggists or direct from the factory. Use it to make skin light and alluring all over night—and to keep skin nicely light-colored two weeks or more. For sale at all drug and department stores.

Crownsville fetes Independence Day

Crownsville State Hospital will celebrate Independence Day on Saturday, July 3, with every patient in the hospital getting a fried chicken picnic luncheon. Twelve hundred patients, who are well enough to go to the athletic field, will be served a box luncheon, with peanuts and lemonade.

Those within the hospital will receive the same fare; the patients in the maximum security wards having cigarettes and candy as an additional treat.

An hour concert by the Olpice Navy band will be the feature of the day. The band will parade through the grounds at 10 a.m., and will separate in groups of five to play, for 20-minute sessions in closed hospital wards. The full band will reassemble for the concert.

Athletic games and a pie eating contest will follow. A patient talent show will marke the close of festivities with trios, quartets and instrumentalists providing the entertainment. Josephus Lee, Department of Rehabilitation, is chairman of the day.

44-year teaching career ends for P.D.G. Pennington

By JIMMY WILLIAMS

Forty-four years in the Baltimore school system came to an end last month for Perry Dennis Glenford Pennington, teacher of biology at Douglass High School.

With his customary good humor, Mr. Pennington bid his fellow teachers goodbye on Wednesday with a smile and several witty stories. The setting was a reception given at the end of a Douglass faculty meeting.

Mr. Pennington received a portable refrigerator as a present from the faculty, but even more important he received the warm and sincere wishes of the faculty for his continued happiness.

Believes In Friends

For Mr. Pennington this goodbye was a justification of the philosophy that has guided his life. He believes that friendship is one of life's most precious gifts — and this goodbye proved that he had friends.

So with a grateful smile at this tribute from the faculty, Mr. Pennington retired as a Douglass teacher and set his attention on enjoying the peace that comes after a full and active career.

In the 44 years that Mr. Pennington has been in the school system, approximately 20,000 children have been instructed in biology in his classroom.

Kept His Honor

During the years there have been happy and bitter moments for Mr. Pennington, but through them all he kept his sense of humor, his love of children, and his love of his work.

These are the qualities that go to make up P.D.G. Pennington, and these are the qualities that have made him loved and respected.

Mr. Pennington was born in Baltimore, June 4, 1884 and received his early education in local schools. He was a member of the first Douglass class to be instructed by colored teachers.

Members Of Class

Prior to 1901 the colored secondary schools had been staffed in Baltimore by white teachers, but in that year Douglass High School, then located at Pennsylvania Ave. and Dolphin St., was given a colored faculty.

Out of that first class came not only Mr. Pennington but Herbert M. Frisby, head of the Douglass Science Department; John Cotton, principal of Booker T. Washington, and Oliver Strawn and Josiah Holley, two postal clerks.

Mr. Pennington studied for two years at Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire, and later entered Wesleyan University where he graduated with a bachelor of science degree in 1910.

Appointed Teacher

Later that year Mr. Pennington was appointed as a teacher at Douglass. From 1915 to 1928 he served as vice principal at the Booker T. Washington Junior High School. He then returned to Douglass where he remained until his retirement.

An avid lover of sports, Mr. Pennington organized the first golf team at Douglass and coached the football team for several years.

In looking back over the crowded years, Mr. Pennington sees nothing that he would have changed. If he had his whole life to live again, he would have it the same.

Enjoyed Teaching

He has enjoyed his teaching, his pupils, his social activities. He is a happy man and he intends to stay that way.

"I want to continue to live actively and do the things I love to do, as far as I have the time, health and the means."

In addition to sports, Mr. Pennington is also fond of gardening and has a flower garden in the rear of his home at 1518 McCulloh St.

Through his experience as a teacher Mr. Pennington believes that while children of today are different than their parents, the difference comes naturally.

With Kindness

"I think that modern inventions such as radio, television and the movies and the general freedom that parents give children today tend to make the modern child a little more difficult to handle."

Mr. Pennington answered the problems of his pupils with kindness and understanding. He sympathized with them, joked with them, but never let them forget that his fundamental purpose was to teach them something of biology.

Among those who remember Mr. Pennington are Annie Wiggins Brown, Cab Calloway, dancer Avon Long, Bill Kenny, Dr. Bernard Harris, Dr. James Carr, Dr. Louis Harmon, Mrs. Lillian Parrott, and Mrs. E. Romaine Jones.

There have been a host of other distinguished pupils, several of whom have gone on to make biology their career.

Sharing Mr. Pennington's retirement will be his wife, Mrs. Pearl Pennington whom he married in 1941. Mr. Pennington's first wife, Mrs. Bertha Pennington died in 1939.

The tall white haired biology teacher with the friendly smile is retired now — but Douglass High School and Baltimore will not forget him.

ON RETIREMENT—The portable refrigerator reproduced in the painting was the gift that Perry D. G. Pennington received on Wednesday at a reception given by the Douglass faculty. Mr. Pennington retired after 44 years in the school system. To the right is Leonard U. Gibson, teacher at Douglass.

Holiday fireworks display scheduled

Strutting majorettes, drill teams, a drum and bugle corps and whippet races are included along with the fireworks in the Greater Northeast Baltimore Association's 21st Independence Day celebration at Memorial Stadium on Monday, July 5.

Following the parade of the officers of the Association and all participants in the celebration along with military units, the show will get underway with a series of whippet races.

Members of the YMCA will then give a gymnastic exhibition. The US 2nd Army Band from Fort Meade will supply music for the occasion. A snazzy drill team from the Bainbridge Naval Training Center will entertain with marching maneuvers.

Marching Unit

The Center's famous Drum and Bugle Corps, will also entertain. A marching unit from the U.S. Air Force Air Research and Development Command Women's Auxiliary will demonstrate close order drill. The Stardust Review majorettes will strut and twirl the length of the field.

Officials have emphasized that there will be no charge for parking on the Stadium's lots. The gates will open at 6:30 p.m. and the parade will begin at 7 p.m. The fireworks are scheduled to go off at 9 P.M.
