Missing Balto. girl sought

The AFRO - AMERICAN was asked last week to help locate Nancy L. Shaw, 31, of Baltimore, last known to have been living in Philadelphia at the YWCA.

The plea was made by John H. Shaw of 601 N. Dukeland Street, Baltimore, a brother of the missing woman.

Mr. Shaw told the AFRO he has not seen or heard from his sister in six years. He said that about two years ago his sister called him in Baltimore from Philadelphia and told him that she just returned from working with a doctor in Detroit, Mich., and that she was then going to take a "vacation."

He said at the time he asked her to come to Baltimore for the rest and that his sister promised to call him back and let him know if she was coming. Since that time he has never heard from her.

Shaw said he does not know if his sister is married or not but that she is a graduate of Clover High School, Clover, S.C. and attended a half year of college in Nashville, Tenn. He could not remember the name of the college.

He is asking that anyone knowing the whereabouts of his sister to contact him at the Baltimore address.

Predict boost in total jobs

Maryland's graduates of 1954 and coming years will find constantly expanding activity in established fields as well as in businesses and industries not yet born, according to studies of the National Association of Manufacturers, which are based upon projections of the U.S. Census Bureau.

While the growth of population in the United States is continuing at an unprecedented rate, the labor force is also expanding. By 1975, it is expected that the American public will need to raise enough investment funds to provide approximately 22,000,000 new jobs.

In the State of Maryland, if the national average is met, there will be a total of 447,500 new members o fthe labor force in the period from 1950 to 1975.

This will call for an average expenditure of $12,000 for each job, or a total of more than five and a quarter BILLION dollars.

43,000 Technicians

If present employment trends continue, according to the SAM and Census Bureau studies, the 1950-1975 increase in jobs as technicians will total 43,000.

There will be 38,000 new openings for managers; 61,500 in the clerical field; 30,500 for salesmen; 70,500 for craftsmen; 83,000 for operators of various types; 68,000 for workmen and 53,000 openings in other employment classifications.

While currently our schools are breaking records in numbers of graduates, we will shortly have a drop. This change, however will be only of short duration.

The first wave of our unprecedented increase in population has hit the elementary schools already. Soon these pupils will reach the secondary schools and then be ready for colleges and universities.

MRS. LILLIAN PARROTT, a special assistant in city schools, was elevated to the position of principal-desegnate of the Booker T. Washington Junior High School No. 130.

MRS. E. ROMAINE JONES, former principal of the William M. Alexander Elementary School No. 112 recently promoted to a post of area director in Baltimore City Schools

MRS. MARION G. JOHNSON, former principal of the James Mosher Elementary School No. 144, has been promoted to the position of area director in Baltimore City Schools.

MAYBE it's the popularity of the beaches that's helped to make the world so figure-conscious.

Or maybe it's today's finer figures, and the pride their owners take in them, that have made the beaches popular.

Either way, the reason Pepsi-Cola is in greater favor than ever today, at beaches and everywhere else, is the fact that Pepsi has adapted itself to the modern desire to stay trim and fit.

Today's active people prefer lighter foods, lighter beverages. And today's Pepsi-Cola, never heavy, never too sweet, is reduced in calories for today's sensible taste in diet.

It is the modern, the light refreshment. You'll find Pepsi-Cola everywhere, in the familiar economy bottle that serves two people, or in the smaller, single-drink size, just right for one.

Have a Pepsi. It refreshes without filling.

Shriners win first round

Master in Chancery recommends Illinois Shriners be declared separate group from Masons

Federal Court has yet to rule on Chancery recommendation before it is final

Masons set to protest ruling all the way to U.S. Supreme Court

CHICAGO (NNPA) — The Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was declared a "separate and distinct" organization from the Prince Hall Masons in a 35-page report filed in Federal District Court here Friday by Daniel D. Carmell, special master in chancery.

First reaction of Masonic plaintiffs was that the recommendation is unbelievable.

Amos T. Hall, president of the Grand Masters Council, said, "We are going to file exception to the Master of Chancery's report and contest it from them all, even if it goes to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"This is merely a recommendation. We will await the court's final decision before taking additional action.

Allen Concurs

Dr. Willard W. Allen, grand master of Maryland Masons, concurred in Grand Master Hall's views.

The announcement of the Chancery recommendation will cause more grand masters and Shriners to come to Chicago July 24 and 25 to discuss the whole question.

The court battle between the two fraternal groups began April 1, when Raymond E. Jackson, imperial potentate of the Shrine, and Paul E. X. Brown, of Atlanta, asked the court to enjoin all Illinois Masons from obeying an edict issued by Dr. F. Curtis Rogan, grand master of the Illinois Prince Hall Masons.

The suit asked for damages of $50,000 from Dr. Rogan and the Illinois grand lodge.

The edict, issued last December, declared that some explanation should be given because so many of the persons present were not members of the meeting.

He said that Mrs. White and Mr. Jones had indicated to the meeting their marriage intentions. Both, he said, had been interviewed upon a number of occasions to be sure that all was clear for the union.

The Friends had then called this worship service to hear the marriage declarations of the couple and in order that their friends might be witnesses.

There was another period of silence.

Brief Ceremony

Mrs. White and Mr. Jones then stood. Facing each other he said: "Harriet, I take thee for my wife, and with Divine assistance I promise to be a good and faithful husband." He said that Mrs. White and Mr. Jones had indicated to the meeting their marriage intentions. Both, he said, had been interviewed upon a number of occasions to be sure that all was clear for the union.

Find Tot, 3, Lost In Woods 18 Hours

Fireman discovers missing tot

300 in mixed searching party; parents pleased

By LARRY STILL
Staff Reporter

SENECA, Md. — Little Susan Jackson was found in the woods near here Thursday afternoon following a frantic 18-hour search but her parents are still wondering where she spent the stormy night.

The three-year-old girl who had been missing since 5 o'clock Wednesday was located in a clump of bushes about a mile and half from her home by Morman E. Pyles, white, of the Chevy Chase, Md., fire department.

The child was found less than a mile from the dreaded Seneca creek where volunteer searchers, preparing to drag for her body, feared she had fallen

Although she had been missing during a violent rainstorm and was found in a water-soaked area the tot's clothing was dry, rescuers reported.

Says "Hi"

Mr. Pyles said little Susan said "Hi" to him when he first saw her and gave no clue to where she had been.

About 300 persons formed an interracial searching party of the entire countryside.

Mrs. Rachel Jackson, 32, the child's distraught mother and James H. Jackson, 33, her disabled father, ran to meet the rescuers as they drove up in front of their home on Berryville Rd., about 10 miles out of Rockville, Md., with little Susan.

A white neighbor, Mrs. Fred L. Osborn, helped the jubilant parents carry the child into the house.

"I just want to get my hand on her and get her inside," Mrs. Jackson screamed happily as she clutched her daughter. Jr.

Woman gives first clue to identity of slayer

Over 500 persons attended funeral services for the two teenagers who were fatally stabbed Saturday night by a motorist at Arlington Ave. and Lanvale St.

Some 300 were present at services for Claude Walker, 16, 1200 block W. Mosher St., on Wednesday, while over 200 attended services for Eugene Banks, 16, 1500 block Brunt St., on Thursday.

Meanwhile a 13-state search for the missing motorist continued with fresh vigor as police received their first real break in the case with the arrest of an alleged eyewitness to the stabbings.

The 31-year-old mother of 10 children was arrested on Wednesday night by Officers Robert Johnson and William Thieman of the Northwestern District.

Leaped From Car

Police said that she was in the car when the motorist drew to a halt when a group of boys shouted at him to turn on his lights. As she shouted "No, no," the man reportedly leaped from the car with a butcher knife in his hand.

In the ensuing altercation between the man and the youths, both Walker and Banks suffered knife wounds which resulted in their death.

With the arrest of the woman, police received their first description of the wanted motorist, and warrants have been issued for his arrest on homicide charges.

Held in Bail

The woman appeared in Northwestern police court late Thursday afternoon where she was ordered held in $750 bail as a state's witness.

Testimony about the woman's past was given by Policewoman Violet Hill Whyte who said she had deserted her children a year ago and had only recently returned to them.

The man being sought is described as a 34-year-old unemployed laborer, who is the father of nine children. The search is being conducted along the entire East Coast.

Deal with IBC exposed in court ruling declaring boxing not under Sherman Anti-Trust Act

JUSTICE DEPT. APPEALS TO U.S. SUPREME COURT

Joe got stock in corporation to give up heavyweight crown, transfer Louis Enterprises to new organization

By LOUIS LAUTIER
(NNPA)

WASHINGTON

Joe Louis, ex-heavyweight boxing champion of the world, received $150,000 to give up his title in 1949 as part of the deal which resulted in giving the International Boxing Club control of the prizefight industry, the Department of Justice charges.

The charge is made in a direct appeal from the judgment of the Federal District Court in New York City, holding that boxing, like baseball, is not subject to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act which forbids conspiracies in restraint of trade.

The appeal, filed by Simon E. Sobeloff, Solicitor General of the United States, will be argued before the Supreme Court sometime next fall.

Louis Not Involved

The respondents in the case are the International Boxing Club of New York, Inc.; the International Boxing Club, an Illinois corporation; Madison Square Garden Corporation; James D. Norris, IBC president, and Arthur M. Wirtz, an IBC director. These three corporations and two individuals own 80 per cent of the IBC stock.

Neither Louis nor his trustees (Truman K. Gibson Jr., and Theodore R. Jones, both of Chicago) are involved in the litigation.

The Government charges that since early 1949 the respondents have been conspiring to restrain and monopolize interstate commerce in the promotion, exhibition, broadcasting, telecasting, and motion picture production and distribution of professional boxing championships.

Joe Given Stock

To carry out the alleged conspiracy and obtain a monopoly, the Government charges, the respondents did the following things:

Early in January, 1949, they agreed among themselves and with Louis that he would resign his title as heavyweight champ-

Trilling bird, silence feature unique wedding

By LULA JONES GARRETT

In Homewood Friends meeting house, Saturday morning, the tick of a lovely old clock beat out a steady rhythm upon the silence of the assembled group.

Outside, in the equally lovely garden, a bird, flitting from rose tree to rose tree, trilled out a befitting musical note.

These were the only sounds that drifted into the cool, gray and white library, so homelike with its pots of greens, its shelves of books and its old furniture, as the worship service began in which Mrs. Harriet White and Wilbert Jones were married, at 11 a.m.

Filled With Guests

The library had long been filled with guests when six overseers arrived and were seated facing the congregation. A minute later, Mrs. White and Mr. Jones came into the library and sat in front seats.

There were several minutes of silence before Marlin Dawson, clerk of the Baltimore Yearly Meeting of Friends, arose and spoke. He said that though it was not the usual custom, he felt that some explanation should be given because so many of the persons present were not members of the meeting.

Guard ruling

Major General Milton J. Reckord told the AFRO Friday that he had requested a ruling from Attorney General Edward Rollins asking whether or not the Maryland National Guard units are now organized in compliance with recent decision of the Supreme Court.

The high court, on May 17 and 24 in a series of cases, declared segregation to be in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

Gen. Reckord added that he expected a reply from the attorney general's office early next week.

Nashville parochial schools desegregated

NASHVILLE (ANP) — The Most Rev. William L. Adrian, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Nashville, has ordered one of city's two colored parishes closed and has opened all parochial schools in the city to students of both races, in accord with the recent Supreme Court decision.

Day of week determines whether you are welcome

The day of the week determines whether colored visitors are welcome at the picturesque Sugar Loaf Mountain near Buckeystown, Md.

A. M. Thomas, superintendent of the public sight-seeing beauty spot, explained that the policy is to admit colored guests any day during the week — but not on Sundays or holidays.

It was on a Sunday, June 27, however, that Father C. E. Mills, rector of St. James PE Church, Baltimore and his family visited the mountain and were cordially guided on tour.

Friend Turned Away

But a friend of his who tried to enter later was turned away at the gate.

Questioned about this discrepancy, Mr. Thomas explained that "The Mills party came in without the gateman seeing them. He called to them, but apparently they didn't hear; so he let them go on."

The Mills family happened to visit the mountain because it is only a few miles from the Claggett Episcopal Conference Center.

Sugar Loaf Mountain is a part of the private estate of the Gordon Strong family. Mr. Strong opened the mountain to the public and upon his death left it as a public trust.
