COOKING FUN

When you leave the kitchen for the great outdoors of cookery this summer, you'll find it handy to remember three things—garlic salt, onion salt and celery salt. This fragrant trio is tailor-made for fresh air meals. A flick of a shaker, they supply seasonings that once took too much precious summer time to prepare. They save time, but keep the flavor of outdoor meals on a par with the most carefully prepared indoor meals.

* * *

REMEMBER THESE salts when you prepare a marinade for a backyard barbecue or a sauce for a shish kabob. Use them singly or in combination in salads, salad dressings and vegetable juice drinks. Spread them into hamburger meat as you shape the patties. Sprinkle them on your next charcoal broiled steak is it sizzles over the white coals.

And, if your "provider" is a rod and reeler, remember to rub some garlic or onion salt into the fishy fare he brings home for you to cook.

Coming, as they do, in neat little glass jars with salt shaker tops, these seasoning salts take up a minimum of room in picnic hamper or camping knapsack. They save etsey, too, when you're carting the "fixings" of a backyard meal from kitchen to the outside fireplace.

INCIDENTALLY, seasoning salts are what their name seems to imply. Onion and garlic salts are made only of the pure, dehydrated and pulverized seasoning (garlic, onion or celery seed) blend carefully and uniformly with ordinary table salt. Celery salt is a blend of ground celery seeds and salt.

In the following recipes, the American Spice Trade Association's kitchen offers some savory low-cost, low calory suggestions for using seasoning salts in your back-to-nature cooking this summer. Serve tall glasses of amber iced tea with your outdoor meals for a refreshing very-erage.

TO MAKE Shish Kabobs you will need 2 lbs. boneless lean lamb, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, ½ teaspoon garlic salt, ½ teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, 1/16 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper, and 16 small onions.

Cut lamb into 1½-inch cubes. Combine oil, vinegar, seasoning salts, black pepper and cayenne pepper. Pour over the lamb. Marinate 3 to 4 hours. Drain. Put skewers alternating with onions. Cook over grill until done (45 to 60 minutes), turning to cook all sides. Yield: 6 servings.

BARBECUED Fish—Use fish steaks — sword fish, salmon or halibut — cut ¾ to ¾-inch thick over a greased grill or in a folding wire broiler. Baste with warm garlic salt water (1 tea spoon garlic salt and 2 teaspoons salt to 1 cup water) at 3 to 4 minute intervals or as often as fish looks dry.

Cook 20 minutes or until fish is flaky when tested with a fork, turning frequently. Then turn and baste with the following: Barbecue Sauce at 3 to 4 minute intervals. Cook 10 minutes or until tender.

Barbecue Sauce Is made with ½ cup cider vinegar, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup fresh lemon juice, 2 tablespoons catsup, 1 tablespoon salad oil, ½ teaspoon ground red pepper, ½ teaspoon chili powder, and ½ teaspoon onion salt.

Combine all ingredients in saucepan. Heat to boiling point. If desired, pass additional sauce in a cruet or pitcher when serving. YIELD: 1 cup.

POTATO SAUSAGE Salad.—3 cups cold cubed potatoes, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon powdered dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ¼ teaspoon garlic salt, ½ cup diced celery, ½ cup diced green pepper, 1/3 cup chopped onion, 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, ¼ cup mayonnaise, lettuce, paprika and parsley, and 4-oz. can Vienna sausages, sliced.

Marinate potatoes 2 to 3 hours in a mixture of the vinegar, oil, salt and spices. Add the Vienna sausage, celery, green pepper, onion and hard-cooked eggs. Add mayonnaise and toss lightly. Arrange on lettuce. Garnish with paprika and parsley. Yield: 10 servings.

Crab meat rules assure customers superior product

Consumers will be able to buy a superior quality of crab meat this season because of the packers' compliance with specific standards developed by the industry in cooperation with the Maryland State Department of Health.

This is the first season that the State Health Department has had the authority to require the 70 crab meat plants in Maryland to obtain a license before they can sell their product, and to require them to operate according to specific sanitary regulations.

Because crab meat and crab meat products are very perishable, dealers must comply with six rules "to insure a product of high quality reaching the consumer."

The rules include: All crab meat or crab meat products must be covered with crushed or flake ice. Do not hold meat in freezing compartments and sell same as fresh or pasturized meat. When shipping or transferring meat start with a layer of ice and then a layer of cans of crab meat. Wholesalers and retailers should not "load up" on meat. Do not open the container for sampling or display. Keep crab meat or crab meat products away from substances whose odors can be picked up by the meat.

Spencer foundation designed to give 'new lift' of style

The big news in the corset world is the need for a foundation which will provide the "lift" busted effect so necessary in the current dress styles.

To meet that need Spencer Corset Company has created two new styles of foundation garments, and a complete new bra line.

For over 50 years Spencer has been a leader in the corset industry, due to its unique method of individually designing each corset and bra for the wearer. Only after the trained Spencer corsetiere gives a complete description of the uncontrolled figure, and then takes many measurements over an adjustable control corset, does the Spencer designer begin his work.

EACH SPENCER is cut and made to enhance the wearer's best figure lines, to control and redistribute soft flesh, and to improve posture. Every section of the girdle or bra is cut to improve figure lines.

Their lastest creation, the Spencer Corselet, is the answer to those seeking for a foundation that will do justice to those lithe-lined new dresses and suits.

Artfully designed brassiere cups, and special construction through the diaphragm eliminate dog-ear-puff in the bra section of this all-in-one foundation. An unbelievable inset section flattens the tummy, and durable nylon elastic panels provide needed control where you need it most.

* * *

AVAILABLE IN a choice of fabrics, Spencer's lightweight, flexible garment features colored wire boning for remarkably supple, firm control. This foundation ranges in price from $20.95 to $75.00, depending upon size and material choice.

Glossy ripe olive pieces, tender artichoke hearts and crisp celery blend with a simple sauce to give a beginning course of real elegance.

FOR ARTICHOKE COCKTAIL you will need one-third cup ripe olives, one-third cup chopped celery, 6 cooked artichoke hearts, one-third cup tomato cat sup, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, one - fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one-half teaspoon prepared horseradish.

Caution this summer is your insurance for another winter

With the advent of warm weather, thousands will be heading for the beaches and resort areas for a little hard earned relaxation and fun in the form of swimming and boating.

Unfortunately, most are ill prepared for their activity and may pay dearly for their lack of experience unless they are cautious.

Each year, according to National Safety Council figures, between 6,500 and 7,000 persons throughout the nation lose their lives by drowning.

About 3,400 of these result from swimming or playing in water and about 3,300 are non-swimming fatalities—persons falling into the water from boats, piers, docks, river banks, etc.

* * *

AS MIGHT BE expected, the bulk of these accidents occur during summer months. Of boat accidents, accounting for over a third of the total, in Maryland, during the last 90 days alone, 11 drownings out of a total of 16 were victims of boating accidents.

To help avert further unnecessary loss of life in this manner, the home accident prevention unit of the Maryland State Department of Health, which is spearheading a special state-wide vacation safety campaign, urges all persons planning to go out in small craft to heed the following suggestions:

Check the boat for leaks and other defects, before leaving shore and make sure life preservers are aboard for all passengers. Providing an extra oar and a bailing can is added safeguard.

If a motor is used, have it checked before the first trip of the season and always carry a fire extinguisher. Be sure the motor is the proper size for the boat or vice versa.

* * *

ALWAYS REDUCE the speed of power-driven boats when passing bathing beaches, canoes, or other small craft.

Do not go out in a small boat unless you are thoroughly acquainted with the craft and can handle it in a sudden squall or storm. Better to check the weather forecasts and postpone your trip than take a chance.

Someone aboard every boat should be familiar with first-aid treatment and approved methods of artificial respiration.

DO NOT overload your boat with passengers or equipment. And, if your boat capsizes or swamps, keep calm and stay with it. Most small craft will stay afloat and support several persons even though filled with water.

In the event the water becomes rough, fasten your life belts or floating cushions. Should your boat become swamped remain in it if possible. Paddle or row it to shore rather than attempting to swim.
