are flooding our office daily. They are Delia and Diane Wade, 6-month-old daughters of Mrs. Alberta Wade, 246 N. Fulton Ave.

THEY ALONG with the other babies entered in the contest will be carefully judged by our judges at the close of the contest to see who the 20 healthiest babies from Baltimore and the suburbs will be.

The judges have a big task before them and they are anxious to get started.

The winning baby will receive $300 in cash and cash awards will be given to the other 19 babies.

THE CONTEST is held solely for babies in this community and the way the entries are pouring in to the AFRO, the 1955 Healthy Baby Contest is certain to surpass the first contest held here last fall.

The news and results of the contest will be found only in the AFRO; so be sure to read every issue and don't forget to mail those entries if you haven't already done so.

WHY THE FROWNS?—Because these babies are worried, that's why. They're afraid the deadline of the AFRO and Carnation Milk Second Annual Healthy Baby Contest will get here before you get a chance to mail in your entry. And midnight May 14 is the deadline. Only seven more days left. So clip out that entry blank in the ad elsewhere in this edition and send it in. These cute babies, Gertrude Matthews, Maris Phillip, Rose Harris, Rodney Tasco, Merlin Thomas Jr., Earl Simmons and Angela Jiggetts, want to see you parents enter your children in the big contest too.

ACTIVITIES of the Junior Civic Council of School No. 162:

Our new building is located in the heart of an industrial area. The residential area is decreasing rapidly and many home owners who were formerly interested in improving conditions are moving away.

Many transients share the neighborhood temporarily and have little regard for its appearance.

THE PUPILS and parents who remain as permanent dwellers, are charged with the responsibility of trying to preserve and beautify the sub - standard dwellings which some occupy.

Realizing these conditions, our children organized a group dedicated to improving the cleanliness and beautification of the school community. This group is called the Junior Civic Council, BEFORE AND after school each day, the J. C. C. boys inspect the school grounds and the neighboring lot. They gather the accumulated debris, put it in the proper containers, remove chalk marks and replace the wire surrounding our grass plot, which we have tried to mature.

In addition to this, they remind the parents of trash collection days.

The J. C. C. is one of the main lines of contact with the rest of the student body. They are supported greatly by the Student Council.

The mother's club lends support to the program by keeping the community informed. The sanitary policemen in the community have served as law enforcement agents.

AS A RESULT of their work with the Junior Civic Council and Sanitation Committee of School No. 162, our boys and girls have become more conscious of the necessity for keeping their homes and premises clean.

THE MAYOR honored our J.C.C. Group with certificates as a recent PTA meeting for their wonderful work.

Although the school has been able to see many good results of the work of this group, the Junior Civic Council is planning to continue and even broaden the activities to make our school and surroundings more beautiful.

NEWLYWEDS—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, who were married in Baltimore recently. The bride is the former Miss Ernestine Anderson.

Gadabouting in Baltimore

Variety marks social doings of town folks

with Lula Jones Garrett

Politics are more fun than a barrel of monkeys, especially if you're on the outside and merely looking on, with no hangover possibilities.

Take for instance this week and that last great push ...with the ladies of the various factions smilingly weilding the cutlasses right and left.

On Saturday, when I should have been at Civic League House where members were being lady-like, in their beautiful frocks and pretty hats, wielding only packs of cards at a very swanky bridge party, I was at Emmerson Hotel, where the Democratic Ladies in equally chic suits, frocks and pretty hats were rallying for what turned out to be the winning slate.

The place was packed to the hilt. There were, of course, the usual speeches and pep songs, with the rhythm beat out by Rivers Chambers' pianist, Myles Yancey (much to the consternation of one bushy-browed democrat of the old school who just about passed out over the bland singers' proximity to Mr. Yancey on the platform).

George T. Mahoney (who had been at odds at a previous campaign) made a rousing speech for Mr. D'Alesandro (re-elected Mayor), but he failed to arouse the Mayor very much, if expression and speech were indications.

In the receiving line and among a score of women, who, along with a committee had worked with and through Mrs. Nancy D'Alesandro to set up the project, were Mesdames Bernard Harris, Lena Lee, the attorney; and Bruce Alleyne.

The head of the Women's Democratic Club, Mrs. Victorine Adams, was not, I understand, in on the planning, but had her request for invitations for her group honored. She had her inning, though. For she stood at the lobby entrance and pinned cards on her ladies . . . much to the consternation (again) of other clubs' members who were presenting a solid front with no identification allowed.

Along toward the end of the program Mrs. Blanche James lifted her lovely soprano voice in several ballads, and soothed every ruffled nerve. Then the ladies waded toward four long tables where cookies and coffee were served and girded themselves for last ditch vote getting.

GETTING BACK TO the very lovely party that the Cooperative Women's Civic League held Saturday, some 100 women vied for the flood of lovely gifts (actually there were about 50) that the committee garnered as prizes.

And were they suave . . . dozen 12-inch lace napkins that Mrs. William Fitzgerald fetched; nylon gloves from chairman Lena Dickerson; a perfectly beautiful jewlery box from Mrs. Nimrod Dotson; a delightful set up from Mrs. Vivian Cook . . . and on and on.

When the session came to an end, the top scorers in pinochle were Mesdames W. Queen, Hattie Pinder, Alberta Briggs, R. Chambers, Helen Holland, Gertrude Norris, Helen Moseley and Frances Hill.

Contract bridge upper gifts went to Misses Alma Harris and Kate Byrd, Mae W. Allison, Louise Hardeo, Ethel Hodges, Bernadine Harrison and Nicki Randolph.

The committee of arrangements included Mesdames Bessie Anderson, Sadie Bryant, Vivian Bundy, Emily Bishop, Mattie Conner, Pearl Dobson, Lucille Fitzgerald, Delores Hunt, Sarah Rayne, Lucille Monroe, Edith Scott, Gladys Shepherd, Ethel Day and of course, Mrs. Dickerson.

METROPOLITAN METHODIST CHURCH was a fair bower of flowers on Sunday (pulpit and windows bearing huge baskets of posies) for the annual Woman's Day. . . and the chairman, Mrs. Lillian Lawrence in tears of joy over the success of the day's events.

For the first time in the 57 years of observance of the day, the women had met and passed their financial goal on the first shot. They had aimed at raising $2500, had collected something over $3700, and were on the way to making the take $4000.

There was standing room only at the morning service when Dr. Maeanna Chesterton-Mangle, public relations expert, writer and world-traveler, spoke. Afternoon speaker was Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney; and in the evening the choir of the Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church gave a concert.

The very successful endeavor was handled by a committee which, in addition to Mrs. Lawrence, included Mesdames Minnie Jones, Maggie Bowser, Addie Smith and Theodosia Burnett.

ON MONDAY, I and 299 other women turned out at a matinee and an evening session to greet Miss Joyce Alvia McClinton, the 1955 Spirit of Cotton Makers' Jubilee, in the Douglas Memorial Church.

Of course she had been greeted earlier; from the time she stepped off plane, when a motorcade of cars was at the airport . . . through a series of school appearances. And the charming 18-year-old Arkansas A. M. and N. student completely captivated the folks she met in this town.

All of which you will read elsewhere on these pages. So I had better answer some of the questions anent the shekels that have been on everyone's lips. How is the project financed? Where does the money for nationwide tours and out-of - country jaunts come from?

Well, in the first place, any college sponsoring a candidate must put up $100. If the candidate wins, the college is to the good, for it, in turn gets a fashion show staged that brings a nice profit.

The Spirit's wardrobe material is furnished by the cotton manufacturers (her entire 32 pieces were of cotton . . .from lingerie to top coat). On her return to base . . . Memphis, Tenn., there is a week-long series of affairs . . .all pay items, which, as you see, provides the funds.

The Spirit is out of college for a month on the project. She, therefore, has to be a top student to compete and be able to make up for time lost. For instance, last year's Spirit is graduating with honors, this year.

Oh, the money on the local scene? That will go largely to the Women's Club of Douglas Memorial Church, which sponsored the fashion shows and gave the receptions following.

"WE MOMS" met a Saturday ago to complete plans for aiding the children of Crownsville.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Marie Coles and A. Vinessa Porter.

Members present were:

Anna Smith, Patricia Holisclaw, Lucille Williams, Marguerite Wilkins, Thelma Ruffin, Kathleen Newsome, Marian Amprey, Minerva Williams, Mae Cornish and Ruth Sampson.

Congratulations are in order for one of the Moms who will welcome the stork in the Autumn. Thelma Ruffin is the delighted expectant.

PEREGRINATORS: Mrs. Hortense Young and Mrs. Isabel Brown will sail for Bermuda, Saturday, they will take the Monarch SS from New York.

In Charm Centre, Monday, where they were garnering a wardrobe for the trip, they were as excited as school girls. And no wonder, the trip was a pure windfall. Shopping in Harrisburg, Pa., recently, Mrs. Young casually accepted a stub of entry in the contest and dropped it into proper box . . . with never another thought. Imagine her suprise when informed that she was prize winner! Mrs. Young selected Mrs. Brown, her sister-in-law, to accompany her.

Mrs. Vashti Christmas and Mrs. Mamie Williams flew to St. Louis, Mo., Monday where Chi Delta Mu Fraternity is holding an annual conclave. Mrs. Christmas is president of the National Chi Wives as well as president of the Baltimore chapter of the Auxiliary to the Dental Association.

Back in town, this week, was Mrs. Elise Hunt who went to New York (and thereabouts) for Zeta Phi Beta Sorority's and Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity's dance in Lochmont, N.Y. The West Chester Chapters were hosts. With her went Mrs. Blanche McRae and Mrs. Ruth Blanche Shipley . . . who, by the way, stayed a day more. So Mrs. Hermine Pair, of Mt. Vernon, drove back with her mother, Mrs. Hunt, then took the first train back to New York.

Mrs. Claude West, Boston, Deloris Jones, Rose E. Tucker, Daisy Wilson, Anna Burgess, Barbara Sampson, May Vance, Judy Bailey, Violet Allen, Anna Smallwood, Nancina Thompson, Evelyn Newman and Roberta Simms.

YWCA volunteers present included Mrs. Bertha E. Goodman, Kathleen Stewart, Mrs. Heloise B. Frazier, Teen-Age director; and Miss Gwendolyn Hardy, program assistant.

Y-Teens hold charm school

The Madison Avenue Branch Y-Teens were addressed by Mrs. Willie Bland and Mrs. Barbara Green at their Charm School, recently.

Mrs. Bland discussed in details the selection of correct attire for all occasions, the selection of clothing for individual personality type and what comprised a good basic wardrobe.

One of the high spots of Mrs. Blands presentation was the demonstration of correct standing, walking and sitting position, and the opportunity for Y-Teens to have their carriage analyzed.

MRS. GREEN discussed with the Y-Teens personality development. Y-Teens felt that character, habits, taste, mannerisms, and how we get along with other people played an important part in the kind of person we are. It was felt that developing a "Moral Code" to live by was important. The statement "Don't do anything you'll be ashamed of later" might be one idea to keep in mind in developing a moral code.

Y-Teens present at the first session were:

Joyce Anderson, Tamera J. Barbour, Charlotte Bowens, La Verne Crawford, Doris Barnes, Shirley Biggs, Mabel Butler, Sarah Deaton:

Channel Gause, Sandra East, Betty Lane, Josephine Harvin, Martha Seabrooks, Gloria Lee Howell, Helen Thornton, Frances Jenkins, Barbara Brown, Jose Robinson:
