Two clerks on at C&P office

Transferred from district

Another move toward integration was taken by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., Wednesday when two workers were transferred to the main company office at 320 St. Paul Pl.

Two women assumed duties this week as clerks in the main office. Both were transferred from the Division St. office of the telephone company.

The move is the second in four weeks whereby colored telephone employees have been posted on jobs previously all white.

Meanwhile, the NAACP is fighting to get colored telephone operators hired by the company.

THREE WEEKS ago two women were upgraded to the stenographic division at the main office.

Recently the company announced that "job opportunities for colored employees with our company is receiving constant attention by the management."

Plans are underway, it was learned, to promote workers who are already employes of the telephone company.

The policy of complete integration for the telephone company was discussed in the planning stage with the Urban League and labor unions.

Annapolis group hears school integration report

ANNAPOLIS — Two reports on how integration in the baltimore schools is progressing, were heard by the County Committee on the Supreme Court decision at a meeting held last week at the St. Anne's Parish House.

Miss Helen Lerain, principal of School No. 20 in Baltimore told the committee that 180 of her 950 pupil are colored.

* * *

"WE HAVEN'T had any difficulties since integration began there last September," she said.

Photographs were distributed by Miss Lerain, showing how white and colored became a part of each other. In one of the kindergartens where there are more white than colored pupils, she said the class is as if all were the same.

Miss Lerain continued by pointing out how white and colored principals held integrated meetings for years and said that was the big reason the transition worked so effectively.

* * *

MRS. ENROLLA McMillan, a colored teacher in School No. 72 in Baltimore, an all-white school, told the group that faculty relations are fine.

"We haven't had any difficulty," she said.

"The white students are very much like other students" she said and accepted here.

Mrs. D. Ellwood Williams Jr., recommended that the committee contact the Board of County commissioners and talk with them concerning the need and necessity to integrate schools in the county.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 22, at the St. Anne's Parish House.

Douglass S. King, principal of Bates High School, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Paul D. Beadle will be in charge of the program.
