Charge boy, 15, in 17 robberies

A 15 - year - old high school student, whose record of 17 burglaries in a period of two months amazed police, was ordered held in bail of $17,000 Tuesday.

Juvenile Court waived jurisdiction against Robert E. Stawara of the 1700 block E. Lombard St., and the youth was ordered held for the grandjury at Northeastern police court.

The thefts which he is charged with committing amounted to over $1,200 in electrical appliances, jewelry, and money.

DURING ONE escapade, police said Stawara, along with two other youths, staged a battle royal with eggs in the kitchen of one home, and left an Irish potato stuck in top of a birthday cake at another home.

In still a third home, he allegedly took 25 rare coins valued at $100 and threw them away. Among other things, he was charged with taking two revolvers.

In a hearing before Magistrate Samuel Gaboff, Stawara entered a plea of not guilty. He was picked up on Sept. 3 while walking in the 4000 block Loch Raven Blvd.

The arrest was made by Sgt. Robert Mattare, and Patrolmen John Blume and Joseph Knauer.

Child says man offered money

The nine-year-old daughter of the pastor of one of Baltimore's largest churches appeared in Northwestern police court Wednesday to testify that she had been offered 25 cents by a white man to get into his automobile.

The child, whose name has been withheld because of her age, said the incident took place Tuesday afternoon in the vicinity of Bloom and McCulloh Sts. as she was on her way home from the store.

The incident was reported to police who arrested Homer Starr, 42, of 100 block 29th St. At the hearing in Northwestern, he admitted approaching the child and told Magistrate E. Everett Lane that he had been under the care of a psychiatrist for several years.

Starr said he had no explanation of why he approached the child and had no idea of what he would have done had the child entered his car. After hearing the testimony Magistrate Lane placed Starr on probation without a verdict.

John Becker to head City College writers

The Baltimore City College Chancellor Chapter, Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists, held its yearly elections on Tuesday, Sept. 14, to choose those officers who will lead the organization throughout the present school year.

Successful candidates for the four offices of the chapter were: John Becker, president; Stanley Rodman, vice - president; Miles Fischer, secretary, and Donald Fink, treasurer.

FREED IN MURDER CASE—Mrs. Louise Turner, 35, and her attorney, Bernard Feikin, leave Court ouse after she was acquitted in knife slaying of her husband, Charles. She pleaded self defense. Mr. Feikin also represented the husband when he got a 12-year-term on a murder charge in 1933.

Mother in Twin Pines killing gets 18 months sentence

Mrs. Janie Bell Sanders, the mother of four children who confessed that she shot her boy-friend during an argument near the Twin Pines Country Club last month in Essex, was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction Tuesday.

The 24-year-old laundry worker was sentenced on a deadly weapons charge.

Although the victim in the shooting, James Vines, 29 of the 1800 block Ashland Ave., died on Sept. 6, a manslaughter charge against Mrs. Sanders was dismissed.

Essex police said the dismissal was due to insufficient evidence. The hearing was conducted at the Essex Police station by Judge John McGuire.

— o O o —

MRS. SANDERS was represented by Jerome Monfred, attorney.

Mr. Vines died at City Hospitals where he had been a patient for eight days. He was shot through the right shoulder and his spinal column was severed below the neck.

— o O o —

AT ONE TIME both Mrs. Sanders and her husband, John Sanders, were held in connection with the shooting Mr. Sanders was later released.

Essex County police on Oct. 29 found the victim, a construction worker, in a wooded area within 200 feet of the Twin Pines Club.

In a dictated report, he told police that he was with Mrs. Sanders when the shooting occured.

Mr. Vines claimed that they went into the woods to pet after meeting in a bar at Ashland Ave. and Rutland Aves.

The victim said when they reached the scene Mrs. Sanders pulled a pistol from beneath a folded blanket on her arm and fired.

A mysterious driver who was supposed to have accompanied the couple was never identified Mrs. Sanders told police she knew the man only as "Wine."

Gets 15 years for knifing

Little emotion shown by suspect

Convicted of second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of a witness, James Langley, of the 1600 block W. Franklin St., was sentenced to 15 years in the Maryland Penitentiary on Wednesday in Criminal Court.

The medium - built construction worker showed only a flicker of emotions as Judge Michael Manley imposed the sentence at the end of the trial that lasted less than an hour and a half.

Langley was convicted of stabbing Mrs. Hattie Davenport, 33, also of the 1600 block W. Franklin St., shortly after 2 a.m. on March 18 as she was leaving work at a bar in the 800 block Druid Hill Ave.

— o O o —

MRS. DAVENPORT, the mother of four children, was taken to University Hospital where she died several hours after admittance.

At the Wednesday trial the the state used two witnesses and Langley's signed statement to the police to convict the defendent of second degree murder despite a plea by defense attorney Joel Hochman that Langley be found guilty of the lesser crime of manslaughter.

Hochman based his case on the contention that the woman was stabbed after Langley took a knife from her and that he had been acting in self defense.

— o O o —

JULIUS A. ROMANO, the prosecuting attorney, ripped into this contention with the testimony of two witnesses who agreed that Langley had been the aggressor in the argument that resulted in the slaying.

Stanley Goldberg of the 3300 block Devonshire Dr., bartender at the tavern where the woman worked told the following story:

"I closed the business at 2:15 a.m. (on the night of the stabbing). I got into my car with Billy Long, another bartender, and Hattie. We got in the front and she got in the back for us to take her home.

"Langley came up and asked Mrs. Davenport to go home with him. She said no she was not going with him. Then he hit her in the chest with something and she said 'Oh Lord.' Langley ran away and Hattie said 'I'm bleeding?'"

— o O o —

MR. LONG, who lives in the 700 block W. Franklin St., supported Goldberg's story and added that he had seen Langley reach in his pocket and take out a knife which he used to stab the woman.

In his statement, which the prosecution introduced into the record, Langley admitted stabbing Mrs. Davenport and admitting arguing with her over her refused to accompany him home.

The prosecution described Mrs. Davenport at the "common law wife" of Langley.

Ex-GI takes life in cell

Was despondent over girl friend

A despondent ex - serviceman who reportedly took a drink after his girl friend stopped having anything to do with him took his own life in a prison cell at the Northern police station Tuesday.

Virgil L. Brooks of the 1400 block N. Bond St., was found hanging from a cell bar with his belt around his neck.

Earlier the 28 - year - old truck driver had been arrested on a warrant taken out by Miss Helen Ford of the 2800 block Orem St.

— o O o —

MISS FORD claimed that on Monday Mr. Brooks pulled a pistol, fired at her, missed, then walked out of her apartment.

Mr. Brooks gave himself up at Central District Station Tuesday morning, and was transferred to Northern for a hearing that afternoon. He was found when a turnkey went to take him from his cell for the afternoon session.

The owner of the apartment where Mr. Brooks resided described the young man as "the nicest boy I have ever seen."

"At first he didn't drink, but for the last two months he had been drinking hard," he said.

— o O o —

NEIGHBORS told a reporter that last Sunday Mr. Brooks appeared to be drunk and upset all day.

They said that he was employed by a local moving company and had been friendly with the young woman for sometime although he was married and the father of two children.

One man said Mr. Brooks bought an automobile a few weeks ago but his girl friend wrecked it while learning to drive. Miss Ford could not be reached for comment.

The body of Mr. Brooks was claimed at the city morgue Wednesday afternoon by his sister Mrs. Ruby Hunt of the 3200 block Sun St., Fairfield.

Funeral services were scheduled for Saturday at 1 p.m., at Ebenezer Church of God in Christ.

Fired dancer says, 'I got a dirty deal'

Blonde shake artist fined $20, calls dismissal unfair

"I got a dirty deal."

These terse words sum up the emotions of Miss Kitty Dean, 23, of the 3200 block Westmont Ave., whose shake dance at a downtown spot last Wednesday landed her in police court.

The dance in question was performed at the Bettye Mills night club in the 700 block E. Baltimore St. deep in the heart of that part of the city known as "The Strip" because of the profusion of night clubs, penny arcade and burlesque houses to be found there.

AT THE completion of the dance said to be warm enough to melt the plastic covering the bar, the tall, and shapely dancer was greeted by members of the vice squad who swept her away to Central police station where she was charged with giving an indecent performance.

After spending what she described as a "restless night" in the Pine St. Station Miss Dean was fined $20 and costs on Thursday afternoon in Central Police Court.

"No sooner did I get home when I learned I have been fired me at the club. I don't know why they had to pick on me, "she claimed Miss Dean later in an interview, "Other girls at the club do sexier dances than I and nothing happens. I got a dirty deal," she repeated. Her eyes flashed angrily when she said it, too.

— o O o —

The interview was conducted in the living room of Miss Dean's house, as she sat gracefully in an overstuffed chair, her well developed legs crossed appealingly.

"I've been a dancer for two years and this is the first time I've ever had any complaints. Don't you think I got a dirty deal?"

This question was addressed to a reporter who was doing his best to keep his mind on his notes as the glamourous Miss Dean flashed a broad smile and gave a toss of her blonde dyed hair.

— o O o —

WHAT KIND OF dance 'did you do that upset the vice squad," the reporter asked.

If was just a strip tease dance," Miss Dean answered. "All I was doing is strip to my bra and 'G' string and shake a little. I guess you would call it half strip and half shake."

This dance, according to Miss Dean, has been performed in a number of downtown clubs without the word "indecent" ever being applied to it.

— o O o —

HOWEVER, Sgt. Paul Aires of the vice squad; had a different version of the dance when he testified at Miss Dean's hearing. He said the dancer eot only stripped to her scanty costume, she also stripped the costume.

To back up his point Sgt. Aires displayed a transparent green and white costume to Magistrate William Laukaitis.

The G string accompanying the outfit was so tiny that Magistrate Laukaitis was moved to asked:

"What's that, a pair of ear muffs?"

— o O o —

IN ADDDITION to fining Miss Dean, the Magistrate also fined the club owner, Miss Bettye Mills, $20 and costs for allowing the show to be presented. He told the proprietor:

"I don't want anyone to think I'm opposed to girlie shows, but they must be kept clean."

In spite of her recent troubles, Miss Dean retains her viewpoint.

"I like dancing because it's the easiest way to make money, but right now all this mess has me upset and my nerves are bad," Miss Dean said as she struck a match to a cigarette with a flourish.

— o O o —

"I'm telling you I don't know where I am going to find another job," Miss Dean said, "but I hope I can get one soon, so I can go back to dancing."

Miss Dean said that she was married once "while I was young" but the marriage ended in a divorce.

As the reporter started to leave, Miss Dean repeated for the third time:

"There wasn't anything indecent in my dance and I still think I got a dirty deal."

Corporal's family 'serves' with him

Wife and ten children enjoying that army life

FORT MEADE, Md. — All of the people at Fort Meade are not in the Army.

Ten of them are the children of Corporal and Mrs. Marshal J. Moseley.

Actually, the Moseleys are the proud parents of an even dozen but one son died at the age of two months, and another perished in a home fire in Marshall, Texas.

The 10 living children enjoy the color and activity which surrounds Army life. Five of them are dyed-in-the- wool civilians having been born before the family's Army life began.

CORPORAL MOSELEY entered military service in 1942 after ten years as a cook in one of the largest hotels in Marshall. He had also been the chief cook in one of that city's downtown cafeterias.

During eight years at Camp Stoneman, Cal., Mrs. Moseley gave birth to four children two of whom are twins. A daughter was born on Jan. 1, 1952, at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The latest arrival to the Moseley household, Richard, bounced in at eight pounds, ten ounces on Sept. 3, 1954, at the Fort Meade Hospital.

EVEN THOUGH people sometimes look askance and say, "Twelve?" the Moseleys have consider themselves unusual.

Their love of children and family life compensates them for any sacrifices and minor crises they undergo.

Throughout 22 years of married life, Corporal Moseley has been seperated from his family for only one extended period of time. That was when he served in the Far East Command during the Koeean emergency for 16 months.

At Fort Meade the Corporal has an assignment that is close to his heart. Where? Why in the Post Nursery, of course!

$5 WINNER—Little Barbara Ann Barksdale, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barksdale and a third-grade pupil at Oliver Cromwell School No. 74, was a $5 winner last week in the AFRO's Lucky Pic contest.

Cataract patients warned to beware of false cures

"Peddlers of false cures for cataracts and other eye diseases have been denounced by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness as "Allies of darkness."

The Prevention of Blindness Society, sponsor of the nationwide Sight-Saving Month campaign during September, reports that "unscrupulous individuals are subverting America's vision by preying on cataract patients."

Thousands of men and women in many parts of the county, National Society spokesmen say, "are being sold a misleading and potentially dangerous bill of goods about shortcut treatments that don't work."

— o O o —

ACCORDING To Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director of the Prevention of Blindness Society, exaggerated fears of cataracts "can be just as dangerous as the disease itself."

Dr. Foote points out that "nostrummongers" — the modern counterpart of oldtime medicine men—profit on these fears selling useless injections, drugs or exercises as "cures" for cataracts.

Dr. Foote emphasizes that the only real treatment for cataracts is surgery, "which at the present time is over 95 per cent successful."

These operations he adds, "are miracles of modern science often restoring vision even in cases where the individual is almost totally blind."

DR. FOOTE cautions that there are many misconceptions about cataract.

"The most widespread of these misconceptions," he says, "is the wrong belief that cataracts are caused by a 'growth over the eye.' We actually do not know the cause of cataracts, but this is what happens when they do develop: the lens inside the eye becomes cloudy, shutting off light so that vision is impaired.

"The only effective treatment is surgically removing the lens and replacing it with eye - glasses."

ACCORDING TO Dr. Foote, practically all those with impaired sight due to cataracts could have useful vision restored with proper treatment.

"It is vitally important to obtain adequate care without delay," he points out.

"Watch for these symptoms of cataract:

"Watch for these symptoms of cataract.

Blurring vision, a black spot that moves when the eye moves, lights which appear double, objects which appear as though a piece were missing."

The National Society of the Prevention of Blindness is offering a free pamphlet on vision care to readers of this newspaper. The pamphlet, "Your Wonderful Eyes," may be obtained by writing to Prevention of Blindness, 1790 Broadway, New York 19.

Washington McEnnises moving to Philadelphia

Among the latest families to leave Turner Station because of the moving of the U.S. Signal Corps Depot from Baltimore to Pennsylvania is that of Mr. and Mrs. Washington McEnnis, who with their sons, Richard, 12, and Ronald, 6, this week are moving to Philadelphia.

The family, which resided at 722 Avondale Rd., has been active with many Turner Station organizations.

Mr. McEnnis, a charter member of the Andrew J. Evans Lodge No. 102, Prince Hall Masons was also a elder, trustee and treasurer of the New Life Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Harold Nixon is pastor.

He was also manager of the Day Village Little League Baseball Team, and chairman of the Day Village Recreation Committee.

A small man physically, he was also a member of the executive board of the Day Village Tenants' Association; secretary-treasurer of Boy Scout Troop No. 243; secretary of Fleming School PTA, and worked with the local NAACP in its membership drive.

— o O o —

MRS. LUCILLE McEnnis, also an indefatigable civic worker, was church clerk and assistant secretary of New Life Church; secretary of New Life Ladies' Guild; den mother of Mrs. Cub Scout Pack No. 270; scoutmother of Troop No. 243, and was the winner of the recent Calendar Wedding Contest of New Life Church.

Their son, Richard, a student at Soliers Point High School, was a member of the New Life Junior Choir, the Little League Baseball Team, and Boy Scout Troop No. 243.

Younger son, Ronald, a pupil at Fleming School, was a member of the New Life Children's Choir and the winner of the first annual baby contest of New Life Church.

— o O o —

OVER A DOZEN families have left the Turner community because of the closing down of the Baltimore depot, but the loss of the McEnnises will probably be the worst blow to the children of the community than the leaving of any single other family.

Tuesday, Mrs. McEnnis was frantically scouring about to find someone to replace herself in the Cub and Boy Scout work; and the Rev. Mr. Nixon was looking for a couple who might capably replace the couple as treasurer and secretary of his church.

"A great loss," he said in commenting upon their departure.

AMONG THE other families who have followed their government jobs to Pennsylvania are:

Mr. and Mrs. George West, Mr. and Mrs. John Hillman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reives, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Nine Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hanicome, Mr. and Mrs. Ulysses Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Shelton.

Daughter will benefit from mother in Lucky Pic

An 8-year-old girl suffering rhyumatic fever, will get some new crayons and a paint set because her mother was the Lucky Pic winner in Tuesday's AFRO.

A photo of Mrs. Lena A. Bailey, 2703 Edmondson Ave., was the Lucky Pic winner and Mrs. Bailey was at the AFRO office Wednesday morning to pick up her $5 check.

She said it would be used to get painting equipment for her daughter, Lena C., who has been suffering with rhematic fever for the past three years.

Because of her illness little Lena, a second grade pupil at St. Peter Claver, can not run and play as hard as other children do.

— o O o —

MRS. BAILEY, a twice a week a subscriber to the AFRO, saw her own photo encircled while reading her AFRO Tuesday.

Another photo is encircled in this edition of the AFRO. If it's you, bring it in before noon Tuesday and you will win $5.

Mrs. Bailey and her husband, Fairfield Bailey, operate Bailey's Garage at 1515 N. Fremont Ave.

IT WAS her interest in cars that led to her photo being circled. She was in group of persons watching a car being towed away after an accident.

"I was so busy watching the car I didn't even see the photographer," said Mrs. Bailey.

She's a native of Baltimore and her husband has worked at Fort Holabird for the 14 years.

Mrs. Bailey says she likes "everything" in the AFRO and reads it throughly.

Mrs. Bailey and her husband are members of the NAACP, Monumental Democratic Club, and St. peter Claver's Church.

Govans resident seeks her father

Mrs. Dorothy Cooper Garrett of 463 Schwartz Ave., Govans, is trying to locate her father and two brothers.

Her two brothers, she says, were placed in the home of a Mrs. Lula Billard White who used to keep children. One of the brothers was named Samuel.

Mrs. Garrett says she does not know the name of her father and if anyone knows the whereabouts of Mrs. White she wishes they would contact her at her address or by telephone at Valley 5-1781.

Inquiring Reporter

Who did the most?

THE QUESTION
Who has done the most for you and what was it?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. NELLIE V. WILLIAMS, 2542 W. Mosher St., teacher of speedwriting. My mother, because it was she who first taught me the fundamentals of living and the basic prescription for happiness. "To love thy neighbor as thyself." By loving, respecting and helping people as best I can, instead of criticizing and pointing out every small mistake, I have found love and happiness.

— o O o —

LORETTA THOMPSON, 2564 W. Lafayette Ave., housewife—I would say my parents. Through them I have had the pleasure of a wholesome youth inspired by the spiritual environment of my church. St. Pius. Through them also my training as a youth has given me a marriage life worth more than its weight in gold.

— o O o —

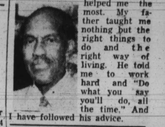
GEORGE B. BROWN, 1623 Druid Hill Ave., school teacher —My affiliation with the church and its people. God has helped me immensely to be what I am today. I am mostly indebted to a Florida minister. During my trying days a college student he took me under his wing and gave me guidance spiritually and financial aid in my chosen profession.

— o O o —

SPENCER MACK, 433 E. 23rd St., Goucher College messenger —I would say the church because there you get more inspirational guidance and instructions which teach you how to live and treat others in the community. I am a member of St. James but I go to churches of different denominations and in this way I get a great deal of learning.

— o O o —

GARFIELD RICHARDSON, 1134 Druid Hill Ave., janitor—The Lord and my father have helped me the most. My father taught me nothing but the right thing to do and the right way of living. He told me to work hard and "Do what you say you'll do, all the time." And I have followed his advice.



Crownsville to graduate 26 nurses

Commencement exercises for 62 graduates, 18 men and 44 women, of the schools of practical nursing of Crownsville, Eastern Shore Rosewood and Springfield State Hospitals will be held tonight (Friday) at 8 p.m., in the auditorium of the latter hospital at Sykesville, Maryland.

Twenty-six of the graduates are from Crownsville.

Dr. William S. Stone, director of medical education and research of the School of Medicine, University of Maryland, will give commencement address.

The occasion marks an invocation in the educational program of the Department of Mental Hygiene. This is the first commencement of four schools of practical nursing given concurrently by four mental hospitals with an eight-week affiliation in child and infant care at Rosewood.

Those who will receive diplomas are:

Crownsville State Hospital

Agnes Ames, Dewayne Arter, Peggy Brown, Mary Chapman, Algie Chestwood, Hazel Chestwood, Sarah Colbert, Bernice Fogg, William Forester, Herbert Hawkins, Geneva Greene, Martha Hines, and Martha Johnson;

Also Ozelle Johnson, James McIntyre, Thomas Pinckney, Ernest Sears, Idella Seely, Loretta Smith, William White, Frances Wilder, Edward Williams, Hugh Williams, Mary Williams, Genevieve Wilson and Havard Woods.

Lucky House spotted by girl, seven

Seven-year-old Charlotte Jean Wyatt looked in Tuesday's AFRO and saw a photo of her house. She ran and told her mother Mrs. Sue Wyatt and today Charlotte is 5 richer.

For the house she saw was the winners in the "Identify Your House" contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Wayt have been living in the lucky house at 1607 St. Stephen St. just a year this September. He's a postal clerk.

Mrs. Wyatt spends her time taking care of Charlotte Jean who is in the third grade at St. Peter Claver, Audrey Cornelius, 2, and Beverly Beatrice, 5.

— o O o —

THE WYATTS are regular readers of the AFRO. Mr. Wyatt picking it up at the post-office twice a week on his way home.

Mrs. Wyatt says she likes everything she sees in Baltimore's favorite newspaper.

Another lucky house appears in this and every edition of the AFRO. You should look for it; it might be your own home.

There are no strings attached to this contest. If you properly identify the house and prove you live there you are then eligible for the $5 prize money. It's that simple.

CORRECTION

Mrs. Maude Johnson, now a home economics teacher at Garrison Junior High School, formerly taught at Dunbar High School and not Douglass as reported in an earlier story. The AFRO regrets the error.

On jury duty for 2nd time

Mrs. Dora Caldwell, housewife of 435 Bloom St. is doing jury duty for the second time in five years.

She is on the jury panel in Superior Court where she served similarly five years ago.

Particularly interested in court cases and the procedural administration of justice, Mrs. Caldwell has been a frequent Court House visitor throughout the years.
