Value of Morgan set at $9 million

Newest building on campus to be dedicated by McKeldin

Bought by the State of Maryland 15 years ago for $225,000, Morgan State College within the past year has been the object of a $1,700,000 face lifting which has added two new buildings to the physical plant, renovated and remodelled four others and improved the campus grounds.

Morgan President Martin D. Jenkins estimated that the capital improvement program, which is continuing to modernize, improve and enlarge the facilities of the institution has raised Morgan's worth to approximately nine million dollars.

The two new buildings added to the campus facilities by the current face-lifting program are the $1,300,000 Milton L. Calloway Science Hall and a $100,000 infirmary.

— o O o —

THE SCIENCE hall contains a 300-seat amphitheater, 10 chemistry laboratories, including research laboratories and balance rooms; three lecture rooms each for physics and chemistry, seven physics laboratories including one for nuclear physics, electronics, optics and radiation, a dark room, and on the roof, provisions for astronomical observations.

Calloway Hall, which has been named in honor of the late Milton Lewis Calloway, former professor of chemistry at the college, will be used for instruction for the first time this semester.

Formal dedication of the building will be held Wednesday, Oct. 27. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Sciences and of the Rockefeller Institute will be the principal speakers.

— o O o —

THE 14-BED infirmary has offices and examination rooms for two physicians, dentists and a nurse's apartment. The infirmary is expected to be ready for occupancy by Nov. 1, President Jenkins said.

Buildings being renovated and remodelled are:

Spencer Hall, which is being entirely remodelled and renovated at a cost of $114,000 for the use of the departments of biology, home economics and military science. The student canteen will be located in the basement.

Holmes Hall, which has been remodelled to accommodate the department of economics and business. Also to be remodelled in this building are the offices of the Director of Student Personnel and the Purchasing Division and the office of the Director of Admissions and Placement which is to be enlarged.

The Holmes remodelling is costing approximately $140,000.

— o O o —

CARNEGIE HALL, which has been completely remodelled to provide accommodations for the departments of psychology, sociology and education.

The building will contain testing and counseling rooms, a sociology laboratory, the the faculty-stenographic pool, teachers' offices and one classroom for the department of home economics.

This remodelling is being done at a cost of approximately $70,000;

The Annex, which is being remodelled to accommodate the bookstore, post-office, and facilities for geography and history.

The offices of the Student Council and of the student newspaper will be located in this building, which will also house a faculty-alumni lounge, according to tentative plans.

— o O o —

THE ROADWAYS and landscaping project, which has cost to-date $235,000, is in its present phase now being completed providing sidewalks and a roadway around Calloway Hall to enable traffic to move from one end of the campus to the other.

Parking areas and sidewalks on the south campus have been other features of the present landscaping project.

Mr. Jenkins said that another $185,000 will be required to complete the roadway and landscaping project.

—CLIFFORD—

LC—Correction, please.

A story in last Friday's AFRO said that a Mr. Clifford was allegedly slain here by his wife on Sunday Sept. 12, gave the address where the slaying occurred as 2222 Division St.

This was in error. The fatal shooting took place at 2226 Division St., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clemmons Crawford, to Olivia R. Thomas resides at 2222 Division St. and in no way connected to the slaying. The AFRO regrets any embarrassment the story may have caused Mrs. Thomas or her family.

LARGEST CLASS—Here's part of the 106 members of the new freshman class at Coppin State Teachers College, the largest in the history of the school. Total enrollment at institution this year is now 286 students. In addition to new class, 13 students have enrolled for special professional training program offered to college graduates to qualify them for certification in elementary schools.

Dr. Connor greets new students

In his address during the first general assembly program of the term, Miles W. Connor, president, welcomed the more than 100 members of the freshman class to Coppin State Teachers College. He spoke to them concerning the value of a college education, and the role of Coppin as a teacher training institution.

Dr. Connor challenged the freshmen to unload many of their ways of thinking and acting, and to take on the values, attitudes, ideals, and knowledges which the college tended to foster.

He also stressed the need for having faith in the abilities of the faculty and other leaders in the college program.

ON FRIDAY evening, members of the senior class sponsored the annual Friendship ceremony which Mrs. Sadie Milbourne, mother of Dorothy Hicks, was presented as "Mother of the Year" for the class of 1955. Mrs. Violet Churn was a speaker.

Following the ceremonies, a reception was held at which time members of the faculty and student body met members of the freshman class in a social. The Assembly and Cultural Committee has announced that on Friday, October 1, Dr. S. E. Gerard Priestly, historian, author, and lecturer, will be the guest speaker at the morning assembly program.

What The Baltimore Schools Offer Your Child

Curriculum now elastic, not rigid

Average child will find classes to fit his needs

BY LULA JONES GARRETT

Baltimore public school's lead in abandoning the dual system, follows closely its policy of providing the best for each pupil under its jurisdiction.

The school administration long ago dispensed with rigid curriculum and promotion rules in favor of more elastic education which prepares the individual child for good and profitable citizenship.

The Baltimore school system maintains schools and special classes to fit the needs of the average child, the mentally and or vocational career is planned; the same for children with visual, auditory and other defects whose ability is limited.

With all forty schools now open to all pupils, it is the duty of the parent, as well as the teacher, to see that everyone is to see that each child is placed in the school where his ability and interest can be developed.

Parents can profit, too, by selecting a school near their home as possible, thus eliminating extra transportation expense and saving time and energy of the child.

— o O o —

THIS MATTER of giving the child every opportunity for proper development begins in Kindergarten. A kindergarten pupil may show, unusual mental, emotional and physical growth.

If this is backed by a test which indicates that he is ready for reading he may be allowed to advance to first grade under the regular six years of age.

There is no test, however, that can be given a child prior to kindergarten to determine his ability. At present the SRA test is being used experimentally to determine reading readiness. Each is given this test after he enters school.

— o O o —

THERE ARE kindergarten classes at the following 19 schools in which any child may be enrolled:

David E. Weglein School No. 2, Stiles St. and Central Ave.; Gardenville School No. 92, Gun St. near Fleet; James McHenry School No. 10, Hollins St. and Schroeder.

Tench Tilghman School No. 13, Patterson Park Ave. and McElderry St.; Franklin D. Roosevelt School No. 18, Druid Park Drive near Reisterstown Rd.; Sir Robert Eden School No. 20, Eden and Federal Sts.; George Washington School No. 22, Scott and Hamburg St.;

— o O o —

SCHOOL NO. 27-A, Washington St. near Fayette; Guilford Avenue School No. 32, Guilford Ave. and Lanvale St.; Barrister C. Carroll School No. 34, Carey St. and Washington Blvd; and Patrick Henry School No. 37, Biddle St. and Patterson Park Ave.;

Armstead Garden School No. 243, Erdman Ave. and Eager St.;

Thomas Jefferson School No. 232 Dryden Drive; Glenmount School No. 235, Glenmore and Glenmount Ave.; Hamilton School No. 236, Christopher Ave. and Old Harford Rd., and William Alexander School No. 112, Laurens and Calhoun Sts.

The system also maintains preschool, or nursery, classes at a number of schools, including the William Alexander School No. 112 Laurens and Calhoun Sts.; General Vocational School No. 452, Biddle and McCulloh Sts.;

Francis Scott Key Junior High School No. 27, Fort Ave. near Decatur; William Pacs Elementary School No. 83, Lakewood Ave. and Fayette St.; and Mergenthaler Vocational - Technical High School No. 410, 25th St. and Hill Rd.

FOR EXCEPTIONAL

For children with exceptional ability, the Robert E. Lee School, 1205 Cathedral St., offers accelerated classes.

For instance, four boys are transferring from the Carver Vocational High School, Lafayette and Carrollton Aves. to Mergenthaler Vocational-Technical High School, 35th and Hillen Rd., to continue study in electrical wiring.

Both of these schools have identical wiring courses . . . on paper. But then equipment and laboratories, etc., at the latter far excel those at Carver.

There are no regulations compelling any child to go to a particular school. However, some schools are distributed.

This means that because of the crowded condition of the school, boundary lines are set over which pupils may not cross.

These lines, Dr. Edwin Stein, says are not permanent. They are usually revised yearly, he says, and may be changed at any time a school becomes overcrowded or the school population dwindles.

AT PRESENT there is only one secondary school so overcrowded it is districted. That is Garrison Junior High School, Harrington Rd., and Garrison Ave., which has 1,932 pupils and teachers, other than the principal and two vice principals.

Of the 18 elementary schools, 36 are overcrowded and districted so they can not receive transfers from other schools.
