Ritual in Metropolitan Church to unite Miss Bragg, Dr. Gray

An exquisite Pandora original of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin will be worn by Miss Sara Elayne Bragg when she becomes the bride of Dr. Raymond Lawson Gray, Saturday afternoon.

The gown, with paniers of the lace alternating with the tulle to form the skirt and to form the circular train, has a long fitted bodice of the lace. Scollops of the lace outline the low round neck and the points of the long sleeves which are also embroidered in sequins. The sleeves to mid-arm, and the bodice up the back are fastened with tiny satin buttons.

The panels of tulle on the skirt are appliqued with lover's knots, re-embroidered in sequins.

Her finger-tip length veil is of illusion and will be held by a small tiara of seed pears. She will carry white delphinia and orchids.

* * *

THE CEREMONY, at four-thirty, will take place in Metropolitan Methodist Church. The Rev. Kelly Jackson, minister of that church, will officiate. Miss Elmira Miller will be at the organ.

Miss Bragg will be given in marriage by her father, Mr. Guy Bragg. She will be attended by Miss Lynette Fields of Atlanta, Ga., maid of honor; Mrs. Ida Page Robinson, a bride of one month, matron of honor; Miss Myrna Whyte, Miss Danise Goodwin and Miss Vonzella Watts.

The attendants will wear pink and blue embroidered organdie frocks, with matching mitts, halos of flowers and matching shoes. They will carry cascades.

* * *

WILLIAM ADAMS will serve best man for Dr. Gray.

Ushers will include Bernard Byrd, Dr. Chester Redhead of New York City, Granville Marshall of Washington, Clarence Hawkins of Aberdeen; and the bride's brother, M. Guy Bragg, 3rd., junior usher.

Annette Carter will be flower girl and Jerry Williams, ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bragg will be gowned in mauve lace and nylon. The bridegroom's mother will wear blue lace and pink accessories.

A reception will be held in the Me-Do-So Club following the ceremony. Assisting as hostesses will be Miss Elaine Shoemaker, Miss Cynthia Portee, Mrs. Doris Goode and Miss Miriam Haywood of Lawnside, N.Y.

MISS BRAGG is a graduate of Morgan State College. She made her debut at the Me-Do-So Cotillion in 1952, and was selected as queen at the 1953 presentation. At present she is a teacher of science at Garrison Junior High School.

Dr. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Gray, graduated from Morgan College, after three years at Lincoln. He graduated from the School of Dentistry at Howard University.

On the motor trip to an undisclosed honeymoon spot, the bride will wear a beige linen sheath with cotton lace jacket, a leghorn hat and black accessories.

Upon their return the newly weds will be at home at 2100 Whittier Ave.

* * *

THIS WEEK the bride-elect has been entertained at a round of parties.

On Saturday evening, Mrs. Josephine Brown of Alto Road, gave a personal shower for Miss Bragg. Guests showered her with personal items.

Mrs. Ida Robinson of Edmondson Ave. was hostess at a shower of kitchen needs on Thursday.

Tuesday evening Miss Bragg, pretty as a picture in pink dotted swiss with pink velvet bows, was hostess to her bridesmaids and hostesses at a pretty party in the Cumberland St. home of her parents.

MISS SARA ELAYNE BRAGG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Guy Bragg, will be married to Dr. Raymond L. Gray in Metropolitan Methodist Church, Baltimore, Saturday.

Lamb's play takes to road

An original three-act drama by Morgan State College playwright Arthur Clifton Lamb has been so enthusiastically received at Tennessee State A. and I. University, Nashville, that it is to be presented on a ten-college tour and the playwright himself has been invited to serve as guest lecturer at the university.

Mr. Lamb's "Roughshod Up the Mountain" was originally produced at Tennessee State in March. Its warm reception there by the campus, the community and critics led to its being repeated for the summer session, currently in progress, by special request.

Following the campus performances, the Tennessee Players, under the direction of Dr. Thomas K. Poag, will take the drama on a tour of ten or more colleges and universities.
