Democratic Viewpoint

By ROBERT B. WATTS

When November rolls around we shall be confronted with a very important decision in respect to candidates other than those for President of the U.S. and the U.S. Senate.

We will, of course, emphasize the Presidential fight and the fight between John Marshall Butler, Republican and Millard Tydings, Democrat, for the U.S. Senate, but there is also the matter of choice of judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

There will be four candidates but only three can be elected. These candidates are: Reuben Oppenheimer, Dooley R. Nice, Mrs. Nettie Marie Marshall and Edwin Harlan.

Judges Reuben Oppenheimer and Dooley R. Nice are present members of the Supreme bench by appointment of the Governor and are seeking election to a full term.

MRS. MARSHALL is presently a member (one of three) of the Orphans Court. Judge Edwin Harlan is the deputy city-solicitor.

THE BAR Association of Baltimore City has sent out questionnaires to all lawyers to make their choices by secret ballot.

When I say secret ballot, I don't mean it in the ominous sense, but simply that signing of the ballot is not required.

This means that for the first time in many years the so-called "sitting Judge" principle will be defeated, for either Mrs. Marshall or Mr. Harlan will be elected.

The choice between Mrs. Marshall and Mr. Harlan will most likely be the real problem although the defeat of Judge Mundy makes it difficult to make a prediction.

I feel, however, that because of the experience of these two men, and because in the short time they have been on the bench, they have distinguished themselves, they will be the favorites to win.

ON THE other hand, Mrs. Marshall has likewise done a good job on the Orphans Court bench and Mr. Harlan has had a very distinguished career in the City Solicitor's office.

This indicates how important and how crucial this election will be with respect to the Supreme Bench.

AS THINGS now stand, it appears that Mr. Harlan has the edge over Mrs. Marshall for he enjoys the advantage of some organized political support.

The report is that the Mayor and James Pollack are behind Mr. Harlan. On the other hand, Mrs. Marshall has a group of women, including the Women's Bar Association behind her.

We are aware of the power of the weaker sex once they make their minds up.

PROMISES to be a very interesting race and as the time to make the decision drag on we will give information I gather to help in making a wise decision. Affect. We should keep this all-important race in mind while we decide what candidates deserve our support. A judge of the Supreme Bench is an important part of our civic life and it behooves us to join in making sure that the best man (or woman) wins.

Dr. George McDonald to be released soon

"He's doing fine. We expect to release him sometime early next week, if not sooner."

An official at Provident Hospital so spoke Thursday in describing the condition of Dr. George McDonald, 344 N. Carey St.

Dr. McDonald was admitted to Provident Hospital Monday night after his zigzagging car, obviously out of control, was stopped by an unidentified passerby, who pulled the emergency brake thereby preventing any damage.

Adah McJenkin's MOMENTS MUSICAL

The annual array of piano program from modern piano studio recitals began late in the middle of June. One of the first of these events this month was a joint presentation by students of Gwendolyn B. Lassiter and Maude LaForest in "An Afternoon With Children" held in the auditorium of Coppin State Teachers College.

In addition to piano solos Theresa Keyes sang two spirituals, arranged by Burleigh. There were also original compositions by Eva M. Lassiter, Vernonia Jackson, Cheryl Parks, Cheryl Jackson and Luther Bond.

* * *

AT AN AFTERNOON assembly at James Mosher School No. 144, Mrs. Lassiter presented piano students from Schools, 137, 142, 144, 145, 159, 160 and 450. Dorothy Lofton, contralto soloist of note in Baltimore, was guest artist, with Douglass Farmer as accompanist.

A capacity audience greeted Florence C. Carter, with her students in their 14th annual recital, also held in the attractive Coppin auditorium.

The young musicians and a large number of adult performers played an attractive program from modern piano teaching literature as well as advanced works by masters of the Romantic period.

Louis Shub, who is considered one of the outstanding pianists in this part of the country, was guest artist. He gave "Campanella" (The Bell), which is one of Liszt's famous show pieces, a reading of genuine beauty, in excellent taste.

A quartet from White's Male Chorus, the Aaron's Choir Masters, directed by Aaron Powell and The Gladettes, a female choir were guest performers at a recital given quite early in the season by Gladys W. Davis.

This versatile musician presented both organ and piano students, in offerings by Bach, Beethoven, Corelli, Massanet, Schumann, DeBois and Chopin.

Myrna Addison and James Thomas were soloists with The Gladettes, which are conducted by Mrs. Davis. An informal reception followed the recital, which was held at Providence Baptist Church.

* * *

KATRINE N. WHITE presented her piano students in their annual concert last Monday evening at Grace Presbyterian Church. Preceding the program there was an entrance procession of the entire class. The ensemble numbers for four and six hands were especially delightful, ranging from simple folk tune arrangements for elementary students to advanced concert works, such as the Chopin "Polonaise" (Military), Concone's "Flight" and an arrangement of the "Habanera" from the opera "Carmen."

The finale was also an ensemble number by Mrs. White and the guest artist, Louis Shub, in the "Andante" from the "Fourth Symphony" (The "Clock Symphony," by Haydn. Donald Staggers, who possesses fine, open tenor voice, sang two well known numbers from popular musicals.

One of the most heartening experiences the writer has had was on the occasion of Fine Arts Week at the Charles Houston Junior High School (141). Seated in the midst of the hundreds of students who attended the morning concert, it was most impressive to see their intelligent appreciation and enjoyment of the excellent program.

The school band opened the concert with well-timed, crisp performance under the direction of Margaret Bass and the additional attraction of a troupe of high stepping majorettes Hazel Bryant, a former student, was guest soloist, making a fine stage appearance and pleasing the audience with two tastefully sung numbers.

The balance of the program was given by The Choralettes, a mixed choir directed by Gloria S. Stokes, who also accompanied the group. Their tone quality was especially beautiful in Gounod's "Ave Maria" and the difficult modern work, "Mountains" (Rasbach) showed remarkable maturity in concept and performance.

Two toe dancers, who added a ballet interpretation to one of the songs, were well received. Miss Gloria Stokes and Miss Bryant was soloist with the choir.

The Choralettes appear frequently on programs in the community and recently gave a recital at the YWCA with Miss Bryant as guest soloist, under the auspices of the Phillips-Butler Chapter No. 1, Youth Fraternity of Myra Grand Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, P.H.A.

* * *

A MOST gratifying experience was afforded those who attended Bertha Wainwright's recital at Metropolitan Methodist Church, under the auspices of the senior choir.

COLUMBIA U ED. D.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Dr. L. Boger, assistant director of personnel and instructor in education at Morehouse College, was awarded the Ed. D. by Columbia University at its June 5 commencement exercises.

Dunbar has 203 graduates

In one of her last official acts as principal of Dunbar High School, Mrs. Vivian E. Cook made several announcements last night (Thursday) as the school held its 33rd commencement in the auditorium of Polytechnic Institute.

The commencement brought an end to 29 years of service in the school system for Mrs. Cook, who since 1949 has been principal of the school which has an enrollment of almost 4,000 pupils.

Diplomas were presented to the class of 203 graduates by Mayor D'Alesandro. The invocation and the benediction were given by the Rev. Edward G. Carroll of the Sharp St. Methodist Church.

During the exercises, members of the graduating class presented Mrs. Cook with a corsage in which had been placed a gift certificate.

Before an almost capacity audience, Mrs. Cook expressed her appreciation for the gift and for the tributes she has received as she completed her last days as Dunbar's principal.

Top graduate in the class was Miss Lucy M. Horne; second was Miss Vivian M. Fowlkes, while Miss Barbara J. Kimbrough ranked third.

17 Deaths

HERBERT HILL

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Herbert Hill, 1739 Ellsworth St., who died last Friday of a heart attack.

The Rev. Thomas Harris, pastor of Nazarene Temple Church of which Mr. Hill had been a member, delivered the eulogy.

A native of Littletown, N.C., Mr. Hill had lived in Baltimore for 35 years, prior to his death. A construction worker, he was well known in the city.

He is survived by: Mrs. Viola Hill, wife; John C., George P. and Ellsworth Vinson, sons; Mesdames Alene Burns, Irene Richardson, Lillian Phillips and Misses Frances, Jeannette and Dorothy Hill, daughters; and 11 grandchildren.

Burial was in Mt. Calvary.

MRS. LORENA MILLS

Mrs. Jennie Mills, 310 N. Carrollton Ave., died Monday at her home after an illness of several months. She suffered from arterio-sclerosis.

Funeral services were held Thursday at John Wesley Methodist Church. The Rev. Charles E. Johnson delivered the eulogy. Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Mills, the widow of the late Joseph Mills, is survived by two nieces, Mesdames Ellen Green and Bertha Gross, and a nephew, George Gray.

HAMES H. WRIGHT

After an illness of five years, James Henry Wright died Monday at 72 years of age. He was a native of Whitestone, Va. but moved to Baltimore in 1907.

He worked as an express man and at other jobs. Funeral services were held Thursday at the Charles B. Lewis Funeral Home.

He had been a Jehovah's Witness for six years. James Whitlie, a representative of the faith, delivered the eulogy.

He is survived by Mrs. Viola Wright, wife; two sons, James and Wendell Wright; and a brother, Robert Wright. Burial was in Mt. Auburn.

LEONARD M. SANDERS

After having been ill for five of his six years, Leonard M. Sanders succumbed to a mysterious disease last Friday at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sanders, 3005 Arunah Ave.

"At first he had a little chill," his parents said. "We had been taking him to Johns Hopkins for treatment. Then, Friday, he died.

"He never even went to school."

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Halstead Funeral Home. The Rev. M. Nash delivered the eulogy. Burial was in Baltimore National Cemetery.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Althea, 11, and Gwendolyn, 7.

A veteran Whitemarsh, Md. railroad watchman, Harry D. Brown, died at 68, Monday. He died at the Ft. Howard Veterans Hospital after a brief illness.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Asbury Methodist Church, Loreley, Md. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hattie Brown; one brother and two sisters.

MRS. SARAH LONESONE

Mrs. Sarah Lonesone, 4509 St. George Ave., died Sunday. She was the widow of John W. Lonesone. Funeral services were held Wednesday at Ebenezer Baptist Church.

She is survived by one sister, nieces and nephews.

NORMAN CAMPBELL

Norman J. Campbell, 224 Pine St., died last Friday at the age of 38. He had been suffering from advanced pulmonary tuberculosis and a cardiovascular disorder.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Estelle Campbell; four relatives.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Halstead Funeral Home. Burial in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Deep River Boys primed for new overseas jaunt

Like all good things, vacations have to end.

The Deep River Boys, perhaps one of the outstanding vocal groups on the international circuit, are winding up one of their rare "layoffs" and preparing to hit the airlanes again.

Following three weeks in which they were told to "relax and forget everything," the Deeps are back to packing their belongings. They open an engagement in Gothenburg, Sweden on July 1.

SPREAD out over the Eastern part of the U.S., at the moment, the various members are reportedly fishing, golfing, etc., at their respective homes. One of them, Al Bishop, newest member of the group, is spending the time with his wife, Ruth, at their Baltimore home.

"None of us knows exactly how long the coming tour will be," says Bishop.

"After Copenhagen, we go to Oslo, Norway, then to Sweden and other Scandinavian points. Then it'll be Europe again."

LAST YEAR, the Deeps spent more than eight months in Europe alone, where they became the toast of theatrical circles.

Headed by Harry Douglas, the baritone lead, the quartet appeared in England, France, Belgium, Germany, Hungary, Scotland and Italy. In the meantime, they found sufficient time and energy to produce an album of 12 LP numbers, included among which are:

"St. Louis Blues," "Mister and Mississippi," "Hallelujah I Love Her So," "Shake, Rattle and Roll," "Too Young" and "Stars Are the Windows of Heaven."

Their latest is a 45 RPM disc titled "Whole Wide World," which they call a refined version of rock and roll. The flip side is "All My Love Belongs to You."

Bishop and Vernon Gardner, the second tenor, are long time residents of Baltimore. The former sings bass for the group in "London last November, as understudy to Edward Ware.

Both Bishop and Gardner were former students at Douglass High School here

Big story — 1 year later

A year can make a world of difference.

At this time last year popular sportsman Alonzo (Slim) Myers, 37, 2100 block Presbury St., and John Franklin, 47, 2100 block Pressimmon St., had filed appeals from their convictions on lottery charges.

The State Board of Education had just announced its decision to end segregation in the teachers' colleges, the Baltimore County Board of Education had decided to begin integration in the fall, and, locally, colored swimmers were limited to the use of two of the eight outdoor swimming pools operated by the city.

THINGS HAVE changed since these stories were written in June, 1955.

Mr. Myers and Mr. Franklin lost their appeals and are now serving their sentences. Mr. Myers' term is for two years and Mr. Franklin is serving a three year sentence as a second offender.

In the meantime, the Pennsylvania Ave. night club with which Mr. Myers was associated, has been sold.

Mr. Myers and Mr. Franklin were arrested in a raid on the 2915 Elgin Ave. home of Harry T. (Sonny) Pratt Jr., who in 1945 inherited and later dissipated a $50,000 estate left by his father, long time principal of Douglass High School and a laundry owner.

Pratt was also convicted but was later granted a new trial and the state eventually dropped the case.

AS FAR AS the teachers' colleges are concerned, the State Board of Education totaled up the score this week and reported that formerly all-white Towson State now has seven colored students enrolled. Frostburg has five, and Salisbury has one in the summer session.

In its year of desegregation, Baltimore County has also shown progress. From a standing start, the county now has 44 elementary schools, three junior high schools, and six senior high schools, which are integrated.

Edward G. Stapleton, superintendent of schools, has reported on several occasions that integration in the county has been successful and that more schools will be desegregated as soon as the present shortage of classroom space is eased.

THE ONLY ORGANIZED protest came last September when a group of parents demonstrated at the Hereford School, but the protest quickly died away. A Baltimore County carpenter who wouldn't permit his children to ride on a Negro bus, school, was brought into court and at last report had moved his family to Florida.

This year saw colored students graduating from formerly white schools for the first time, and the Board of Education announced with evident pride that it was impossible to give a breakdown on the number of colored graduates because:

"We no longer keep records by race."

THIS SATURDAY IN BALTIMORE, history of another sort is scheduled to be made as the city opens her swimming pools to everyone.

The decision to end segregation was made after the Supreme Court ruled against segregation in public recreational facilities, and to prepare for the move the Bureau of Recreation has held special classes to train pool personnel how to deal with any problems that might arise from integration.

Now, instead of colored children being compelled to use either the pool in Druid Hill Park or the one in Cherry Hill, they can use them all.

This then is the story of what a difference a year can make.

Bill collector, accused by expectant mother, goes free

"He hit me in my stomach and I'm six months pregnant." Mrs. Doris Jefferson, 23, 2400 block Rayner Ave., was speaking Tuesday in Northwestern Police Court before Magistrate Linwood Koger Sr.

The defendant, Sidney Snyder, 35, 100 block N. Front St., was charged with assault by striking Mrs. Jefferson. Mr. Snyder is a bill collector for Elgin Sales, 1400 block W. Baltimore St.

Mrs. Jefferson, a full-faced mother of four children, wore a dark skirt and a tan maternity smock in court. She testified:

"I said to him, 'What are you doing in my kitchen? If you want to collect money, business is at the front door.' I thought he had gone, when I heard someone say:

"I'm not going anywhere. You're so smart anyway.

"Oh man go ahead," I said to him. He then started beating on me. I threw my arm at him." Mrs. Jefferson's left eye was still visibly bruised.

SHE WAS examined and treated at Sinai Hospital for bleeding from the left eye.

Mrs. Martha Johnson, 1700 block Warwick Ave., Mrs. Jefferson's sister, who was talking to her on the telephone at the time of the incident testified:

"I'm the one she was talking to on the telephone. I heard her say, 'Is this you again?' I couldn't hear much of anything else except the children hollering.

Also supporting Mrs. Jefferson's testimony was a neighbor, Mrs. Marian Waters, also of the 2800 block Rayner Ave., who said that she had seen the defendant strike Mrs. Jefferson.

THE BILL collector, a slim brown-haired man denied the charge. "I call on Mrs. Jefferson every Friday," he said. "I rang the bell and didn't receive any answer.

"I heard Mrs. Jefferson talking. 'Why don't you show me some courtesy into the front door?' I asked her. She had something she threw at me. When I turned around, she was all over me."

Mrs. Jefferson insisted that only after he had already attacked her, Magistrate Koger told the defendant:

"Mr. Snyder, your defense is not a good one. It is quite unlikely a pregnant woman would attack you. I don't think you should go to such extremes in collecting money.

"However, I'm going to take your record into consideration."

The magistrate then placed him on probation for a year without a verdict.

Rites held for AFRO carrier

Funeral services were held last Wednesday at the Elroy O. Wilson Funeral Home for Sharrick Houston, 57-year-old AFRO carrier who died suddenly on June 8.

Mr. Houston, a native of Savannah, Ga., had lived in Baltimore all of his adult life. He was well known in all sections of the city, where he began selling AFROs during a two-year period in which he was completely blind.

Again regaining his sight, he continued selling the AFRO and remained an active member of the Baltimore Blind Association.

He was also active as an auxiliary policeman and a Scout leader and sang with the Blind Association Quartette.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Sharrick Houston Sr., he is survived by his mother, his wife, Mrs. Lillian Bailey Houston; a son-and daughter, and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret H. Stewart and Mrs. Nancy H. Walker of Savannah.

Burial was in the Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Cold water cooled this marriage

"He poured cold water on me in bed if I didn't get up and cook when he came in late at night".

Mrs. Lillian Gordon of 1708 Appleton St. considered such early-morning douzing by her husband, Warfield, cruel.

Judge Hinkel Jennings, domestic relations court, who recommended a divorce for her, Judge Oppenheimer signed the decree.

Mrs. Gordon testified that she and Warfield Gordon were married in 1945 and separated in 1954.

They are parents of three children, with whose support he is generally charged.

City pools to open Saturday

In preparation for opening the city's nine outdoor swimming pools on an integrated basis Saturday, in service training classes for pool personnel were conducted Thursday and today (Friday) at Memorial Stadium.

Among those who spoke at an all-day session Thursday were, R. Brooks Maxwell, director, Department of Recreation and Parks; and C. A. Hook, superintendent of parks.

Others were Lt. William T. Bell of the Park Police, and Inspector Oscar L. Lusby of the Baltimore Police Department.

AMONG THOSE scheduled to speak today are Dr. Forman L. T'e-p-l-e-t-on, executive director of the Baltimore Urban League; Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent of schools; H. S. Callowhill, superintendent of recreation and Mr. Maxwell.

Lifeguards, supervisors were selected to assist in training pool personnel, along the lines of good human relations.

'I slapped her,' is admission that cost defendant $50

"I was sitting in the bar when he came by and slapped me in the mouth and I didn't like it."

That, said Miss Eloise Walker, 900 block Harlem Ave., in Northwestern Police Court on Saturday, was the explanation of the arrest of Freddie Jenkins, 34, 1000 block Edmondson Ave., on an assault charge
