OUR CREED

We believe that America can best lead the world away from racial and national antagonisms when it accords to every man, regardless of race, color or creed, his human and equal rights. Hating no man, fearing no man, the Colored Press strives to help every man in the firm belief that all are hurt so long as anyone is held back.

Memorial Day

On Wednesday millions of Americans from all walks of life will journey to the nation's cemeteries to pay tribute to the memory of their departed loved ones.

In some instances the time will be one of searing revival of fresh grief for the newly bereaved.

In other cases the period will be one of silent communion with the departed by those who have learned to live with their loss.

Everywhere the day will be one of flower-decked graves and of heightened memories of those who are no longer among us.

Far happier would be this Memorial Day and every other were we, the living, to decorate each and every day of our lives with the flowers of a good deed—a hand outstretched to aid the faltering, a word of solace to cheer the distressed.

That would result in three hundred and sixty five Memorial Days a year, 365 days a year of living up to the precepts of Him who said, "This do in remembrance of Me."

A Bigger H-Bomb

Brighter than 500 suns, five times more powerful than the total of all the explosives used in World War II, another H-bomb was exploded in the Pacific last week.

The stepped-up killing potential of the A-, B-, C- and H-bombs should have made us realize by now that any nation possessing them can kill just about as many people as it wishes to.

Now that this has been established, it seems that we should turn our attention to perfecting ways of living with—rather than dying with—each other.

The Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," is just as binding today as it was in Moses' time.

We should voluntarily turn to Mother Nature's operations in the psyches of her children lends them to seek — some more boldly than others — a suitable mate.

IT IS AT the insistence of this "seeking urge" that some young men make awkward but earnest approaches to suitable looking young women.

The fact that he may not be aware of some of the formulas and procedures observed by polite society does not necessarily put him in the same class with "Wolf A" (remember, he's the sophisticated type).

Because "Wolf A" can, and frequently does, master the little niceties of decorum without really adopting any of the worthwhile principles and ideas that prompts them, he can be effective in social areas where unpolished but honest "Wolf B" cannot.

SO, GIRLS, before you chase that wolf, you'd better find out what kind he is.

You might be discouraging a good potential husband and father — one who will "keep the wolf from the door" in years to come.

Rev. Bryant in 1960

Baltimore's Rev. Harrison J. Bryant, pastor of Bethel AME Church, was among over 100 candidates unsuccessful in the race for the bishopric at the AME General Conference held recently in Miami.

Baltimore was hoping, of course, that the whole AME connection could receive the benefit of the Rev. Mr. Bryant's services, but it was not to be.

We sincerely hope that this able, dedicated man of God will not lower his sights or become disheartened.

"I'll be elected in 1960," the Rev. Mr. Bryant told the AFRO.

If the atmosphere in Philadelphia is as kind to him as the Miami atmosphere was to the five southern delegates who won all five elevations last week, he will be.

St. Marys Does Nothing

Two long years after the Supreme Court unanimously held that segregated schools are in violation of the Constitution, the St. Marys County School Board has not lifted a finger to comply.

Faced with a suit of disgusted parents, the board insists the appointment of a "study commission" nine months ago is a "reasonable start" toward integration.

But is it?

The Supreme Court clearly outlined procedures to be followed by school boards in effecting integration.

The court held that boards first must submit a plan for desegregation. Secondly, the boards must proceed "with all deliberate speed" in putting the plan into action.

And thirdly, they must act completely in "good faith."

The St. Marys board has not complied with the first of these requirements. It has entirely ignored the second. And, strangely, grave suspicion that it is evading the third.

The NAACP has repeatedly announced that it does not file suits when county school boards, acting in good faith, submit a plan.

St. Marys' board has not submitted a plan and makes no apologies for not having done so.

Further, it boldly announces that it has no intention of doing anything about ending segregated schools until some future time, maybe next year.

In the meantime, children are compelled to ride buses past nearby neighborhood schools to classes four, five and six miles away.

There is no valid reason why these children cannot be integrated immediately. Sufficient time has been allowed for any study that might have been necessary.

The board's failure to submit a plan is the motivating factor behind the NAACP's current suit in behalf of 64 children.

The board is guilty of unnecessary delay and stalling and is not proceeding according to the Supreme Court's directive.

Indeed, St. Marys authorities seem to be saying to unhappy parents and the Supreme Court, "We are not going to do anything about it such soon."

The NAACP was left with no alternative but to seek redress in the courts. And we are confident that the court will fully agree with the NAACP that St. Marys is not complying with the law.

A great loss

The Nixons are leaving the Baltimore area.

The Rev. Harold G. Nixon has resigned the pastorate of Turner Station's New Life Presbyterian Church. His wife, Mrs. Sanoma Nixon, is giving up her job as guidance counselor at the Sollers Point High School.

When the Baltimore County grand jury discovered that gambling flourished in the Turner Station area and made several great strides it was the Nixon-Weaver cleanup had been instigated by several public-minded citizens, including the Rev. Mr. Nixon.

Strangely enough public resentment centered upon him.

Threats upon his life followed and hostility became so great, he was compelled to leave the community temporarily.

Now both of them have accepted positions in New York where they can build their careers in a more hospitable community.

Their loss is a calamity.

It is unfortunate when promoting young people leave us because we are backward or intolerant.

Raw piece of business

The action of a handful of unreconstructed rebels in delaying the confirmation of Simon E. Sobeloff as a member of the Fourth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals is nothing less than scandalous.

That their opposition stems from fear that Mr. Sobeloff, a distinguished citizen of the law, will not join their conspiracy against the Supreme Court makes their performance all the more disgraceful.

Leaders of the low level campaign to block Mr. Sobeloff are Senators Eastland, Mississippi; Johnston, South Carolina; and Ervin, North Carolina.

Actually, opponents of Mr. Sobeloff can bring no valid charges to support their opposition.

Every accusation they have leveled against him since his nomination last July 14 has been carefully examined and proved false.

The only thing left is a Dixiecratic certainty that Mr. Sobeloff will carry on the noble tradition of the Fourth Circuit Court in wiping out on by one the discriminatory laws of their states.

That should be a point in his favor, not against him.

The shameful delay in the Sobeloff case is setting a dangerous precedent.

If decent members of the Senate continue to sit supinely by and let the Eastland gang get away with this raw piece of business, every appointee to the Federal judiciary can be made to knuckle under to his segregationist blackmail.

We submit the time has come for the Democratic leadership in the Senate to show leadership by getting the Sobeloff nomination out of Eastland's grimy hands.

Until it does all professions that the Democratic Party stands for justice and can control its irreconcilables is likely to fall on deaf ears.

City Desk Memo

By CHESTER M. HAMPTON

That lonely outcast, the "wolf," is evidently a greater menace to womankind than the termite, ant and common housefly combined.

That is, if the recent contest staged by the AFRO magazine section is any indication. Women the country-over sent in their pet methods of discouraging wolves — the two-legged ones that make passes at lasses (with or without glasses).

Well, lasses, before you adopt one of these methods or invent some of your own, consider the fact that there are wolves — and then there are wolves.

Although the initial approaches may be similar, the motives can be vastly different.

Now there is "Wolf A"—he's the guy whose intentions are far less than honorable—and with whom no prudent lass wants to become entangled.

Then there is "Wolf B"—this is the fella who's single, unattached and somewhat at loose ends. Basically, he's just a lonely guy looking for companionship.

IT'S VERY possible that he's looking for a wife and just doesn't know it.

(Some happily married men look upon their single days as periods of appalling loneliness and aimlessness. They admit, however, that they were not conscious at the time just how empty their lives were—they couldn't have known, they had no basis of comparison.)

The urges and promptings that Mother Nature operates in the psyches of her children lends them to seek — some more boldly than others — a suitable mate.

Provident Guild

Dear AFRO:

My sincere thanks to the AFRO for printing our story on the lease pertaining to Provident Hospital Ladies Guild Membership Drive.

Through your kindness in furnishing my material, the guild has been able to secure many new and renewal memberships.

Sincerely yours,

Beach Integration

Dear AFRO:

Upon reading this week that Sandy Point and the other state-owned beaches and recreation areas will be open this year on a non-segregated basis, I feel that the warmest possible congratulations are in order for the individuals and organizations who made such integration possible.

Both the NAACP and the AFRO played a role in bringing an end to the former segregated policies.

As a citizen of Maryland offer my congratulations to the AFRO. I have already sent my membership in to the NAACP.

MSTA Award

Dear AFRO:

Several of our members have informed us with considerable indignation that the AFRO-AMERICAN has bestowed an Honor Roll plaque on the Maryland State Teachers Association for opening its membership to colored teachers.

For you information we record these facts:

1. Pressure to end segregation in the MSTA was applied for years by Local 340, Baltimore Teachers Union. White teachers were forced to attend segregated meetings of the annual conventions of the MSTA because they were paid for a regular school day. After the Union protest to Dr. Lemmel, then superintendent of schools, teachers were permitted to remain in their schools instead of attending the MSTA segregated meeting.

In 1950 the Teachers Union inaugurated its own convention, providing unsegregated meetings for all Maryland teachers on the same days as the MSTA convention. In 1951 our principals, Spencer Thurgood Marshall, gave us renewed inspiration in our work for equality. In 1953 Walter White was the principal speaker at our convention celebrating with us our twenty years of achievement in human relations in Baltimore.

2. The greatest single stimulus toward desegregating the MSTA came from the speech delivered by Pearl Buck in 1948. This was the result of a communication between a union member and Miss Buck, who consulted us on her best procedure, and we took our advice. We were very proud of the effect of her speech and the publicity it brought to the good cause.

3. The Maryland State Teachers Association continues to practice complete segregation in the housing accommodations and meeting arrangements of its annual convention held in Baltimore in October.

An organization that reluctantly accepts colored teachers as dues paying members but refuses to conform to the accepted pattern of human dignity would hardly seem one to be chosen for a special honor by the AFRO. In stating these facts we are not invidious.

The Baltimore Teachers Union has a twenty-two year record of active struggle of colored and white members and officers for the human welfare that is the goal of our trade union movement.

Sincerely yours,
Una Corbett, Chairman
Education Committee
Baltimore Teachers Union
Local 340, AFT

(Editor's note: As has been previously stated in this column, the plaque received by the MSTA was one which was awarded in 1951 when the organization opened its membership rolls to teachers of both races.

However, the plaques were delayed in transit and not received by their recipients until recently.

We agree that the MSTA, after a laudable step taken in 1951, should not continue segregation in housing delegates to its conventions when the law of our land is against such segregation. And teachers should be in the forefront of the fight for equal rights for all human beings.)

Not all of them

Dear AFRO:

I am seeking your help in the hope that in some way you can help me. I was married in St. Philip Lutheran Church to a Mr. ——— in December 1953.

I left Baltimore to come to New York to support my son and myself. My husband has failed to support us although he is under court order to do so.

He is now back about $1,400. I have had warrants out for him but the police say they are unable to find him. I know he is still in Baltimore as he has been seen there recently.

• • •

LAST MONTH, I was in Baltimore and went to the Northeastern Police Station. The desk sergeant appeared to me to be rude and refused to take a missing person's report on my husband.

He said my husband was an adult and knew what he wanted to do, at 18 years of age, at a time. He made jest of it, and flatly refused to take any kind of report.

The same day, I went to the Central Police Station. I received the same reception, but this time I was told that I proposed "adultery" and was an "ad-dult" and not "a-dult."

Could you tell me is it the policy of the Police Department of Baltimore to mock, make fun of and insult people who seek help?

Also, is it the policy not to accept a missing person's report?

MRS. W. Y., Bronx 59

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We are sure the Police Department does not condone impolitness such as described by Mrs. Y. We have asked Commissioner Bennett to comment on the matter of accepting missing persons' reports.

He says, "The policy of the Baltimore Police Department is to be courteous to all persons at all times. Regardless of how trivial the matter may seem we endeavor to help people. We remember that life's an important matter with the complainant.

Missing Persons's reports are supplied in all the police districts in the city. The sergeant in charge takes the information, fills in the proper form and submits it to the Missing Persons Bureau.

Baltimore's Dr. Roy Johnson, the dentist, has succumbed to Dan Cupid. He and Barbara Scott, a teacher, were married in Los Angeles, Calif., last week. Roy is living there now. They're accepting congratulations at 1111 Vernon Boulevard.

And speaking of Baltimoreans in California—a card from Mexico announces that Zelda Webb, a local girl, is honeymooning there. She is now Mrs. Jack Anderson. (Zelda teaches in Oakland.)

Residents say the prettiest new car in Turner Station is that pink Lincoln Premier owned by Mary Adams of the famed Adams family.

Turner Station YM post is expected to be filled within the week.

Rudolph Wheeler, present exec there, goes to a new post at a South Baltimore Y.

She's a real jewel...

The AFRO's ideal mother contest, which this reporter dreamed up 11 years ago, gets better as the years go on.

Reason: Each year, the mother is the finest-loveliest individual you would want to meet.

Our 1956 winner, Mrs. Agnes Hildebrand, Orangeburg, S.C., was truly a jewel.

Like others who listened to her talk at the AFRO reception in her honor—I sat in rapture and marveled how she was able to rear ten wonderful children, and look so youthful and attractive and so much younger than her 74 years.

Here are some of the things she told us at the reception—

"I am so grateful for this honor ...you gave me my first plane ride.

"Long ago, I had said to my children—when I get in the air, I'm on my way to Heaven, but then the telegram came announcing that I was to travel by air to Baltimore. I had always traveled by train before.

"I said, anything I want to do in life is in the cards. After I got in the air, I said to my daughter, 'I think I'm through with the trains now ...I like airplanes...'"

• • • •

On Rearing her children: "It was not an easy task to rear ten children ... my mind goes back to moments of agony, of hoping and praying to God that would make these children what we wanted them to be...

"When I married my husband he was a minister ...he had three children... I remember that I weighed 98 pounds and he said to me..."I want you to be my wife and care for my children.

"He persuaded me that serving as his wife, and the mother of his three children would render a service as valuable as that of my own ambitions to become a missionary worker.

"I said to myself—these are my children and I'm going to be their father-

"After we were married, my husband said he had always wanted to have a boy so he could become a minister. We named him Richard Allen.

"Two years later, another boy came, and he said, 'Here's another minister.

"We prayed for one minister and the Lord was so generous He gave us three boys who became preachers.

"I am very grateful to God. We had a family altar in our home. Every morning everybody went out each day under the influence of prayer.

"By praying and trusting in God we were able to put all of them through college, and we tried to teach them to rely on God.

"...my husband has been gone ten years ...but these children have seen to it that I have not wanted for one thing."

And I liked the way Mrs. Hildebrand accepted a gift from a group of women ... "Thank you," she said, "not for what it cost, but for the spirit in which it is given."

She is a real jewel!

People, dogs, garbage cans causes for littered streets here

"People in cars throwing trash and debris into the street ... dogs running at large in neighborhoods rooting through garbage cans . . ."

These are the causes for our littered streets and alleys, William P. Fannon, sanitary engineer, told the AFRO, this week.

Despite the fact that there are 119 garbage trucks and a crew of 450 men working six days a week in the city, the streets remain littered, he said.

"Baltimore streets are not dirty," Mr. Fannon insisted. "They are just littered and with a little cooperation from the citizens we could solve this problem."

• • •

TO THOSE of you who want to do your duty as a good Baltimore citizen in helping to keep the streets clean, Mr. Fannon has outlined the following rules you can follow:

1. If your street is not cleaned and trash collected regularly, notify the Bureau of Sanitation Complaint Department, Pl. 2-2000.

2. If you see a dog running loose in your neighborhood, contact the dog shelter at ED. 4-0201. The Sanitation Bureau has trucks to pick up wandering dogs.

3. Be sure you have a proper container for trash and garbage. Metal is preferable because it can withstand the weather. The 20-gallon size is the best and you can have as many as four of them.

For sashes, a 10-gallon container is sufficient. All containers should have lids.

4. In discarding garbage, be sure that it is drained and wrapped. This will eliminate foul odors and will save your metal container.

5. YOU SHOULD know the days your trash is collected and set your garbage out only on these days. (The pickup is conducted throughout the city twice a week.)

This prevents dogs from getting into the containers and spreading garbage in the streets and alleys.

6. While riding in cars, do not throw trash or debris out the window. A single newspaper can litter an entire neighborhood.

Charge segregation in Army, Air Force

NEW YORK (NNPA)—Despite the orders of President Eisenhower, a policy of racial segregation is being put back into effect in the Army and Air Force, Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, (Dem., N.Y.) charged Sunday.

Mr. Powell said he had "official documents from Fort Eustis, Va., from a guided missile center in Maryland, and from Barksdale Air Force Center in Louisiana, signed by company commanders," showing the policy is being reinstated.

Officers of two of the posts named by Mr. Powell denied Sunday night that there was any segregation on their posts.

MR. POWELL made the charge while being interviewed on the CBS television program, "Eye on New York."

Mr. Powell, pastor of Abyssinian Baptist Church, said "kick - back" charges against him were part of a drive to stop his fight against White Citizens Councils.

"There is someone or some group trying to stop the fight I am making," he said, adding that he was "the only one" who stands up in the Congress day after day against the evils of racial discrimination and segregation.

He said he was going to stay in Congress—"and let the truth be known." He then made his charges about the military installations.

MR. POWELL'S New York secretary, Mrs. Hattie Freeman Dodson whose salary was paid from congressional funds, has been found guilty by a jury in Federal District Court, here, of income tax evasion. She is to be sentenced June 4.

At the trial, Joseph E. Ford, Mr. Powell's former campaign manager, testified that Mrs. Dodson had told him that she turned over her congressional salary to the congressman.

Col. Ralph J. White, commanding officer of the Barksdale Air Force Center, said he had ordered an inquiry of a similar charge by Mr. Powell in the past and that a board, including two colored officers, had given the base "a clean bill of health."

Capt. Francis E. Fox, public information officer at Fort Eustis, said the post is integrated and here is "absolutely no segregation on the post."
