Matron spots park cop at lineup; case to grand jury

"There were ten men in the lineup. I picked the number eight man. He resembled the man. I'm reasonably sure of that."

Mrs. Anna Mae Nichols of 2001 N. Pulaski St. made this statement Thursday morning after emerging from a room where she viewed park policemen in an effort to pick the officer she alleges attempted to attack her.

Following the lineup ordered by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and held at Central Police Station Thursday morning, Mrs. Nichols swore out a warrant in Northwestern Police Station, against the man she had identified.

PARK PATROLMAN George A. Savard, 30, of 301 Milton Ct., Glen Burnie, surrendered himself at Northwestern Thursday afternoon following issuance of the warrant by Magistrate Linwood Kooper.

He entered a plea of "not guilty." He was immediately released on $500 bail supplied by Louis and Melvin Candle, bail bondsmen.

State's Attorney Sodaro sent the case to the grand jury Thursday after the lineup and called 18 witnesses to appear at the hearing next Wednesday.

THE GRAND jury sessions will start at 9 a.m. and continue with further hearings at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m.

"I think the state's attorney's office is conducting a vigorous investigation," said W. Emerson Brown, attorney for Mrs. Nichols.

"We understand they expect some new developments."

"I am devoting my full time to this investigation," said State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro Wednesday in reference to the "phony lineup" case.

One of Mr. Sodaro's first moves was to foil a lineup planned by the parks department for Tuesday night.

He learned that Mrs. Anna M. Nichols, who charged a park policeman with abducting and attempting to assault her last August, was summoned along with other witnesses to a Tuesday night lineup.

"BECAUSE WE were not notified of the lineup that was to be conducted Tuesday night by the park board," the State's Attorney said, "we told her not to appear.

"We should have been notified of the lineup and should have been present there," he said.

Asked if he thought his office should have been present to prevent Mrs. Nichols from being hoaxed by another phony lineup, the prosecutor declined to answer.

He did reply to the question of whether his office would make a check of Mrs. Nichol's "background" as Capt. G. Gordon Gaeng of the park police department had done. He said:

"Our investigation will deal with the issue itself and not with personalities."

In the nine-month period while Captain Gaeng had charge of the case, Mrs. Nichols was made to present four signed statements, and subjected to numerous telephone calls, personal visits and other direct and indirect contacts by the park police department.

CHARLES A. HOOK, superintendent of parks, said that Mr. Sodaro's investigation would determine whether the case is to go before the grand jury for indictment.

Not only is the suspected officer being investigated but also the entire method of handling the matter by the park police department.

Mr. Sodaro would not be quoted on the indictment possibilities.

Park Superintendent Hook, in the one interview with the AFRO, first said that he would not—then that he would—continue his investigation.

IN FINALLY saying that he would, he may have been reminded of the fact that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro has ordered the parks department to furnish him with a complete report of the matter.

Mr. Hook would not comment on the foiling of the planned lineup Tuesday by Mr. Sodaro.

To that lineup, W. R. Schmidt had summoned Mrs. Nichols, her husband, Albert Nichols, and Daniel H. Jones with whom Mrs. Nichols was riding on the night of the incident.

As they drove that night through Druid Hill Park, en route to a club meeting, Mrs. Nichols said in her original complaint last August, a park policeman stopped them.

He ordered her into his car and, after driving to a wooded area, made indecent proposals to her, she said.

She said that she escaped from the car and went to the highway where she flagged a cab which took her home.

At home, she reported the matter to her husband and they notified W. Emerson Brown, attorney. After lodging her complaint, it was seven weeks, Mrs. Nichols said, before she was called to witness a lineup of possible suspects in the case.

THAT THIS was a "phony lineup" was charged last week by park patrolmen Albert Muscalli and William Brown Jr. They charged that the number one suspect was intentionally left out of the lineup.

Although Captain Gaeng denies that there is a "number one suspect," there is information in the State's Attorney's office to the effect that Mrs. Nichols' description of her assailant perfectly matches one of the suspects.

The State's Attorney said that his office would stage a lineup at which the described officer will be present.

So far, he has conferred with Mrs. Nichols, her attorney, the two park policemen who revealed the phony lineup, and other parks department officers and officials.

TIME TO SMILE — The photographer caught Mrs. Anna M. Nichols and W. Emerson Brown, attorney, unaware as they left the park board hearing into the "phony lineup" case. Perhaps they're smiling in relief that the matter is now out in the open after nine Months of investigation into Mrs. Nichols' complaint against a park policeman.

Kisses wife on way to cell . . .

"He said he ran Alston upstairs to get his money . . . He said Alston grabbed a knife and cut him and he defended himself."

Police Sgt. James M. McNamara gave this testimony in Homicide Court Tuesday at the preliminary hearing of John L. Bates, 58, 502 E. 21st St., arrested in connection with the April 4 fatal knifing of Louis Alston, 48, a roomer at the 21st St. address.

Chief Magistrate Meyer Cardin overruled a motion for a directed verdict by John T. Enoch, defense attorney, and ordered Mr. Bates held without bail for action by the grand jury.

SERGEANT McNAMARA said when he arrived at the scene of the alteration both men were seriously cut, adding that "Alston said he and Bates had been drinking and Bates accused him of stealing $5."

According to James F. Price, assistant state's attorney, Alston died several hours after being admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr. Price also related that according to an incomplete autopsy report, an x-ray was taken of the deceased and doctors found a bullet in the man's side estimated to have been there four years.

As Bates was led back to a jail cell after the hearing he stopped momentarily and kissed the cheek of his wife, Mrs. Margaret Bates.

Roy Porter fined in car accident

"I took her to the hospital (Lutheran) and walked until she saw the nurse. This fellow (an unidentified man) told me I could go."

Roy Lemon Porter, 40, 300 block N. Carrollton Ave., was fined $50 in Traffic Court Thursday morning on charges of failure to identify himself after an accident and reckless driving, lodged against him after a car he was driving May 13 struck a woman at Laurens and Parrish Sts.

The injured person was Miss Gladys Ferguson, 1428 Riggs Ave., who was released from the hospital after treatment.

AFTER MR. PORTER pleaded guilty to both charges and admitted he left the hospital without identifying himself, Magistrate Standley Richardson fined him $100 and costs on the first charge and $25 and costs for reckless driving, and also suspended his licenses for 30 days.

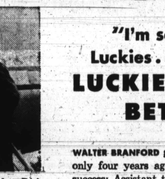
"I'm sold on Luckies . . . because LUCKIES TASTE BETTER"



WALTER BRANFORD graduated from college only four years ago, but he's already a success: Assistant to the Sales Controller of Pan American Airways. On the side, he's a topflight photographic model, a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Naval Reserve, and a confirmed Lucky smoker. "I get more enjoyment out of smoking Luckies," he says. "They taste better—and that's what counts."

OFF TO EUROPE, Walter boards a PAA airliner. His territory includes the stretch from Greenland to Bermuda in this hemisphere, and from Cape Town to Scandinavia on the other side of the world. Everywhere he goes, he smokes Luckies—a pack and a half a day.

SOMEBODY IMPORTANT needs a chartered airplane pronto—and Walter scans a routing chart to see if one's available. "I've stopped experimenting with different brands," he says. "I'm sold on Luckies—they're the best-tasting cigarette I ever smoked!"

Why pay more than Ford's price?

"Can you see, see, see safely? . . . Check your eye—check workload"

'56 Ford Customline Fordor

You can't get better value at any price!

Ford brings you far more car than many which sell for hundreds more

Let's start off with Ford styling. No other car has Ford's distinctive Thunderbird look. It's long, low, and lovely!

But the Thunderbird touch is more than skin-deep. Take Ford's 225-h.p. Thunderbird Special V-8—the engine that smashed 30 world records in one day at Kingman, Arizona. You can have this mighty 225-h.p. V-8 in any Fairlane or Station Wagon model. And Ford's record-breaking 202-h.p. Thunderbird V-8 is yours at no extra cost in these Fords.

Ford gives you more in safety features, too. In fact, Motor Trend magazine voted Ford's Lifeguard Design the top '56 car advance. And Ford's rugged K-bar frame has 5 cross members—more than even many costly cars. Also Ford brings you the kind of gas savings that won over all competitive "sixes" and "eights" in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run.

Put all these facts together, and you'll see why you can pay more but you can't buy better than Ford. Come in and let us show you!

GRAND PRIZE WINNER at the AFRO Cooking School on opening night was Mrs. Anna Claggett, 559 Woodyear St., who won the Norge gas range. Other grand prizes given away by the AFRO included a television set and a Norge refrigerator. The Associated Home Improvement Co. gave away a cabinet sink.

Ali Baba would have liked to visit AFRO cooking school

Is it possible that there such a place, a land of enchantment, where beggars become kings and every woman is queen for a day?

If there is, it's magic, and it was magic Wednesday and Thursday at the Coliseum, 2201 N. Monroe St. The occasion was the AFRO-AMERICAN's 26th annual Cooking School.

There were no magic carpets, but there was magic in the way huge quantities of food, drink, bangles and beads vanished.

The magic of wine was provided by the magic name, Madera.

According to Irvin Steinback, Madera's advertising manager, three cases of Mt. Zion Sweet Concord Grape Wine and a case of Madera Wine were liquidated, Wednesday.

Parks' well-seasoned pure pork sausage' introduced a new product Wednesday night, not sausage, but barbecue, 50 lbs. of it.

ALI BABA and his thieves didn't need to steal Wednesday because Gotes and Eskay had the battle of meat packing companies to see who could get rid of the most hot dogs.

Report has it that Eskay gave up about 24 lbs. and Gotes about 30 lbs of hot dogs.

A jug of wine, a loaf of bread and thou, ah—

Tom Hawkins, Coca-Cola sales representative, started giving away 275 bottles of cool colas, Wednesday. (Where was he, Monday?) This was in addition to three $14.50 cool coolers.

J. G. Funston, district manager for Carnation Milk Co. was jubilant over the appeal of their new instant chocolate drink, "Four gallons went in a half-hour," he said.

Carnation puts out the only instant chocolate drink. Aladdin never had it so good. Fatties were anonymous found little encouragement here, as Rice's Bakery passed out 700 slices of chocolate cake and Koester's Bakery got rid of 2,000 donuts, Wednesday alone.

Brew lovers were given an opportunity to drown their sorrows in brew, as the American Brewery, according to Henry Ford, gave away 200 quarts and 50 cases of American beer.

In the "bangles and beads" department, Mrs. Margaret Marine for the Exchange Furniture Store gave away some 1,000 yard sticks.

When an interested onlooker asked her about a beautiful service for Six Tableware set on display she said jokingly: "They just demonstrate this; nobody wins it."

Apparently anxious that everyone should get his full measure, both Western Maryland Dairy and Schenley Distributors gave away several thousand rulers.

"This is the first year they didn't give away cottage cheese," Mrs. Venzella Waller, their representative said.

WHEN MRS. JEAN HARRIS, AFRO home economist, asked her huge audience, "How many like to cook?" a sea of dainty feminine hands went up.

When she asked, "How many don't like cooking?" several husky male hands went up. "I know your cooking is awful," she said.

Several of the men present when asked what brought them out unhesitatingly replied, "My wife." Charles Gilles, retired Douglass High School custodian, commented:

"I have been coming to these shows about seven years, since they were held at Metropolitan AME Church. They get better each year. This will be the best year, if they call my number.

"They give men an opportunity to meet old friends. I haven't seen anything yet, but if I win tonight get the photographer and get my picture."

Tazewell A. Johnson, Dunbar High School teacher, said: "This is the 3rd or 4th year I've come out. I haven't won, but it's a pleasure to see the others win.

"I think this affair is a credit to the people who sponsor it. The audience is a very appreciative one."

James Bass, 200 N. Aisquith commented: "I was here last year. I enjoyed it so much that I came back this year. I enjoy cooking anyway.

"My wife won a great big ham last year. I need one tonight, hungry as I am."

Woodrow Hill, 2600 block Edmondson Ave. had a slightly different angle: "This is the first one I've been to. I came to bring a couple of ladies.

"I'd like to win this automatic cooker. I don't have a wife, so—"

SEVERAL MEN had hopes of winning the automatic cooker given away by Madera Wines. One, however, wanted to win a refrigerator. "I'm single," he said, "and I would like to be able to keep cool things in a cool refrigerator."

At least one brave soul admitted that he actually wanted to learn how to cook, Alfonso Stevens, 2600 block W. North Ave. said:

"I am very interested in this sort of thing. My wife has been trying to teach me how to cook. I can just about fry cheese and eggs.

"I thought if I came out here I could learn something. This is my first year out. I'm hoping to walk away with something, if it's no more than a case of Pepsi Cola."

The AFRO-AMERICAN Cooking School finally came to a close. Aladdin's lamp went out.

Some of the men had learned something about cooking. A lot of women had won baskets of food and other prizes.

Everybody went home happy.

received $50 war bonds from the AFRO.

An attractive widowed mother of three children was winner of the Thursday matinee grand prize, the television set.

Mrs. Helen Blackwell, 121 N. Aisquith St., gasped and sat back in her chair as the number 4255 was called out.

"I can't believe it," she repeated as she approached the stage. "This is the first time I've managed to get to the show! I've been trying to get here for years," she added.

Catching her breath, she paused long enough to rub her hands over the mahogany finish of the set. "It's so beautiful. I've never won anything before in my life," she said.

AMONG OTHER prize winners at the Thursday matinee were: Mrs. Ella Hanson, 1623 Division St., GE electric toaster; from Exchange Furniture Co.; Mrs. Henrietta Harris, 1138 N. Gilmor; camera set from Hub Furniture Store; Bernard Garrison, 2313 Dukeland St., card table set from Goodyear Tire Co.

Also Mrs. Etta Carter, 1111 Harlem Ave., steam iron from Marvel Cash and Credit; Mrs. Mary Barner, 316 E. Lanvale St., picnic cooler from Coca-Cola and Mrs. Clara Norris, 927 Calhoun, Bar-B-Q Grill from Gunther Brewery.

GRAND PRIZE winner of the gas range Wednesday night was Mrs. Anna Claggett, housewife who lives at 559 Woodyear St.

Holding the lucky ticket No. 409, Mrs. Claggett rushed to the stage exclaiming, "I've been coming to the cooking school ever since it started 26 years ago.

"This is the first time I have ever won a big prize. I always win a bag of food. I hadn't won anything tonight and I was just about to go home when they called my number.

"I'm so thrilled, I can hardly speak."

Mrs. Claggett's husband, Manuel, is a steveadore. They have no children.

Winners of the grand prizes on the final night of the show (Thursday) were Mrs. Josephine Queen, 325 N. Schroeder St., who won the Norge Refrigerator and Mrs. Jean Johnson, 1613 Stephen St., winner of American Kitchen Cabinet sink.

Another headline feature at the closing performance was the selection of three Washington flour cake baking winners from the 40 entries in the recreation.

Admitting it was a close decision, judges awarded cash prizes to the following $25 first prizes: Mrs. Martha Rossell, 2304 Guilford; who had baked a cocanut cake; $15 second prize, Mrs. Inez McCall, 2544 W. Lafayette, for her maple nut cake; and $10 third prize to Mrs. Maggie Smith, Turner Station, for her orange cake.

OTHER PRIZE winners on the opening night of the show included:

Mrs. Thelma Lawhorn, 1202 Dukeland St., and Miss Rose Saunderes, 1621 N. Broadway, gas fryers, given by Madera Wine Co.; Mrs. Julia Davis, 1813 Druid Hill Ave., 8-oz Coca-Cola picnic cooler; Mrs. Shirley Lee, 2004 Guilford Ave., steam iron from Exchange Furniture Store; Mrs. Lola Cox, 407 W. Lanvale St., RCA radio, from Marvel Cash and Credit Store.

'IT'S SO BEAUTIFUL' . . . . exclaims Mrs. Helen Blackwell as she shows her grand prize Motorola television set which she won at the Thursday matinee of the AFRO Cooking School, to D. Arnett Murphy, head of the AFRO advertising department. The two-day show closed Thursday night.

Barbara makes cupcakes

"Miracle Cupcake. That's what I'm going to make because if they turn out good it'll be a miracle."

"My Daddy told me if these don't turn out good I can always use them as doorstumps.

"My mother says I'm a good cook, but I'm little messy."

But it was little brother Billy who caught the brunt of Barbara's quips. "He wants to go to the moon in a rocket ship. I guess he'd cut a part of the moon off and bake it for a pie," she remarked.

Several members of the audience, who tasted Barbara's golden brown muffins after they were done agreed with the youngster's mother that she "is a good little cook."

JUNIOR COOK — Barbara Prestwidge, youngest guest demonstrator to appear at the AFRO Cooking School, shows AFRO Home Economist how to make her 'Miracle Cupcakes.'. Other guests to appear on the two-day show were Gloria Lockerman, champion speller and Mrs. Fannie-joe Reid, AFRO food columnist.
