Johnson Community Center dedicated

"Where there is no vision, the people perish."

This was the theme of the talk given by Dr. J. Timothy Boddie, pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church, Sunday afternoon at the Harvey Johnson Memorial Community Center dedication service, at Union Baptist Church.

Dr. Boddie praised the spiritual leadership of the late Rev. Harvey Johnson, whom he called a 'fighter' and also the present pastor of Union Baptist Church, the Rev. Baxter L. Mathews.

Recalling Dr. Mathews' concept of three V's—vision, venture and victory, the Rev. Mr. Boddie said, "These are the spiritual insights, we as leaders need.

"We of the church particularly need 'Ventures' to go forward. The church sometimes lags behind progress. Baptists and Methodists take too literally that hymn, 'I Shall Not Be Moved.'"

The Rev. Mr. Boddie urged the church to go forward and called life, 'a long, hard fight.'

Looking out at his capacity audience of more than 1,000 persons, the Rev. Mr. Boddie concluded.

"There is a battle to be fought, an upward race to be run, a crown of glory to be sought, a victory to be won."

"THREE MINUTE talks were given by James Murphy, representing Dr. Carl Murphy of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Mrs. Lillie Jackson, president of the NAACP; Harold S. Callowhill, of the Department of Parks and Recreation;

Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter, State Department of Welfare; Bernard M. McDermott, Juvenile Court; Dr. Furman Templeton, of the Urban League; James M. Hepburn, Police Commissioner; Dr. Arthur Lichenstein, of the Department of Education; John L. Berry of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co. Dr. Houston R. Jackson presided. Music was provided by the Senior Choir of New Shiloh Baptist Church.

Gov. McKeldin speaks at Morgan

"I present to you the Chief executive of this state; Morgan's great and good friend Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin."

This was the introduction given by Carl Murphy, chairman of the Morgan State College Board of trustees and president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, on Thursday night as the governor addressed the school's annual faculty dinner.

Also appearing on the program was Dr Martin D. Jenkins, Morgan president, who spoke on some aspects of the college program with emphasis to achievement of faculty members.

Blonde witness cries for man who invaded home

"If he just hadn't come up on my steps the second time, I wouldn't have called police.

"He wrote me a letter while he was in the City Jail and asked me to please give his wife and unborn child a chance. He said he was looking for a place to live and didn't want to rob me or anything.

"I don't want him to go to jail. I know how it is to have a baby alone."

MR. WILLIAMS, who was charged with burglary, was found guilty of a charge of rogue and vagabond. (Being on the premises with intent to steal). Judge Joseph Carter withheld sentence pending a probation report.

Mrs. Jenkins told how she discovered Williams in her apartment after her eight-year-old daughter told her, "Mamma, there's a man in there."

She stated she asked Williams to leave and that later he came back and tried the knob on the door. He did not take anything, she said.

* * *

WILLIAMS, A native of Richmond, Va., who has been in Baltimore a year, stated he had been apartment hunting and went to the Jenkins home to inquire about a vacant apartment across the street.

He stated Mrs. Jenkins' daughter let him in and went to call her mother. He said when Mrs. Jenkins called out, "Who's there?" he walked toward her so that she could see him better "in the dark hallway."

Mrs. Jenkins declared that Mr. Williams had been drinking and the arresting officer confirmed this.

However, Mr. Williams stated on the stand he did not drink. He admitted, however, that in was represented by Milton Allen, attorney.

Heavyweight crown is vacant

"I came home from the hospital about noon. I found him in my bedroom ransacking the place. He yelled out, 'Blanche is in there.' I turned to look and he tried to run away.

Robert Bailey, 700 block W. Fayette St., was testifying against Caleaph Daniels, 35, 600 block W. Fayette St., Thursday in Southwestern Police Court before Magistrate Howard L. Aaron.

MR. DANIELS, appearing in court with his head thoroughly bandaged and wearing a bloody shirt, one eye completely closed, could only mutter, "I don't know what I was doing. I was drunk."

Magistrate Aaron told Mr. Bailey, "The heavy weight crown of the world is still vacant."

The defendant was held for grand jury action.

"When we jumped into the fight they broke and ran. I followed them until someone fired a shot."

Police testified they found a half empty pistol clip in Woods' pocket.

Kent told the court: "We were trying to get away when the cops started blasting down the alley. I told them no," said Mr. Simmons, who pleaded not guilty.

"A fellow standing there told them (the officers) that I didn't get out of the car but another man did." Mr. Simmons related. "They asked if I had ever been arrested. I told him (nodding toward Officer Sutton) I have been busted for "hot" cars."

'I have been busted for hot cars . . .'

"I told him I have been busted for "hot" cars."

Lawless C. Simmons, 30-year-old laborer, 800 block Druid Hill Ave., although advised of his constitutional right not to testify, made this statement in Northwestern District Police Court Wednesday morning.

Mr. Simmons was up for arraignment on a charge of larceny of a 1955 Oldsmobile sedan, the property of Elden K. Edison of Washington, D.C. Magistrate Linwood Koger ordered him held for the grand jury and fixed bail at $4,000.
