* * *

McCullough and Barksdale will battle it out here Saturday for the CIAA high jump title.

WASHINGTON, ANCHOR man on the Morgan mile relay team, ran into the Olympic picture in the Penn Relays when he executed a 46.4 quarter to pace the Bears home in second place behind a record-setting Villanova quartet.

The speedster will run his own speciality, the open quarter, with anchor the Bear mile relay team and possibly run on the medley relay team in the championships.

Bucs top seeded in CIAA tennis

RICHMOND — Hampton Institute's tennis team has been rated first in the seeding for the CIAA tournament at the Brook Field courts, here Thursday through Saturday.

The Pirates, undefeated in 18 conference matches, will enter the meet highly favored because of the play of one of the outstanding duos in conference history, William Monroe and John Modd.

Both are undefeated in singles and doubles this season.

Monroe has not been defeated since the 1955 tournament semi-finals. Modd, part of the 1953 doubles titlists, has returned after two years' absence.

Douglass hurler one-hits Dunbar

A single by Russell Crockett was the only thing that spared Dunbar High of Washington, from being victim of a no-hit baseball game here Wednesday afternoon.

The Post third baseman connected in the second inning and that was the total damage the Tide could do in the hit column as Douglass High of this city scored an 8-1 victory at Druid Hill Park.

Butch Allen was on the mound for the winners and was effective throughout. He fanned 11 alien batsmen in addition to limiting them to the lone safety.

The visitors tallied their only run in the last inning, aided by one of Allen's, four walks, a passed ball and an error. He finished the game with a flourish, however, striking out two Dunbar pinch hitters, Bravey and Smith.

The Douglass pitcher also weighed in on offense, connecting for two hits and scoring three of his team's runs.

Douglass collected a total of 11 hits in sealing the win.

Ducks divide City honors

Douglass High School thinclads gained an even break in two dual track meets with City College on the latter's oval on Wednesday afternoon.

The Duck varsity bowed 102-30, despite the fact they had five firsts to four for City. Both squads shared two other firsts in ties.

The difference came in seconds or thirds where the host team ran up a big margin.

In the junior varsity competition, Douglass came back to edge their rivals by two points.

Last-breath rally wins for Dunbar

A single by Joe Pulliam with the bases loaded gave the Dunbar High School baseball team a last minute victory over Mt. St. Joe, 5-4, at Clifton Park on Wednesday afternoon.

It was truly a dying situation that produced a 3-run rally with two men out in the last of the seventh inning. It enabled the Poets to gain their fourth win in eight starts and their second in three tilts with previously "white" schools.

* * *

TRAILING, 4-2, going into their half of the first frame, Dunbar called on a raft of reserves to pull the game out of the fire.

Coach Bill Cain got a scratch single out of Clifton Johnson, a first base supplement, to open the inning. William Jones, subbing at third, followed with a walk.

Then came Charley Moore, who entered the game as relief for starting pitcher George Collins. Moore was safe on an infield roller that went for a hit, thus filling the bases.

Second baseman Addison Warren drew a walk to force in the first Post run, and leaving the bases still loaded.

* * *

DUNBAR'S HOPES faded when Fred Boone, punch hitting for Raymond Thompson, struck out, and little Don Patterson, was retired on a soft pop to first. But then came Pulliam.

The pluky little centerfielder slashed a lean single up the middle to chase home Jones and Moore with the tying and winning runs.

Dunbar had previously beaten Southern by a 5-4 margin and lost to Calvert Hall, 5-1, in overall competition, the Poets are 4-4 for the season.

Lester TKO's Moore as boxing returns to Balto.

A relative newcomer to the boxing game, Warrenell Lester, made a relatively easy technical knockout of the veteran campaigner, Terry Moore, in the main event of an interesting program that marked the return of the sport to the Coliseum Thursday night.

The 24-year-old Bel Air, Md., youngster, appearing in his first full-length main event since turning pro in 1954, picked up his tenth decision in 11 starts when referee Benny Goldstein lifted his hand at 1:56 of the fifth round to signal the end.

UP TO THAT point, Lester had punished his older and more vinegar-wise opponent with an uninterrupted sortie of lefts and rights that several times had him on the verge of a knockout.

Only his ring savvy, gained over a period of ten years, and his tremendous courage enabled Moore to be on his feet at the finish. On no less than two occasions, he had been saved by the bell—at the end of the second and third rounds.

* * *

DECIDEDLY SLOW at 178½ pounds, and rusty from inactivity—since 1952, Terry was no match for the speedy combinations of his ambitious young rival.

Throughout the first four heats, he was outpunched and outmaneuvered by Lester. And it was not until the beginning of the fifth that he appeared able to unlimbrer himself. He got over a long right hand and landed solidly with a left that seemed to halt Warrenell momentarily.

It was obvious, however, that the 26-year-old Baltimorean had shot his bolt at that point. Lester rallied and it was all over except the formality of the referee's act of stopping the bout.

* * *

TERRY, unfortunately, was far from the boxer he was when as a middleweight contender six years ago, he was whipping the likes of Jose Basora, Holly Mims, Gene Hairston, Bobby Lee and Charley Spicer.

An encouraging crowd of 1,439 was on hand to witness the initial effort of the newly-formed Liberty Boxing Club to revive big time boxing here. The gate showed a gross of $2,403.

The Trinidad heavyweight attracted attention here April 24 when he scored a two-round knockout over Jack Gardner.
