Funds sought for housing project

The director of the Redevelopment Commission was authorized by the commission Monday to apply for a $500,000 Federal loan with which to plan the city's 38 fifth redevelopment housing project.

The proposed project will be bounded on the south by Payette St., Aisquith on the east, Fox, Lexington and High Sts. on the north, Oriole St., Lexington and Lafayette Courts.

If aid is made available by this summer, the Redevelopment commission could ask for condemnation authority from the city in the fall of 1957.

THE AREA proposed project will be separated by two public housing developments, Somerset Homes and Lafayette Courts.

Lafayette, Baltimore's first skyscraper public housing project, contains 1,000 units. It opened for occupancy last spring and is now 100 per cent complete.

In the Cherry Hill project, an addition is 61 per cent near completion.

The 360-unit addition to Cherry Hill was begun in February of 1955. It is scheduled for completion by May 17.

LEXINGTON TERRACE is the new name given by the authority to another housing project on a Fremont Ave. site which is in advanced stages of land acquisition, relocation and demolition.

There were 425 structures on the Fremont Ave. site. As of February 1, 346 structures had been acquired and a total of 870 families from the area had been relocated.

Morgan faculty hears Mckeldin

"If you ask me to describe in detail the responsibility of a state institution of higher learning as of today, I can only answer that I do not know. But I think I can go a little further. I think I can answer that by saying that you do not know. I think I can answer that nobody knows, for the responsibilities of such institutions are changing so rapidly that what was of paramont importance yesterday is trifling today and may be safely ignored tomorrow; while some item that was insignificant yesterday may be by tomorrow a most urgent need."

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin so spoke Thursday evening at a dinner meeting of the Morgan State College faculty, held in the Memorial Refectory.

Governor McKeldin deplored the existence of partisan politics in the functioning of state universities.

"I consider it the duty of a state institution to be a critic of government in the same sense that it is a critic of philosophy and science," Governor McKeldin told his attentive audience.

"But it does mean that the university should examine every new idea in the field of government as critically as it examines new ideas in other fields; and it should be free from political reprisals for so doing . . ."

Governor McKeldin was introduced by Dr. Carl Murphy, chairman of the Board of Trustees, President Martin D. Jenkins, of Morgan College, presided.

SOME 100 MEMBERS of the faculty and guests attended the dinner. Sharing the head table with Governor McKeldin in addition to President and Mrs. Martin D. Jenkins and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Murphy were:

Teachers applaud as Jenkins tells of integration plans

ANNAPOLIS — "Every nation from time to time comes through a crisis. I hope you as teachers in your communities will take the lead so integration can be accomplished in a calm and fine manner."

These words from Dr. David S. Jenkins, Anne Arundel County superintendent of schools, produced an outbreak of strong applause last week, as the official addressed more than 700 white teachers attending the annual meeting of the Teachers Association of Anne Arundel County.

"I am certainly hopeful that you as a professional body will develop in you, elements of brotherhood, of tolerance and of understanding essential to the understanding of human beings," he said.

* * *

THE SPEECH of the superintendent came several days after the County Board of Education had voted to start integration this fall in the first three grades, with desegregation spreading to other grades in the following years until the system is completely integrated.

In deciding to integrate only the first three grades at this time, Dr. Jenkins said the board was influenced by a report of the Advisory Committee on Desegregation, an appointed group of public citizens.

"We had to start somewhere," Dr. Jenkins said, as he explained that if the county had not taken action to end segregation, it might find itself enmeshed in a legal suit.

* * *

AFTER THE superintendent finished speaking, the teachers adopted a resolution approving the action of the board.

"I don't think we are going to be upset. I have every confidence you will help meet the problem and be willing to do so," Dr. Jenkins told the teachers.

"Children in the first, second and third grades in the tender years are not particularly aware of sex or color, and we felt the plan would permit youngsters to grow together with a minimum of conflict.

"The standards will not always be the same and we just work toward the leveling off of one group without injury to another.

"One thing we ask you to assure us. We want you to assure us that no child will be deprived of his rights or the right to do the best he can with his talents. We are doing this more and more in the school system, but we still have a long way to go," Dr. Jenkins said.

He also told the teachers that the necessary transfer blanks for the children are in the hands of principals and are to be filled out during the month of June in order that the administrative staff may plan for adequate housing in the fall.

"Is there a party tonight. Do you know where there is a party?" These are the words spoken by we teenagers. Weekend parties seem to be tops with us. It is at these parties that we make new friends, meet some of the old ones, and perhaps lose some.

"Is there a party tonight. Do you know where there is a party!"

These are the words spoken by we teenagers. Weekend parties seem to be tops with us. It is at these parties that we make new friends, meet some of the old ones, and perhaps lose some.

Usualy these parties do not comply to the standard ideas our parents have about parties. We as teenagers in this day and time have our own ideas of what a party should be.

Some parties that are too elaborate or too formal are what we call "a drag." The parties best known are those where boys dress as they please, and girls attire comprises skirts, blouses or sweaters.

The music at these affairs are the latest "rock and roll" recordings. Such records are considered trash by our parents but they just don't understand the crazy rock and roll tunes.

* * *

NOT ONLY is it the music that makes the party a success, but also the people with whom you are dancing. We like to dance with certain people, just as we enjoy a favorite movie star, a favorite dish, or a certain kind of car.

Our parties can be noisy, but we are not noisy on purpose. Its all a part of growing up.

On the weekend there are many things to do, like going to the movies, bowling centers, or roller skating or hiking or just a drive in the country. A quiet evening home with the family is also nice.
