—Double killing

in the two deaths.

According to Chief Wilbur Wade, the suspect said he went to the house where he and Mr. Smith, became involved in a bitter argument over a tobacco crop that he (Turner) had had raised for Mr. Smith last year, on the latter's farm.

"Turner said he struck Smith over the head with a gun and when Bias came downstairs he shot him. In the fight a kerosene lamp was overturned and the fire started," said Chief Wade.

TURNER REPORTEDLY fled from the scene back to his present home in the 200 block 32rd St., NE, Washington, where District police picked him up and sent him back to the county where he is being held in Annapolis without bail.

But the son, Eugene Smith, was unaware of the arrest as he spoke to a reporter on Wednesday afternoon.

"My father brought that farm after he had spent years working for other people. He wanted his own place and he didn't want to leave it. He had spent all his life right around here and everybody liked him.

"You can go anyplace here and ask about him and you'll find out, for yourself.

"The last time I saw him was a couple of Sundays ago when there was a ball game and he came out.

"He spoke to me and seemed all right then. I never thought anything like this would happen."

Mr. Smith, who is himself the owner of a 60-acre farm, said that his father was proud of his land.

"He just didn't want to leave even though I kept after him to come with me."

THE BODIES of the two men were discovered early Monday morning by Philip Dorsey, 76, who lives over a mile from the dead man's home, and who was in partnership with him in the growing of tobacco and a corn crop.

"I went to the barn to see about my two horse and then I stripped some tobacco. I went up to the house and when I got 1am up on it, said to myself 'Good Lord, the house done burned down.'"

Mr. Dorsey, a gray haired man, whose speech and walk make a mockery of his age, said that at first he thought Mr Smith and Mr. Bias had gotten out of the house.

"The house sits so far back that can't nobody see it and I was the first man to know there had been a fire."

AFTER A search of the neighborhood failed to turn up any trace of the two men, Anne Arundel County police were called and they began a probe in the still smoking ashes.

In what had once been the kitchen and under the overturned stove, they found Mr. Smith's body, which was identified by keys in his possession.

Police believed that when the floor gave way in the fire, the stove fell over on the man's body.

A further search turned up the body of Mr. Bias in what had been the front of the house. Both bodies were sent to the Baltimore morgue where autopsy showed the men did not die natural deaths or from the fire, police said.

All that remained of the house were great heaps of ashes, a few charred timbers, some blackened bricks, an ice box, two metal beds which had been blistered by the heat, and battered pots and pans.

THERE WAS also a broken kerosene lamp lying on the scorched ground and a damaged clock that stopped with the hands pointing to 12:50.

Several of the trees that surrounded the house had their trunks charred in the blaze. The leaves were withered from the heat. If a bomb had struck the house, it could not have destroyed it more completely than did the fire.

"We worked together every day and the last time I saw him was Saturday. We talked about putting seeds in the ground.

"I don't know why anyone would want to hurt him, he was a good man," said Mr. Dorsey.

MR. SMITH is survived by his son and daughter-in-law, eight grandchildren, and 15 great grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mr. Smith will be held Saturday at Walkers AME Church in Drury.

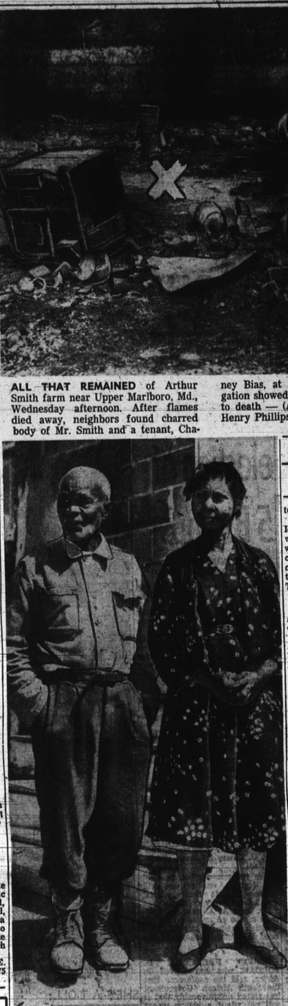
Morgue attendants reported on Thursday morning that the bodies of the two men were still unclaimed. The results of the autopsy are still pending.

Meanwhile, police scheduled a hearing at 10 a.m. on May 19 at Edgewater Police Station for Turner.

Traffic violators fined in Court

Appearing before Magistrate Standley Richardson of Traffic Court Monday, Thomas Michell, 49, of McDonough School, charged with failure to obey a stop sign and failure to keep to the right of the center of the street, was fined $10 on each charge.

Louis Cator, 43, 1900 block E. Jefferson St., was fined $10.75 on a reckless driving charge.



ALL THAT REMAINED of Arthur Smith farm near Upper Marlboro, Md., Wednesday afternoon. After flames died away, neighbors found charred body of Mr. Smith and a tenant, Chaney Bias, at spot marked X. Investigation showed both men had been shot to death — (AFRO Staff Photos by I. Henry Phillips.)

MRS. BRUMBY also testified: On March 13, she was in his car again. She was very intoxicated, so he got out of the car and came around to her side. She got out and stumbled and reached up for his arm to keep from falling.

"I got out of my car and went over and asked him, 'So, this is the same girl?'.

"He said 'I was none of my business and that he would take her in his car any time he got ready, and that he had told me he didn't want me any more.

"WE SEPARATED that day. He moved out of my bedroom and into the middle room," she added.

Asked by her attorney if there was other evidence of her husband's misconduct, Mrs. Bumbry went into a detailed description of his clothing when he arrived home after the Eager Street visit.

Miss Dolores Simmons, of 810 Madison Avenue was the only person's name mentioned by Mrs. Bumbry for her witness, Mrs. Perkins, her daughter.

Mrs. Bumbry said "Prior to March 4, I saw him going into an apartment at 810 Madison Ave., with Dolores Simmons, and stay three or four hours, one night.

"That was before Christmas, 1955. Afterwards I asked him what he was doing with Dolores and he said, 'Just taking her home.' He called me crazy as usual."

Charles Armstrong, 65, 2600 block Francis St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Provident Hospital on Wednesday. Death was due to natural causes.

"I have never performed an abortion on anybody. They made all that up. The few women I do have is for GYN (gynecological) work. I took post graduate studies in GYN work . . . that's medicine . . . real medicine.

"I have treated lone ever since she was 5 or 6 years old. I've treated her mother, father, her brother, her sister . . . her two children. I'm her family doctor, supposed to be.

Q — You don't know whether she is involved in this

A—No, I don't. All I know is I don't perform abortions, I haven't performed any.

These four women you have the names of—have falsified. I don't want to say the real word. But it's not true. They've told an untruth and caused me trouble.

IN APRIL Mrs. Watson, Melvin Parrish and William Spicer, at 2000 Kennedy Tr., were indicted for "conspiring together to perform an abortion" on Juanita Miller, 642 George St., on or about Feb. 13.

Mrs. Watson was also charged with performing abortions on Juanita Miller and a Mary M. Clark of Port Deposit, Md.

Mrs. Watson is the wife of Uzel Watson, who was convicted several years ago for drowning a newborn baby in a bathtub.

Testimony at his trial in Criminal Court contended that Watson had delivered the baby alive and then drowned it.

The baby's body was later recovered on the waterfront where police said it had been thrown. He was given a life sentence.

Police Sgt. Ethyl T. Diven and Policewoman Mary EE. Holden were listed as the investigating officers.

Joseph Rosenthal, attorney for Dr. Blake, expressed confidence his client was "innocent."

The law firm of Brown, Allen and Watts represents Mrs. Watson.

tell me anything about it.

"A patient that squealed on lone said that lone would do the work but send them in to which is wrong. I get all sorts of people all the time. They come to me. I don't care where they come from. I treat them. That's the whole situation.

"THEY SAY I'm involved in abortion and conspiracy. That's wrong.

"I've been practicing over 30 years. I've got a good practice. I don't help anybody. I don't turn lone in.

"They got hot with me, said I should have turned lone in. I didn't do that. I don't turn anybody in, and that ain't all. I never will.

"And I get along all right too.

"SO THAT'S what it is. It says conspiracy, and that means that I conspired to help lone, and knew what she was doing.

"I know that lona had some contacts with the courts on that because I treated her and got her out on probation.

"But I don't know everybody she sees. I'm busy taking care of my own house, and have no authority to go around there. I've never been to see her. I know where she lives and everything.

"The AFRO called me up before (on an assault case filed in Northeastern Police Station by an Essex husband who alleged Dr. Blake assaulted his wife while examining her.) That was a big flop too. They just wanted money out of me.

"This case now is a low down deal. I don't see why lone's lawyers didn't call me or call me in for consultation.

"This conspiracy is a lie—everything is a lie.

"I'm busy. I'm one of the Health Department doctors. And I've got more patients than I can handle. I don't need to conspire with anybody or perform any abortions.

"THE POLICEMEN came here Tuesday about 2 p.m.—in a plain car—to take me down to headquarters. They were very nice.

"It was a private interview down in the Central Police Station headquarters up on the third or fourth floor — detectives, I think. One was a colored, freckled faced fellow, and the other was white, a sergeant. Both were very nice. Nice as they could be.

"They didn't say they had me on any abortions. They said I helped lone. I did not help lone or anybody else.

"SHE HAD a lot of people believing that she was my private nurse. I have no wife, nobody. Just me and my little boy.

"I didn't know a thing about these charges until they came and picked me up, and they did it the nicest way in the world, the way they should be . . . they walked down to the office—left the car up the street . . . said they had to do their duty.

"Yes, I posted bail . . . $7,500 bail . . . No it was not in a magistrate's court. It was a private hearing.

Q—What is your main practice? Do you deal specifically with female ailments?

A—No, 'Inc a genito-urinary man—syphilis and gonorrhea, I'm a VD specialist. I have more than I can do. I'm busy the whole time I am here. I had a bad cold, chills and fever the last few weeks, but I'm better now.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The Wall Street Journal chose Garfield Lillard, Mr., Tennessee State University senior in economics, to receive its Student Achievement Award for 1956.

Dr. Murphy presents top honors

"There are two and a half million persons in the armed forces of the United States and 220,000 of them are colored.

"They need the trained leadership of officers like you."

With this advice on Thursday afternoon, Carl Murphy, chairman of the Morgan State College board of trustees and president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, presented the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspaper Trophy as the school's military science department staged the eighth annual ROTC Day.

WINNER OF the best company was Company I of the 3rd battalion, commanded by Carmichael Caldwell, Pasadena, Md. The AFRO-AMERICAN Trophy was presented to him by Dr. Murphy.

Other winners were:

The best platoon, Company I, commended by Claude Ligon; Best squad, Company I, commanded by Sinclair Swan; individual best in drill was Willford L. Clayton, all of Baltimore.

IN PRESENTING the award, Mr. Murphy told the cadets:

"I present you this cup, awarded annually by the AFRO-AMERICAN to the cadet who is ranked first in all round excellence.

"Im doing so. I have a word for you to take back to the officers and men of the battalion.

"There are only 4,700 ROTC students in colored colleges. 3 1/3 per cent of all ROTC students in American colleges.

"Tell your associates that it not enough.

"Tell them it is their job as well as ours to sell ROTC to other students, to the alumni, and to the parents.

"Tell them that every able-bodied young man must be prepared to serve his country if needed.

"We will be drafted as a private in the ranks or make use of facilities such as you have here at Morgan to qualify as a commissioned officer.

"If you put this straight to them we shall soon have our cadet ranks filled with 90 per cent of our men students.

"Will you do this?

"I congratulate you and bring greetings to your commanding officers and every man of you in the ranks."

AMONG THE AWARDS presented were:

The Col. West A. Hamilton Trophy to Douglas R. Sands, Cockesville, Md., for being the graduating senior with the highest academic average and for having demonstrated a high degree of leadership.

Mr. Sands was also the recipient of the first annual American Legion Award presented by the national headquarters of the Legion for academic achievements.

The Combat Forces Medal for being the outstanding ROTC cadet to be commissioned went to Spencer A. Key, Baltimore.

Lee H. Bostic, Brooklyn, N.Y., won the Sunpapers Medal for being the outstanding first semester senior student in the ROTC.

FOR OUTSTANDING leadership and academic standing, the Reserve Officers Association presented the following awards: Gold Medal—Theodore K. Stokes, Harve De Grace; Silver Medal—John H. Conley, Sellman, Md.; Bronze Medal—Bernard C. Gregory, Baltimore.

Reserve Officers Association ribbons went to these outstanding sophomores and juniors:

Earl Graves, Brooklyn; Otha Spriggs, Baltimore; Carroll Waters, Remo Va.; Drevfus Frow, Bluefield, W. Va.; Clifton Johnson, Baltimore; William Irving, Philadelphia; William Marshall, Baltimore;

The Rifle Team Gold Medal was presented to Mr Bostic, the Outstanding Rand Member Award to Mr. Douglass and the Pershing Rifle Group Award to Mr. Battle.

Man jailed, women get $285 fines

"That doesn't have anything to do with this case."

Calvin Thomas, 22, 100 block N. Schroeder St., in Traffic Court Monday on three violations, was protesting the reading of his past record of convictions.

"Certainly it has something to do with your moral turpitude," retorted Magistrate Standley Richardson, who gave Mr. Thomas six jail terms totaling 60 days and a fine of $50 and costs.

Mr. Thomas was arrested in the 400 block Calhoda St., at 12:10 a.m. Sunday after a vehicle he was operating struck a post.

He was charged with drunken driving, operating without a license and reckless driving. He received a 30-day jail term on the first two charges and the magistrate ordered them to be served consecutively.

Mr. Thomas was given the $50 fine for reckless driving.

ACCORDING to police records, Mr. Thomas received an 18-month term for assault with intent to kill and he has a conviction for bastardy. When the record was cited, Mr. Thomas, who said he had been drinking but denied driving the car, protested.

After finding him guilty and commenting on Mr. Thomas' legal knowhow, Magistrate Richardson said, "Now work that one out."

TWO YOUNG women up before Magistrate Richardson were each fined a total of $285 on three traffic violations in separate cases. They both pleaded guilty to identical charges.

Mrs. Alberta Peters, 28, 1600 block Rutland Ave., was picked up Friday by Officer A. S. Rubinch after a car she was driving hit a parked automobile owned by Lewis Gaston, 3500 Northway Dr., at Federal St. and Rutland Ave.

Mrs. Peters was fined $250 and costs for drunken driving, $25 and costs for operating without a license and $10 and costs for failure to obey a stop sign.

"I DIDN'T know anything about the accident until they told me my car was wrecked," T. J. Anderson, 701, W. Barre St., said when testifying in the case of the other woman. Mrs. Nancy Lee Guess, 26, 1400 block W. Lafayette St.

Mrs. Guess was charged with hitting Mr. Anderson's car parked at Pennsylvania Ave. and Lafayette Sunday night. She also was fined $250 and costs for drunken driving; $25 and costs for operating without a license and $10 and costs for reckless driving.

Funeral held for Mrs. Connie Duncan

Funeral services for Mrs. Connie Duncan, who resided at 2907 Riggs Ave., were held yesterday (Thursday) at First Mount Calvary Baptist Church. Interment was at Arbor Memorial Park.

Mrs. Duncan died at Lutheran Hospital Monday after suffering a heart attack. She was in her 70's and had been ailing for some time.

A native of Union, S.C., Mrs. Duncan has lived in Baltimore several years with a daughter, Mrs. Mary Kent.

Other survivors include five sons and two sisters.

Judge refuses to let woman drop charge

"So many people think this is a place to carry out revenge," Magistrate Linwood Koger, presiding in Northeastern District Police Court Tuesday, made this statement to a woman who said she wanted to withdraw a charge of assaulting and striking lodged against her boyfriend, Miss Inda Johnson, 2301 Winlier Ave., swore out a warrant against her companion, Clarence A. Dorsey, 35, of the Whittier address. Monday morning, in court the following morning she said "your honor, I wish to withdraw the charge."

Magistrate Koger, however, answered with a curt, "too late," and then warned the courtroom crowd against having people arrested on warrants unless they wish to prosecute.

HE FOUND Mr. Dorsey guilty and placed him on probation without a verdict with the provision that he put $10 in the poor box.

After Mr. Dorsey said he had no money, Magistrate Koger turned to Miss Johnson and said, "You were so anxious to liberate him so you put it in there."

"I want it back Clarence, I'm telling you," Miss Johnson said under her breath as she slipped a $10 bill in the poor box.

Police get souped up interceptors

In an effort to cope with the speed of hot-rods and getaway bandits, the Police Department has put fifteen extra-fast "interceptor" radio cars into service, James M. Hepburn, police commissioner, said Wednesday.

The new cars are equipped with 250 horsepower motors and special transmissions and differentials, allowing them to accelerate to a speed of more than 70 miles per hour in one block and travel over 100 miles per hour.

Commissioner Hepburn said he hope the "interceptors" will be the answer to complaints from officers, that in many instances lawbreakers are able to outdistance them in faster automobiles.
