Miss Vera Carrington becomes bride of George L. Parrish

Miss Vera Carrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carrington, became the bride of George L. Parrish, in a ceremony in the home of her parents, 704 N. Payson St., Saturday at noon.

Miss Carrington, given in marriage by her father, was a picture bride in a street-length frock of beige taffeta, embroidered and banded at sleeves, neck and torso with gold. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds. She wore vinalyte shoes, a floral bandeau and gloves that accentuated the dress.

Miss Delores Hinton was the bride's attendant. Her dress of rose wool was accentuated with navy accessories, and her corsage was of red roses.

Mr. Parrish had as best man Carlton Knight.

• • •

THE CEREMONY was performed by the Rev. Burnette Brooks, pastor of Simmons Memorial Baptist Church. Mrs. Sidna Gaskins was pianist and Miss Annie Gaskins, soloist.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carrington wore a gray taffeta dress, the surplice opening at front filled with a pleated panel of pink chiffon. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Geneva Parrish, mother of the bridegroom, whose ensemble was of blue taffeta, with white lace accents, chose navy accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

The reception followed the ceremony.

Guests at the ceremony and reception included:

Messrs. and Mesdames Wallace Brownley, Lake Carrington, Valche Johnson, Howard Gaskin, George Harrison, Mack McLaughlin, Raymond Hardnock, Burton Towles;

Robins, AFRO Clean Blockers herald the coming of spring

Just like the first appearance of a robin, the call of a Clean Block meeting is a sure sign in Baltimore that spring is in the air.

The distinction of holding the first Clean Block meeting for 1956 went Tuesday night to the Neighborhood Club of 2800 W. Mulberry St.

Club members heard AFRO Clean Block Director M. Francis Mackey detail how they could participate in this year's campaign which opens the first week in June.

Mrs. Mackay also gave a brief history of the Clean Block movement and read statistics on the numbers of children who have participated and the amount of work done.

Mrs. Lena B. Redd, president, pledged that the club would sponsor the youngsters of the neighborhood in this year's drive.

Others present were Mrs. Alice Floyd, vice president; Mrs. Ercie Scott, secretary; Mrs. Doris Jackson, recording secretary; Mrs. Erris Randall, treasurer and Mrs. Ruth Edmonds, chaplain.

Also Mrs. Cordelia Brown, Miss Geneva Floyd, Miss Rosa Simmons, Mrs. Rosalee Vincent and Charles Brown.

Chester-Haskins wedding held

Miss Elizabeth Haskins of 732 Franklin St., and Joseph Chester were married by the Rev. Ward D. Yerby, Sunday.

The couple had as attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cornish.

Fellowship House begins 12th session of art-craft classes

Fellowship House, 21 Preston St., opened the 12th year of its "art-craft" classes for children and young people March 3, at the house, with Mrs. Alys Rittenbrown supervisor of crafts in the Baltimore Department of Recreation, as the teacher in charge.

The classes meet every Saturday, 10:30-11:30 a.m. and are planned for children ages 5-14. A limited number of scholarships are still available, according to Mrs. Rittenbrown.

• • •

FUNDS FOR the scholarship were contributed by the Baltimore Chapter of the Frontiers, part of the recipts of their annual benefit basketball game.

The project, the first interracial art-craft project in the city, stresses creativity based on the needs of each child and his interest in the world round about, and includes clay modeling, casting in various media, construction of marionettes and puppets, and construction of three-dimensional dioramas.

This year's classes are under the auspices of a committee composed of Reuben R. Kramer and Paul Yaffee, well known local artist; Miss Katherine Douglas, supervisor of arts and crafts in the Department of Recreation, and Theodore Brown, senior supervisor in the same department.

Cooking Is Fun

By FANNIEJOE REID

Let's make a pie, this week. Pie, that old American favorite because it appeals to the eye, never fails to touch the spot as a dessert.

Among my favorites, and that of many others I've found, is delicious, delectable lemon pie. I think lemon pie is such a favorite because it appeals to the eye, to the nose, and of course, to the taste.

• • •

THE FIRST requisite for a good pie is a good pie shell.

I make my shell with one-half cup of shortening, one and a half cups sifted flour, a half teaspoon of salt, three tablespoons of water (iced or very cold); an eighth teaspoon of baking soda and two teaspoons of sugar.

I mix the flour and salt, baking soda and sugar in a bowl. Then I cut shortening into flour with blender until the mixture resembles small peas. Mix in the water until you have a dough that will hold together. Shape into a ball.

On a lightly floured pastry board, I lightly roll the dough into a circle 12 inches in diameter and one-eighth inch thick. I line my pie plate with the pastry, trim the edges, being sure to have it extend one-half inch beyond the edge of the pie plate.

Fold the edges under the plate with the fingers or with a fork. Prick small holes generously over the bottom and sides of the pastry.

Now, I bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) until brown.

Turn the shell out over the bottom of another pie pan.

LEMON MERINGUE and Lemon Chiffon pie are equally good.

For the Lemon Meringue filling, I use a cup of sugar, a fourth teaspoon salt, a fourth cup flour, three tablespoons of cornstarch, two cups of water, four egg yolks, two tablespoons butter, three tablespoons water, and one-fourth cup lemon juice.

For the meringue I use four egg whites, eight tablespoons of 4-X sugar and two drops of vanilla flavor.

THE LEMON CHIFFON pie filling requires one envelope of lemon Jello, two tablespoons gelatin, one-fourth cup of cold water, three-fourth cups hot water, three-fourth cups sugar, a teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel, a third cup of lemon juice and a half-cup milk or cream.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add hot water to Jello, gelatin and sugar. Stir until dissolved. Stir in lemon peel and juice when cool. Chill until mixture is of the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. In the meantime chill milk or cream in freezing unit of refrigerator until ice crystals begin to form around edges.

Turn into Jello mixture and beat until doubled in bulk and mixture is a fine foam. Chill until mixture begins to set. Pour into pie shell. Refrigerate until firm.

COOKED LETTUCE — An interesting new way to serve head lettuce is to lightly saute it with shrimp. The texture is pleasantly different.

Head lettuce, popular salad green is delicious sauteed

Head lettuce is such a popular salad vegetable in this country that it would seem we have learned it, it, shredded it, combined it and even cooked it in every way imaginable. Yet, here is one idea that may have escaped many homemakers — sauteed lettuce.

We usually use head, or iceberg lettuce for its crisp texture and color in salads. It is easily the most generally used of all cold salad ingregients and incidentally, second only to tomatoes as our most valuable truck crop.

• • •

BUT COOKED lettuce also makes a delicious vegetable. The French have been braising it for centuries and this method has caught on to some extent in this county. The Germans serve wilted lettuce, something they prepare by pouring heated fat over the leaves.

For sauteed lettuce, the leaves are first shredded and then cooked briefly in the fat that has been used to fry some shellfish, meat or poultry. The lettuce and the meat or fish is then mixed together to form a salad. The texture of the lettuce is pleasingly different.

Another interesting lettuce idea calls for using it as an hors d'oeuvre. Hearts of lettuce can be used as cups and stuffed with a seafood mixture. Each heart is then served as an hors d'oeuvre.

The United Fresh Fruit and the following lettuce salad ideas as a prelude to spring.

• • •

SHRIMP AND lettuce saute requires ¾ pound fresh or frozen uncooked shrimp, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 6 cups shredded lettuce, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, and 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

Saute shrimp until pink in melted butter or margarine. Add lettuce and cook 1 minute. Blend in salt, black pepper and fresh lemon juice. Serve hot. Yield: 6 servings.

• • •

HEAD LETTUCE and anchovy salad is made with 1 clove of garlic, 1 head lettuce, 2-ounce can anchovy fillets, and 4 hard-boiled eggs, 3 tablespoons ground black pepper, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

Rub salad bowl with a clove of garlic. Cut head lettuce into chunks and anchovies into pieces. Add remaining ingredients. Toss lightly. Yield: 6 servings.

MAKE SEAFOOD stuffed lettuce hors d'oeuvre with ½ cup shredded crab meat, shrimp, lobster or tuna fish, 3 tablespoons eggs, 1 teaspoon chili sauce 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, 2 tablespoons shredded lettuce, 20 small hearts of lettuce cups, and parsley for garnish.

Combine first 9 ingredients. Pile lightly into small hearts of lettuce cups. Garnish each with a sprig of fresh parsley. Arrange on an hors d'oeuvre tray. Serve as an appetizer with fresh vegetable juice or cocktails. Yield: 20 servings.

HEAD LETTUCE and Roquefort cheese salad requires 1 head lettuce, ¼ pound Roquefort cheese crumbled, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper.

Cut head lettuce into chunks. Add remaining ingredients and toss lightly. Yield: 6 servings.

• • •

STUFFED lettuce is an interestingly different way of serving the most popular salad ingredient. Scoop out the core end of a firm head of lettuce. Fill the cavity with a softened Roquefort - cream cheese mixture. Chill until firm and cut into wedges. Add a sprinkle of parsley for color.

A tasty main dish salad can be easily made by tossing shredded crisp lettuce with fresh orange and grapefruit sections, grapes, diced pears and cubes of chicken. It's perfect with a lemon French dressing.

The flavors of crisp lettuce and bacon seem to be made for each other. For a delicious change pour about 3 tablespoons of hot bacon drippings spiked with a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice over a head of sliced lettuce. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Toss together and garnish with crumbled bacon.
