Roy Hamilton sings at Rouse funeral

Roy Hamilton, recording artist who appeared on the Royal Theatre stage this week, sang the Lord's Prayer at Walter Rouse's funeral, Thursday afternoon at Faith Baptist Church.

Sobs could be heard throughout the church.

As the choir began "Abide With Me," the sister, Mrs. Odessa Murriel, broke into uncontrolled tears. She cried, "He's all I have. He's all I have."

• • •

TWO USHERS led the sobbing widow from the church during the early part of the service.

Dressed in black, Mrs. Rouse buried her face in a white handkerchief as she walked down the aisle. Ten minutes later she returned fully composed and sat in the font center pew with other relatives.

Across the aisle on the right side sat members of the Savants Club, a group of local sportsmen, of which Mr. Rouse was a member.

• • •

THE EX-PRIZEFIGHTER and night club owner, died Sunday night from a heart attack while driving an automobile.

His body was discovered in the smashed vehicle early Monday morning after it had crashed out of control into two automobiles and a tree in the 200 block W. Lafayette Ave.

The hour-long service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Walter E. Paige, pastor of Faith Church. In his eulogy, the Rev. Mr. Paige described him as "a man who knew what he wanted to do and was ready to do it."

• • •

THE MINISTER said, "I know nothing of his past life but I know that he had good intentions right here (at the church)."

The Rev. Mr. Paige said that Mr. Rouse joined the church recently, and was "making preparations to become a member of the Usher Board."

"He was striving for the kingdom of God," the Rev. Mr. Paige said.

The body lay in a silver gray casket which was placed at the front of the pulpit. Banked around it were sprays of flowers, a floral shield of yellow chrysanthemums, and a heart of white gladioli and red roses.

The body was shipped to Le Grange, N.C. for interment Friday.

Mr. Rouse is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lossie Rouse, and two sisters, Mrs. Lillie Wade of Goldsboro, N.C. and Mrs. Odessa Muriel.

REV. SIMON WILLIAMSON, D.D., Pastor, Faith Baptist Church for 41 years. Passed away November 7, 1955.

"And I heard a voice from Heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." Revelation 14:13.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to lose, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together

Do you know how to handle your moods? If so, then you are among the exceptional. Most persons are victims rather than masters of their moods.

Constantly I am told of relatives and friends who are cordial and courteous one day, day, while "cranky" and cantankerous the next. The reason for the Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde act is simply that these individuals are controlled by their moods.

Therefore they only make good company when they are in a good mood. Those who are interested in remedying this situation do well to consider:

The targets of our ugly moods are frequently scapegoats. Whether we realize it or not they often are not our real targets.

• • •

THE HUSBAND, for example, who comes home from the office in an ugly mood may speak harshly to his wife. Without the slightest provocation he may begin "blowing off steam."

In reality, however, he never intended to be mean to his wife. But yap see he could not "blow off steam" to the boss who originally angered him because he may have been fired.

So the wife becomes a scapegoat. She becomes a substitute target. The cutting words he hurts at her are really intended for his boss.

The way he "tells her off" is an expression of a subtlety wish to do the same to the boss. Innocently enough she is an indirect means for the husband to rid himself of hostility and anger for another.

THIS FACT, therefore, leads to the suggestion that those who are controlled by their mood should frequently ask: What caused me to be in this mood?

The first impulse of course is to seek for the answer in external causes. We blame the weather, the way someone spoke to you, the failure to have dinner on time.

True these and other factors influence our moods, but they alone do not account for them. This is illustrated by the persons facing the same experience —one reacts in a calm, Christian manner, while the other reacts in a violent, non-Christian way.

• • •

THE DIFFERENCE then is not in the external situation. Rather it is in the individual.

And the reason why most of us do not realize this is because it is so easy to rationalize and recognize causes for our actions outside of ourselves.

Thus far we have been dealing with the problem. Let us turn now to some suggestive solutions.

A good disposition is predicated upon emotional and spiritual health. Someone will doubtless point out the failure to mention physical health.

• • •

OF COURSE one's physical condition will influence his moods, but the far greater influence comes from the mind.

A good disposition is one of the rewards of maturity.

Ugly moods are hangovers from the period of infancy and childhood. They often bespeak the need for assurance, security, and further growth.

Those who are given to ugly moods need strive to grow a little more.

Ugly moods are sometimes indications of the lack of spiritual health. Guilt, sin, separation from God—all rob the individual of his good disposition.

These have banded together to declare a civil war inside of him. And thus he wages war with those outside of him. The real battle, however, is with himself.

It is an established fact that those who are on good terms with God are on good terms with them. These are those who know with themselves and those about how to handle their moods.
