Gadabouting In Baltimore

Sororities, clubs set full social calendar

...with Lulu Jones Garrett

Iota Chapter of Lambda Kappa Mu Sorority has set Sunday, November 6, as the day for its Autumn Musical Tea, at Douglass Memorial Church under the chairmanship of Naomi Johnson.

Sorors Dorothy Pollard and Mary Owens will represent the chapter in Boston, Mass. during this regional conference in November.

Sorors, who were hostesses to the chapter at its meeting last Saturday were Sorors Louise Anderson, Jessie Kenz, Hattie Tilghman, Noami Johnson and Mary Owens.

Those were Louise Anderson, Valerie Butler, Eunice Brooks, Vets Grieg, Pearl Jackson, Naomi Johnson, Fannie Giascoe, Susie B. Myles, Evelyn Keene, Dorothy Pollard, Josephine Maxwell, Hattie Tilghman, Violet H. Whyte, Mary Owens, Alma Redden, Esther Yancey, Louise G. Turks and Ida Wroten, Chapter Basileus.

THE BALTIMORE Chapter of the Epicureans installed two new members, Frances Wood and Shirley Brown in ceremonies held at the home of Gladys Daniels Thursday night a week ago.

Phyllis Allen, president read the installation service. National officers present were Catherine Cole, national president and Mamie Crawford, national treasurer, both of Washington.

Others enjoying the service a the informal party which followed in the club cellar of the Daniels home were:

Clarie Parker, Elsie Scott Barbara Bennett, Sylvia Henry, Dorothy Johnson, Doris Walters, Bernardine Harrison, Merita Randolph and Elva Matthews.

A few days before, the Baltimore chapter had played host to the executive committee of the National Epicurean, Inc. at the home of Miss Allen.

The group not only holds a life membership with the NAACP but has asked each member to individually become financial with the local branch.

The committee made final plans to install in November the New York Chapter which has three former Baltimoreans as prospective members.

Present at the executive meetings were Katherine Cole, Washington; Bernice Brown and Louise Hill, Portsmouth; Thelma Boone, Hampton; Thelma Robinson, Richmond; Katherine Bland and Elizabeth Paige, Petersburg;

EDGAR W. DOUGLASS

Highlights of correspondence between Mr. Edgar W. Douglass, president of West Baltimore Citizens' League, Inc., and Mr. D. W. Barratt, president of The Baltimore Transit Company follow.

Mr. Douglass, in his letter to The Baltimore Transit Company, urged more regular service on No. 15 line, No. 30 line, and No. 23 line, and emphasized the lack of courtesy of some of the opefators.

The following reply was received.

October 10, 1955

Mr. Edgar W. Douglass,
President,
West Baltimore Citizens' League, Inc.,
500 N. Arlington Avenue
Baltimore 23, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Douglass:

This is in response to your letter of September 27, 1955 concerning the service on a number of our Lines.

We sincerely regret any inconvenience you may have been caused and assure you a thorough investigation is now being made of the matters about which you complain. Likewise, any adjustments found to be necessary will be promptly made.

We are constantly training our Operators to be courteous to our patrons at all times and under all conditions and certainly regret receiving a report which indicates any of the Operators have failed to carry out these instructions.

Your interest in our problems is certainly appreciated. We will, indeed; take prompt, appropriate action in the matters you bring to attention.

Very truly yours,
D. W. Barratt,
President.

Who-Zits' dance and breakfast top activities

That was a fine party the Who-Zits Club held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Friday night.

So fine, in fact, that their lucky guests are practically demanding that they make it an annual affair.

• • •

THE MEMBERS had clever decorations (a huge champagne bottle centering a center motif, ry) individual tables centered enhanced with flowers and green with flowers, filled with choice viands and drinks, and Bob Schults and His Hi-Tones to dispense the music.

They (the members) lent no end of decor to the scene, themselves, what with a flock of mighty fancy frocks.

Those William sisters (Mesdames Maurice Adams and Nathan Pitt) had on identical frocks of lace, sprinkled with brilliants, a halter neckline (the halter to the fore) and underpinned with rose taffeta, Mrs. Adams was in coffee-colored lace, Mrs. Pitts, pale pink.

• • •

THAT A WAS A DIOR that Olivia Dixon wore (unless I am mistaken and she had a very clever dressmaker). Her white satin dress was draped like a pasha's tuurban, short and strapless and worn with long white satin gloves that took the place of sleeves.

Lou Lorraine took to black lace, sheath-fitted to the knees, ruffled thence downward.

Mesdames Edward Williams was having her last fling, ere turning in, in a dark blue with Stork within the next four weeks. Wore navy blue lady-in-waiting frock for the appearance. Another with the same type project on her mind was Lettie Woodland. Her blue taffeta was cute.

Maxine Higginbotham wore a velvet sheath in black, with the new Slam neckline, and Llewellyn Walker's massive brocaded taffeta was stunning. Vivian Pendleton were black taffeta with a velvet touch, and Harriet Jones, was in black, brief as to length, sweetheart neckline.

• • •

A SPRINKOING OF out - of-towners added to the fun. Mrs. Grace Goens of Wilmington, Del., (in delectable white) Dr. and Mrs. Norris Atkinson (she in red lace) and Mrs. Ruth Shipley from Washington (the latter in a lovely print). The latter three were en route to Harrisonburg, Va., where they were going to a week-end with Dr. and Mrs. Percy Fitzgerald.

Came two years and there was breakfast . . . and even after that partine. "Twas a gay evening, alright.

NEW! Two Great Innovations Now Modernize Hair Pressing!
LONGER-LASTING GREATER BEAUTY FOR PRESSED HAIR
Wonderful new developments now make perfect hair pressing at home much easier, surer — with magnificent results that really last for weeks.

Here's Important News for every woman who presses and dresses her own hair. Here are real improvements in the cultivation of smooth hair beauty with the hot comb.

These remarkable, ultra-modern formulas were developed in the great Sulfur-8 laboratories after many months of research and experiments. They now make that old fashioned "tin can" pressing oil and that ordinary shampoo you've been using seem hopelessly out of date.

AT LAST . . . a really modern pressing oil that is better all three ways: (1) Easier, pleasanter to use (2) Gives hair much more beauty (3) Lovely effect lasts longer.

You'll say it's a revelation when you compare the new Gloss-8 DeLuxe Pressing Oil and you actually see the wonders worked by that "miracle L-P" action formula.

Makes Task Quicker, Easier, Nicer

You'll notice first how smoothly it spreads over each strand. Then, almost without effort your iron just glides through your hair. There's no "pull," no smoke, no unpleasant odor, no messy after-grease. In a very short time — without dangerous high heat or pressure — your hair is gently smoothed and glossed to magnificent, natural-looking perfection. And this beauty formula really protects your hair and scalp.

"Miracle" Results Give New Beauty

You just never realized how lovely your pressed hair could be! Perfect curls and waves now "take" like magic and look marvelously rich and full of life. Your easy-to-manage, glamorously dressed hair always looks invitingly soft and natural, never coated or "leathery." You'll have new pride in your hair, new admiration from your friends.

Superb Effect Doesn't "Go Back" So Fast

Only Gloss-8 DeLuxe Pressing Oil has that special "L-P Action" formula. Only Gloss-8 DeLuxe, of all leading brands recently tested, gave such superior results that lasted for such a long time.

When you use this wonderful new pressing oil, notice how lovely and well-cared-for your hair will continue to look even on the very day when you would usually have to press your hair again or keep out of sight. If you wish, you can now let extra time pass between pressings, knowing that your hair is safely, attractively presentable, thanks to that remarkable "L-P Action."

TESTS PROVE IT!

Professional comparison tests of all leading pressing oil brands have now positively proved the superiority of Gloss-8 DeLuxe for (1) easier (2) lovelier and (3) longer-lasting results.

Dozens of women had their hair done under the eyes of the experts. The hair was parted, and . . .

Gloss-8 DeLuxe Pressing Oil was used on one side — another brand of pressing oil was used on the other side.

In each case the experts first compared the effect during pressing. Then they compared the quality and beauty of the finished results. And finally, after about two weeks, they compared how much of that beauty still remained on each side.

Actual written reports showed that in comparison with the average of all leading brands tested, Gloss-8 DeLuxe Pressing Oil was far better in all three ways!

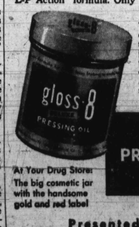
AT LAST . . . an amazing new kind of shampoo, expressly made for use before pressing or waving. Works in a special way to prepare the hair for easier, surer, lovelier results.

Hair technicians agree that the way you "prepare" your hair for pressing usually can make a big difference in the final results. In other words, a lot depends on the shampoo you use.

Now, for the first time, you can be sure you are preparing your hair the right way! The new Gloss-8 Pre-Press Shampoo has been created by hair cultivation experts for this very purpose. This exclusive beauty-laboratory formula helps to insure superior results every time you straighten or wave your hair.

What a Difference!

Only Gloss-8 Pre-Press Shampoo has this formula. Its gentle, deep-cleansing lather leaves the scalp extra clean and sweet, and every strand of hair is pre-conditioned so that the pressing or curling will "take" easily and naturally. You'll see the difference right away!



At Your Drug Stores The big cosmetic jar with the handsome gold and red label

The fragrant luxurious beautifier in this big jar costs just a little more than ordinary, "tin-can" pressing oils, but what a difference those few cents make!
