Forty-Five Years Old!

The cigarette industry—the result of a rich man's hobby

SWEET CAPORAL founded the cigarette industry in this country 45 years ago this month.

Way back in '68, while on a tour of South America, Mr. F. S. Kinney, a wealthy New Yorker, smoked some native cigarettes—strong affairs wrapped in coarse, brown paper.

But those South American cigarettes gave Mr. Kinney a big idea.

He believed if cigarettes could be made both pure and mild, they would eventually become the world's most popular form of smoking because cigarettes are not only a short smoke, and easy to carry, but they are an inexpensive smoke.

On his return to the States, Mr. Kinney devoted his fortune, and five years of his time, to the working out of his hobby.

SWEET CAPORALS were the result. They are the first American cigarettes, the first pure and mild cigarettes and the first to be made of Golden Virginia tobacco, blended with just a dash of Turkish.

Forty-five years have not shown how to make cigarettes purer or milder. Like mother's pie, the cigarettes which started the modern cigarette industry simply can't be improved upon.

That is why "SWEET CAPS" are made today Kinney's good old-fashioned natural way—why men who can smoke the most expensive, smoke "SWEET CAPS", and why the London Lancet, the world's leading medical journal says:

"SWEET CAPORALS are the purest form in which tobacco can be smoked."

The American Tobacco Co. takes the greatest pride in the ownership of "SWEET CAPS"—pride in their proven and accepted purity—the kind of pride that assures to SWEET CAPORAL smokers that they are today made Kinney's original way—the good old-fashioned natural way.

On Saturday, July 6, a lawn fete and fish supper were held on the school green for the benefit of the Red Cross. The green was attractively decorated by Mr. Liston Pennington. The chairmen of the different committees were: Mrs. N. A. Wallen, advertising; Mrs. J. E. Spear, supper; Mrs. Olinda Smith, ice cream; Mrs. Joseph Mallalieu, cake; Miss Helen Stevens, candy; Miss Esther Spear, tobacco; Mrs. Eva C. Sykes, parcels post. The parcels post booth proved to be one of the most successful features of the evening. The gypsy fortune teller, Mrs. Francis Fitch, was an interesting attraction of the occasion. The fete was a most gratifying and financial success, the sum of $164 being realized. Judging from the attendance it is evident that the entire community appreciates the splendid work that is being accomplished by the ladies of our auxiliary and the untiring efforts of our chairman, Mrs. Merritt Brice.
