SWEET TOOTH OF MANY WAS DIGGING THEIR GRAVE

"I think the sugar regulation is a godsend," fervently declared a leading medical officer of health. "We eat more or less sugar in almost everything we eat. The human family have cultivated an appetite for sugar, and are consuming much more than is needed. They could exist without the raw product and be better for it. It is not necessary for adults outside of what we get naturally. It is just like the use of salt; it becomes a habit, and we have gradually acquired the habit of using too much. Too much sugar for the growing boy and girl is also a very bad thing, as an excessive amount destroys the teeth. Corn syrup is perfectly wholesome, and can be used with decided advantage in the home. Rich pastries, in fact, all rich foods, which are made with a large quantity of sugar, are not only bad for the digestion, but are injurious to the general health, and it will be to the advantage of every woman to live up to the new rules.

"As a doctor I know that a lot of people were practically digging their graves with what they called their 'sweet teeth.' They wouldn't listen to my advice, but in the interests of the community, as well as of the national cause, I hope they will listen to Mr. Hoover's food rule."

Eat plenty of salads—lettuce leaves and all.

Patronize the fruit vender instead of the candy man.

Can all you can. This releases commercially-canned goods for our soldiers and sailors.

When counting up American victories don't overlook that of the housewives who made possible the shipment of 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and thereby saved the Allied cause from imminent disaster.

Munitions.

All over Maryland the men are swabbing out their guns, preparing to ram home another charge.

They are putting in the fall wheat.

That German gun that fired shells into Paris from a distance of 70 miles is already an antique. Its next appearance will be in a museum with the crossbow, the blunderbus, the flintlock musket and the old muzzleloaders that our dads had during the Civil War.

I am putting in enough fall wheat this season to shoot fifty American soldiers right into Berlin, all equipped to take a hand in the festivities there, says Farmer Kelly.

If the Krupps want to learn something about the gun business they ought to visit Maryland this fall.

France became famous for its cooking because it had no food to waste.

Sweet Pickled Pears.

(Official Recipe.)

Pears, one-half peck; corn syrup, 3 cups; vinegar, 1 pint, stick cinnamon, 1 ounce; lemon, ginger if desired.

Peel the pears and stick four cloves into each one. Cook together the syrup, vinegar and cinnamon for 20 minutes. Put pears in syrup and cook until soft. Pack in hot jars, partially seal and sterilize 10 minutes. Tighten seal. Let cool. Label and store.

The Fair Price List shows what the retailer should do. It is up to the housewife to see that he does it. The American people would not stand for the turning loose of an army of spies and spotters—which is the only alternative of getting the list respected.

Curbing Gougers In Capital.

Retailers in Washington are being supplied with placards upon promising to abide by either the minimum or maximum list of published fair prices. This will tell whether the store operates on the cash-and-carry or on the credit-and delivery system. It is felt by the District Food Administrator that there are sufficient of the dealers who are prepared to undertake this to give the necessary service to the people in Washington, and that the sooner the other dealers are put out of business the better.

The attitude of the wide-awake merchant of today toward food conservation and the war in general may be summed up in the following sentence, proudly incorporated in a recent advertisement of a large store in Boston:

"Ask any of our clerks anything you want to know about food conservation."

Don't forget that fruit and vegetables cost more in the winter than during the growing season. Put up as many jars as you can.

Granulated sugar has been used only for the last five hundred years. Yet our remote ancestors were pretty healthy specimens.

Do not let the surplus apples go to waste, make them into apple butter. Summer apples make splendid apple butter, even without the use of boiled cider, which, however, is a desirable addition if it can be obtained.

Are you canning? If not, why not?

Never Without It.

"Your threat to slap Reggie on the wrist was merely a bit of sarcasm, I suppose?"

"Perhaps."

"You couldn't have done much damage that way."

"Oh, I don't know. I might have smashed his wrist watch."

The Conceited One.

"I can't bear that young leading man; he's so conceited. How do you manage to get along with him?"

"I always talk to him about himself for a while, and then he talks to me about himself."—Life.

HOW THEY WON OUT

Singers Thought Up a Really Neat Scheme.

Little Conspiracy That Seems to Point to Truth of the Familiar Old Adage That Every Man Has His Price.

Once there was a male quartet which was booked by a lyceum bureau that would allow a date to be canceled only in the event of a performer's death.

This quartet in question was booked to sing at Buzzard, N. D., one cold winter night. The time-table told the boys to go to Terminal, which was the end of the line, and hire a liveryman to take them over to Buzzard.

They arrived at Terminal on a Saturday morning. The hotel was not at all bad. The first train out was to go Monday. The liveryman said that he would convey them to Buzzard for $10. It was 22 miles. He intimated that he thought he could notice indications of a robust blizzard approaching. He said it was not uncommon for parties to get lost in blizzards and freeze to death before being found. It was spitting snow at noon.

The boys went over to the telegraph office, wired the bureau, explained about the long drive to Buzzard, and the dangers with which the journey was fraught, and asked that they be permitted to cancel the engagement. They offered to compensate the bureau to the extent of its commission if permitted to blow the date.

Their answer from the bureau was an emphatic denial of permission to cancel the date.

And yet the boys did not fill the engagement at Buzzard.

There was only one liveryman in Terminal, and his price for the drive to Buzzard was $10, so the boys chipped in and paid him $20 to write out a statement to the effect that he had refused to make the trip in the face of an approaching storm. They sent his statement to the bureau.

Moral: "Every man has his price." And "where there's a will there is usually a way."

Heiress a Successful Artist.

Heiress to one of the greatest fortunes in America, born to a life of ease and luxury, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney is a shining example of the type of American woman who is combining successfully a career while she performs her duty to her home and society, says the Washington Times.

The former Gertrude Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, has for the last ten years worked untiringly as a sculptor. Splendid examples of her art have been exhibited in New York, many of them selected in competition in which the best artists of the time have been her competitors. Among Mrs. Whitney's best known works are the Titanic memorial, which has been erected in the national capital; a fountain in the New Arlington hotel at Washington, exhibited at the Panama-Pacific exposition in California; another massive fountain of Aztec design in the bureau of American republics, also in Washington. Mrs. Whitney has also done some splendid work in oil, water color and crayon.

War Stops "Sea Bathing."

Humorists have recently added to the list of the war's alleged horrors the fact that Londoners can no longer bathe in sea water in their own homes. The facts in the case are reported by Popular Mechanics Magazine, as follows: It seems that for years one of the English railways has maintained a "sea-water" service. For the small sum of 12 cents it has delivered to any customer a large can of real ocean water for bathing purposes, calling for the can the following day. Now, however, Londoners, who pride themselves on being "the best tubbed people in the world" must forego these "sea baths," for the railway has discontinued its service on account of war conditions. Henceforth fresh water must suffice for cleansings.

Swiss Adopt 24-Hour Clock.

The Swiss federal council, under date of April 19, 1918, has decreed that the Swiss transportation systems, the management of the telegraph system, the customs service, the federal government works and the remaining institutions under federal government management shall, up to the return of normal conditions, but not before May 1, 1919, establish the 24-hour day, numbering the hours from 1 to 24, beginning at midnight. The Swiss federal railway department is empowered to fix the definite date upon which the 24-hour day is to be enforced.

Gloomy Outlook.

"I guess your boy will soon return from college."

"Yes," replied Mr. Cobbles, with a thoughtful look.

"No doubt you expect him to help you on the farm this summer?"

"No. When Henry was elected president of the Sophomore Dancing club my faith in him was considerably shaken, but when I heard he'd taken to playin' on a ukulele I quit havin' any illusions about that boy."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

His War Garden.

Mrs. Flatbush—Oh, John, there are two chickens fighting in our garden!

Mr. Flatbush—Well, let 'em fight. I've got to have some excuse for calling it a war garden, haven't I?

Confidence in the Cause.

The champion optimist of America is private B——, now on active duty with his regiment somewhere in France. The regiment, after a turn in the trenches, was whiling away its time in a rest camp, and the officers were seeking to get the men to use some of their spare minutes in the study of French. The men did not take very kindly to the idea, and one of the officers sought to chide them for their lack of interest. Private B—— cut him off with the following query:

"What in h— do I want to learn French for? They don't speak that in Berlin, do they?"

ONE WEAK SPOT

Many Chestertown People Have A Weak Part and Too Often It's The Back

Many people have a weak spot.
Too often it's a bad back.
Twinges follow every sudden twist.
Dull aching keeps up, day and night.
Backache is often from weak kidneys.
In such case a kidney medicine is needed.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.
For backache and urinary ills.
Chestertown people recommend the remedy.

Mrs. Romie Patrick, High St., Chestertown, says: "I was troubled with my kidneys; they acted too frequently. My back caused me a lot of pain and seemed as though weights were tied to it, pulling me down. I felt tired all the time and I was surely in a miserable condition. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from M. A. Toulson's Drug Store and the trouble entirely disappeared.

Mrs. Patrick is only one of many Chestertown people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the same that Mrs. Patrick had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60 cents at all stores.
