COUNTRY OF COLUMBUS ASKS FOOD FROM LAND HE FOUND

Italy gave to the world the discoverer of this great country. America now gives the land of Columbus food and fighting men to aid in the common battle against arrogance and autocracy

The 426th year which marks the lapse of time since the discovery of America finds these two countries drawn together to fight a common foe, a foe that threatens the future not only of the Allied nations but of all civilization.

Italy had become war weary. She has had to summon all her moral and material forces to keep in the fight She needed America's re-inforcement.

How keenly she appreciated it when it came and how quickly she has responded to it is shown in the following words of welcome to our boys: "A cause which by force of its ideals has succeeded in drawing to itself the aid of so great a people cannot fail to triumph."

America's respopnsibility does not end with the sending of soldiers. There is the further responsibility of sharing her food with Italy.

Contrast for a moment the following food conditions:

America is being asked just now to confine her beef consumption to the tighter cuts of beef; otherwise there are no special meat restrictions.

A weekly meat report in a Milan paper during July reads: "Meat is so scarce that it will either have to be limited to sick people or be sold but two days in the week—there is a great scarcity of pork."

In Genoa the new meat regulations as published in July contain the following items:

"The quantity is limited to 100 grm. (This is about 3½ ounces.)

Take the sugar situation. Italy's sugar ration is but one pound per person per month, just half our own. The Corriere d'Italia of July 6 says: "The total lack of sugar in Viterbo continues. Only a very small quantity is allotted to the city. Even hospitals and sick people have none."

The use of sugar beets for any industrial purpose other than the manufacture of sugar is forbidden.

Nowhere is the need of sugar as a fuel and energy-giving food greater than among the Italian soldiers where the war is being carried on in the cold of the hazardous Alpine regions.

America has already sent her fighters to the Italian front. The American people must now save food in order to share with these and with the soldiers and civilians of that Country of Columbus.

Two hundred peach pits will produce enough carbon for one mask wherewith a Maryland soldier can safely face German gas. Seven pounds of nut shells will serve as well. Save them for the Red Cross!

And now rabbits have crossed the food expert's line of sight. They are easy to raise and make good eating.

KEEP ON CANNING.

Do not let the two-pound-a-month sugar ration discourage you from doing your share of canning and preserving. Uncle Sam wants a billion and a half jars of home-canned fruits—and vegetables too—put up this year. You are entitled to a special allotment of sugar for that purpose. Waste of sugar, however, must not be allowed; those methods should be adopted which require the least amount of that scarce commodity.

PICKLED CARROTS.

(Official Recipe.)

Prepare vinegar as for cucumber pickles, according to the recipe of a cupful each of sugar, salt, and mustard to the gallon. Clean and scrape the carrots, cook till tender in salted water, drain and pack in glass jars. Pour over them the vinegar heated to boiling, and seal at once. These are a pleasing addition to any salad.

In France the sugar ration for civilians is 500 grams a month or just about a pound. Are you a good enough ally to help raise that to 750 grams? Don't leave it to our soldiers to show France that Uncle Sam's heart is in the fight.

MAKE YOUR CANDY HELP.

When you use candy, get the kind that contains cocoanut. The army can make use of every cocoanut shell it can lay its hands on. The Food Administration would like to see the consumption of candy cut in half.

STOLEN SUGAR ISN'T SWEET.

Citizens may test their own standard of public or civic morality these days by their observance of the voluntary rationing imposed on the public by the food authorities. The moral man will keep faith. No one will know but himself, perhaps, and his family, but he will have much inner satisfaction. He will know he is helping the country, and doing his bit for the boys at the front. The man who disregards the regulations will have the more or less pleasant consciousness that he is of the hog breed, and whether anyone else outside his family knows it or not the whisper will be in his ear all day long, and the stolen sugar will not taste so sweet.

The fair price list shows what you ought to pay for most of the articles which figure in your food budget. What you do pay depends a whole lot on yourself.

GETTING AWAY FROM MEDIEVAL IDEAS.

The state of mind of the woman who is afraid to change the diet of her family just because she knows nothing of food values is truly medieval. It is the aim of the Administration to make this people—men, women and children—strong and triumphant. A study of the rules and recipes furnished by its experts will solve the food problems in every home.

The true Scotsman uses salt on his porrage. And the Kilted Clansmen are strong enough to earn from the Boche the nickname "Ladies from Hell."

Steel Shortage in Australia.

Stocks of steel plates, tin plate and galvanized iron are low throughout Australia, and the demand is acute, according to consular advices from Melbourne. There is at present very little prospect of outside relief, and an effort is being made to manufacture these goods in Australia. Recently representatives of a company in Newcastle and one in Melbourne were sent to the United States to purchase machinery for making steel. The high freights and shortage of supply offer a great incentive to the manufacture of lines that would have been considered impossible to produce before the war.

Enoch Latham, shoemaker, High St., says: "Whenever I caught cold, it seemed to settle on my kidneys and I suffered untold pain. When I straightened up it seemed as though I were stabbed. My kidneys acted too frequently and I had to get up several times at night to pass the secretions. I had dizzy spells and on different occasions my eyes gave me trouble; a mist seemed before them. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. I purchased them from M. A. Toulson's Drug Store and they gave me great relief."

Mr. Latham is only one of the many Chestertown people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Latham had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60 cents at all stores.
