MUSICAL MOMENTS

3rd Starlight Pop Concert to be held Saturday night

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The third annual Starlight Pop Concert Series at the Mondawmin Shopping Center had a highly auspicious opening two weeks ago with Frank Whitmore, one of Baltimore's leading baritones, as soloist with the orchestra before an audience of several thousands.

The new location for the concerts on the second parking level is a most welcome change from the mall which had been used in previous years. There is now ample seating capacity with parking space nearby. The concerts can be enjoyed with little the hustle and bustle of Saturday shoppers, who can also enjoy the music since concert time is 9 p.m.

A Continental air adds to the delightful informality of the occasion with candle - lighted tables where the audience may enjoy refreshments served from the nearby booths.

A well coordinated orchestra recruited from the ranks of the Baltimore Symphony and conducted most capably for the third year by Edmund Cooke is responsible for the major part of the program.

IN LINE WITH the policy of using compositions by Baltimore writers, Louis Cheslock's "Valse Vodka," a light and melodious work, brought to a close the first part of the concert.

Frank Hennessy from the local brewing company that is sponsoring the concerts in conjunction with the Mondawmin Merchants Association, tied together the events of the evening as the genial announcer.

This Saturday, the concert will feature music of the Union and the Confederacy (so everyone will be happy), with Elaine Scott, soprano, and a chorus directed by George Whitehead of the Peabody.

A ROVING — Heard in Canada recently the Montreal Band in Dominion Square during one of its weekly concerts. The location is admirable for an evening of music, as it is one of the beauty spots in the heart of the city. A current cut-door showing of modern paintings added to the artistic atmosphere.

Samuel Lee Shufford Jr. was sponsor of a musical and literary program at Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church for the benefit of the Sunday school. A variety of dramatic readers, as well as vocal and instrumental soloists from the church and community were introduced by Mrs. Willie Valentine, mistress of ceremonies.

* * *

YOUNG SHUFFORD, who is a talented pianist, was heard in two numbers and also served as accompanist for a group of gospel songs by his mother, Mrs. Ethel Shufford and daughter.

Other pianists were: Paulette and Pat Holtzclaw, Anna Mae Scott and Brenda Degraffenreid.

Vocal soloists were: Mrs. Iva Swiney of the Pennsylvania Ave. AME Zion Senior Choir, Norma Little, John Spenser of the Northeast Male Singers and Pamela Jonnson, a five year - old who captivated the audience with "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

"Let My People Go" and "God's Going to Rain Down Fire," both from James Weldon Johnson, were expressively read by Priscilla Parham and Mable Wallace. Dramatic readings were also given by Florence Parham, Ethel Mae Lee, Virginia Lee and young Anthony Coglien.

Brief addresses were made by Mrs. Mary E. Pharr, Priscilla Parham, Mrs. Lillian Brandford, from the adult congregation, Mrs. Georgie Turner, head of the United Order of Tents No. 879 and your writer.

Assisting Mr. Shufford in the financial part of the event were: Mesdames Ethel Palmer, Lillie King, Mrs. Velma Gold, chairman of the finance committee; Mrs. Pauline Shannon, secretary, and Mrs. Alice Eason.

Samuel Shufford is a protege of the Rev. G. M. Edwards, pastor of the church and Mrs. Edwards, president of the Sunday school. Also assisting him in his musical career is Mrs. Paige.

The religious ceremonies of the afternoon were conducted by the Rev. John E. Golden.

CALENDAR: Friday, July 31 at 8 p.m. at School 112, Calhoun and Lauretta Sts., the No. 2 Municipal Concert Band conducted by Weldon J. Irvine. Three overtures are planned — The Student Prince," "New Dawn" and "Maryland." Among the popular pieces will be "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" and "If I Give My Heart to You."

Saturday, Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. at the Mondawmin Shopping Center third of the annual Mondawmin Starlight Pop Concerts with Elaine Scott, soprano, a chorus conducted by George Woodhead and the Mondawmin Orchestra.

Sunday, Aug. 2 at 3 p.m. in Druid Hill Park, Grove 5, the annual combined concert by the No. 2 Park and Municipal Concert Bands under the auspices of the Bureau of Music of the Department of Recreation and Parks. Weldon J. Irvine, conductor of the Municipal players, will direct the first part of the concert, while Charles E. Gwynn, director of the Park Band will take over the baton for the second portion of the afternoon.

Millard Strickland, local tenor, will be the guest soloist in four selections: "One Alone," "On the Road to Mandalay," "Trees" and "Sylvia." Charles A. Bagley, assistant conductor of the Park Band, will lead the community singing.

"Princess of India "Overture" by King and Thomas, "Raymond Overture" will be two of the classics on the program. The Sousa's Marches, "Semper Fidelis" and "The Thunderer," are also programmed. There will be the usual sprinkling of popular music that makes these open - air concerts appealing to large numbers of citizens.

* * *

OCT. 19 to 24 the Worcester County Musical Association will observe its 100th Music Festival under the direction of T. Charles Lee. The five concerts will be held in the Worcester Memorial Auditorium, Worcester, Mass.

Paul Paray will conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra each evening, with soloists of international fame, including Yehudi Menuhin, violinist, Robert Casadesus, French pianist; Eileen Farrell and Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, soprano singers.

On Saturday morning the Symphony will give a concert for young people, with Lorin Hollander, 14 year-old pianist playing Ravel's "Concerto in G MAJOR." This sensational young musician was heard at the Young Musicians Series last season.

TINA LOUISE defends her honor when seven snarling strangers take the town by storm and the women by force. "Day of the Outlaw," starring Robert Ryan, Burl Ives, Tina Louise now playing at the Met Theatre.
