Part U. S. Played In Great War

Here are some of the things this country contributed to the Allied armies:

A war chest of $57,000,000,000 for expenses up to the end of the current fiscal year. Of this $7,017,000,000 has been extended to our Allies in the form of loans.

An army of 5,000,000 authorized strength. More than 2,000,000 are on the battle ground after being transported 3,000 miles through submarine-infested waters.

A navy of 1,000 fighting ships, most of it already overseas.

Fully 18,000,000 tons of foodstuffs, shipment of which saved our Allies from hunger.

Nearly 7,000,000 dead weight tons of merchant shipping and transports to help overcome destructions by U-boats.

The Red Cross and countless other relief workers, giving food, medicine, clothing and comfort incalculable.

HESSNER.—Lines affectionately ascribed to our beloved one, Elizabeth Gertrude Hessner, who entered unto rest November 25, 1909.

Through all her suffering she greeted each one with a smile,
The smile of heavenly birth,
And when the Saviour called her home
She smiled farewell to earth.
MOTHER.

We mourn for you, dear Elisabeth,
But not with outward show,
For the heart that mourns sincerely
Mourns silently and low.

'Tis not the tear of the moment shed
That tells how we love the soul that fled,
'Tis the silent tears through long years wept,
And fond remembrance kept.

Day by day we saw her fade
And slowly pine away,
Yet often in our hearts we prayed
That she might longer stay.
But God knows best,
So called her home to rest.

HUNGRY MILLIONS WANT FOOD AS WELL AS PEACE.

When Germany took up arms she created a world-shortage in food. When she lays them down, she will cause a famine among our allies, unless America realizes that they still have to be fed and that for a full year the food must largely come from the United States.

"One Hundred and twenty million allies must eat," is the present food slogan. The minute the war ends and the Hun heel is lifted from subject nations, there will be 180,000,000 mouths to be fed. The United States holds in trust the only available supply which can ward off hunger from these millions. It cannot in honor default.

The task is gigantic—no nation in history has been asked to attempt anything like it. Fifty per cent more food must be shipped than during the past twelve months. Seventeen and one-half million tons must cross the Atlantic to implement this country's promise to the Inter-Allied Council.

No code of rules can cover the case. Every man, woman, and child, has got to figure out three times a day what he can spare from his or her own meals. If loyalty won't supply the answer, all the laws in the world fail. So the Food Administration pins its faith to the public and says, "Work out your own problem your own way, but give the utmost you can. Remember only this, that for every morsel of food there are two candidates—an American here and some far-hungier fellow-being overseas."

The problem has passed beyond the stage where it can be solved by the use of substitutes—as has been said, "What is wanted is just food—and there is no substitute for that." Ninety-five per cent of our sustenance comes from staples, and the enormous shortage in those cannot be made good merely by eating oysters, and rabbits, and spinach, and peanuts. This use of perishable or non-exportable foods is, of course, extremely desirable, but it cannot alone let us beat by another six million tons of foodstuffs the record of eleven million tons shipped during the last twelve months. There is only one way to avert the shame of seeing civilian greed dim the lustre of military prowess, and that is for every man, woman, and child, in the United States to get voluntarily on a real war footing—get into the fight just as the people of every other Allied nation have had to do—and then when history starts handing round the medals for this war there will be a well-merited one for the rank-and-file of American democracy for standing together as no nation in the annals of time has done.

TO SAVE SUGAR.

Use fresh fruits without sugar.

Cook dried fruits without additional sugar; they already contain sugar.

Can more fruit without sugar; put up fewer jams and jellies.

Use less sugar in tea and coffee; you will soon learn to like it better.

Avoid such sugar luxuries as candy, cakes, chewing gum, sweet drinks and sodas.

Use honey, maple sugar and syrups and other sweeteners when available.

Cut out all desserts or other dishes that require much sugar.

DELIVERANCE.

Here is an Associated Press dispatch which shows what the coming of the Sammies has meant to the people of France.

The villagers in Vaux-Andigny knew that the Americans were in the war but did not know they were fighting. All of them rushed to meet the troops when the Americans entered, the people thinking the men were British. The Americans were kissed again and again, the more emotional of the villagers also kissing the soldiers' rifles and bayonets which had delivered them from their oppressors.

The villagers offered the soldiers tea and when the latter produced the sugar for it the people all cried:

"Why, you must be Americans!"

Then there was another outburst of enthusiasm.

TO SAVE MEAT.

A serving of meat or poultry once a day is enough.

No family of five should buy any meat until it has bought three quarts of milk.

Use all leftovers. Make soups.

Remember there are parts like livers, hearts, tripe, sweetbreads and brains which should be used.

Make a little meat go a long way. "Extend" its flavor. Other things such as vegetables (especially potatoes) can be combined with meat.

Heavy beef—from animals weighing over 476 pounds dressed—is "soldier beef." Ask your butcher for beef from light animals also cow beef. It is just as good and should cost less.

PEACH STONES AS PASSES.

In order to stimulate the American Red Cross Campaign for the collection of peach stones and nut shells for gas mask making for the Army, the proprietor of a moving picture theatre at Spokane, Washington, announced that a free admission ticket would be given any person who brought one pound of clean peach stones to the box office.

As a result of this experiment, more than fifteen hundred pounds of good clean peach stones were delivered to the theatre within the first two days, with indications that many more "special tickets" would have to be honored.

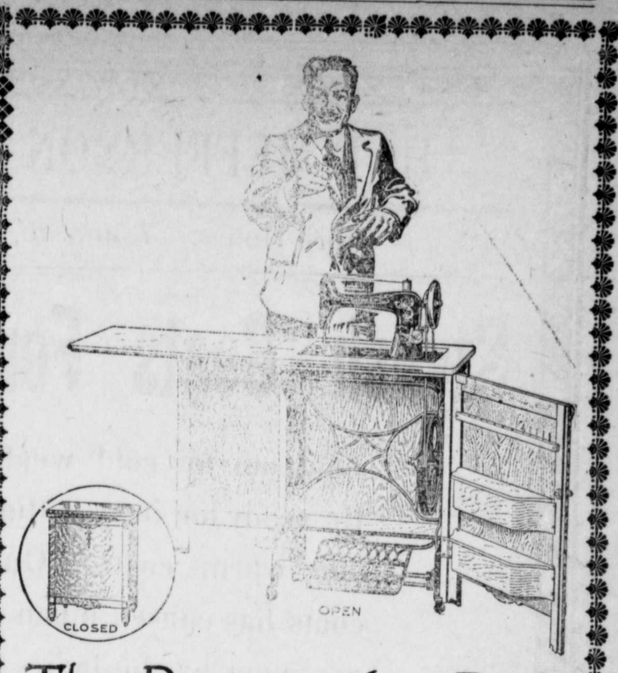

The 1918-19 Food Program is both a National and a Personal Obligation. The Nation has never failed to meet all obligations and the individual must not.

After the war Europe will continue to look to America for help; there will be no crops raised over-night.
