UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES

A letter from Sergeant Colin F. Duyer to his parents dated Oct. 3, predicted the war would be over in five weeks. The prediction came true almost to the day.

A letter was received last week by William D. Wallace, of Church Hill, from his son, Fred Wallace, who is with the Aviation Corps, and now located in England. Mr. Wallace was at Birmingham, England, at the time the letter was written, and states that he had been there to play ball. He said when the game was over, as they were leaving the field, papers were handed them that contained accounts of a part of the game.

The following letter was received from Mr. Olin B. Stafford by his mother recently:

NEAR THE FRONT,
October 12, 1918.

Dear Mother And All:

Just a few minutes to reply to your letter received on the 9th. I am well and in good health, but perhaps a bit sorry, as one of our headquarters Ambulance Sergeants was killed by a German sniper last evening. There is only fourteen of us in the H. Q. and one of them gone now. He was out to the front and voluntered to go out after a wounded man that had fallen on the field and was picked by a rotten German. I was out to the front on the 10th, but have not had a chance to go out again, and when I was out there believe me there was plenty of fighting and war at its full swing. The Germans have been sending over a few shells at us since last evening, and one blew out the window of the office. One of the other boys was cut by flying glass. It was very funny after it was all over as we all ducked into the cave and got our nerve together and then laughed it off.

I think I told you that I had saw Harry Hadaway the other day. My, he looks fine and healthy, but did not get to see any of the boys from Camp Meade, as I was near them for a few days.

I will send you a few souvenirs very shortly. All the boys are loaded with them, and it is a great hobby with the American boys to get souvenirs.

The Baltimore papers of recent dates have contained the following as missing in action: Robert Bowers, Millington; Herbert H. Bowers, Millington; L. P. Jester, Sudlersville; H. K. Heller, of Chestertown; W. S. Campbell, formerly of W. C.

Private Spencer Smith, who is in France, recently wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, near Lankford, that he recently had a knapsack shot off his back, but escaped unhurt.

Privates Hibert Kendall and Lloyd Adley, of the Fifth Dist., were recently gassed, but are recuperating.

Thanksgiving Dinners

To Home Conservation Workers:

Thanksgiving Day, 1918, will be the greatest in all history. This year the month of November, set aside as of old for rejoicing and thanksgiving, is memorable for events of victory and peace.

The celebration should be made appropriate by patriotic means, indicative of thrift and Americanism. A conservation program awaits on the American Thansgiving dinner. Let no one think that the end of the war will free us from the need of conservation. The call of more hungry persons than ever comes from over seas. We can do large service in the month of November if we will urge our housewives to prepare a simple but substantial home grown Thanksgiving meal. The family will be thankful for simple fare, using local products for which our transportation facilities have not been taxed. Turkey? Yes, and chicken too, instead of beef and pork needed for export; plenty of gravy to save butter for shipment; oysters in their native states; wild rabbits for those who are fortunate enough to have them; pies with one crust and filled deep with fruit and vegetables; cranberries sweetened with honey or syrup; turnips, squash or onions in place of vegetables out of season; sugarless confections; native nuts for desserts.

In short, use local perishable products to save transportation. The following menu, which may be prepared the day before, is for a family desiring simplicity. Syrups may be used for sweetening the pudding. Salad course may be omitted. Use celery leaves for platter garnish. The last course may be the centerpiece choice of turkey, chicken, game or rabbit.

Rice and celery dressing, gravy, potatoes (roasted with the meat), squash baked in shell, scalloped tomatoes, scalloped corn, lettuce with French dressing, steamed pudding; pop-corn confection, local nuts, red apples.

Very sincerely yours,
United States Food Administration,
Martha Van Rensselaer.
WOMAN'S DEFENSE COUNCIL.

Germany's Great Debt.—Germany has 66,000,000 population, and $80,000,000,000 of estimated wealth, to pay $35,000,000,000 of war debt already created. The United States has 110,000,000 papulation, and an estimated national wealth of $250,000,000,000 to pay nearly $18,000,000,000 war debt already created, or approximately $23,000,000,000 within another six months. This means the per capita burden will be at least three times greater in Germany than in America.
