LOCAL MATTERS

Grange Notes.—The Kennedyville Grange has resumed its weekly meetings. It is hoped that the membership will attend in full that the meetings may be made both interesting and profitable. On Monday, Dec. 9, the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. A full vote is desired. —Miss Emma C. Shafer, Press Correspondent.

New Stamp To Appear Soon.—The 13-cent stamp mentioned some months ago has been approved and will appear soon. The color of the new stamp will be light green, with Franklin's portrait, and for the first time in our country's history, there will be a stamp for every number from one to thirteen all in use at the same time. The new stamp meets the 3-cent postal rate plus the charge for a special delivery or a registered letter.

A Neat Contrivance.—Arthur Harding, son of Jonas Harding and wife, colored, of Chestertown, has built a weather vane in the shape of an airplane. The boy is a cripple, having no use of his legs. He saw the airplanes that visited Chestertown a few weeks ago and got his idea from them. The weather vane is a neat contrivance about two feet long and registers the winds accurately. The boy lost use of his legs when quite young and has been nearly helpless since. He is a very skilful workman, however, and does neat work with tools.

Steeplejack Killed.—King W. Agnew, of Baltimore, was instantly killed on Tuesday when he fell 100 feet while painting the smoke stack of the W. W. Boyer Can Co., in that city. His neck and skull were broken. He was pronounced dead at St. Joseph's Hospital. Agnew is known in Chestertown because a few weeks ago he painted the cross on the top of the Chestertown M. E. Church and did other repair work. He was well-known for his daring performances and on several occasions he volunteered to paint steeples and flag poles which others would not venture to work on. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

Married Fifty Years.—Mrs. Charlotte Willis Hayes of Wilmington was given a surprise by her seven children Monday, the occasion being her fiftieth wedding anniversary. The affair proved an unusually delightful one and while Mrs. Hayes knew that some of her children would be home to honor the occasion it was a great surprise to her when all seven and also her seven grandchildren arrived, in addition to her sister, brother and several of her nephews and nieces. Another surprise was the presentation to her by her children of $50 in gold. A turkey dinner was served at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Hayes is a native of Kent county, but has lived in Wilmington for about 20 years. Her husband, Owen Hayes, died about nine years ago. For nearly thirty years he was in the merchandise business at Locust Grove. Several Kent county people were present.

—Let us pause a few minutes to survey with saddened hearts the famous military "experts" who were sure the war would not be over till 1920! And some of us laymen thought it would not be over until later than the above year.

—Mr. R. C. Williams, one of Queen Anne's progressive truckers, had tomatoes and strawberries for dinner one day last week. Mr. Williams has the everbearing variety of strawberries and knows how to handle them to get results.

—All the rules, etc., issued during the war restricting building activities, and especially those contained in Circular No. 21, revised Oct. 15, 1918, and amended by Section First of Circular No. 57, issued Nov. 11, 1918, have been revoked.

—Europe needs 20,000,000 tons of food and most of it must come from this country. We should, therefore, maintain the same strict economy in the food line that has characterized the actions of the American people in this line during the past two years.

—A remedy has been discovered in Athens, Greece, it is said, for influenza. It was discovered in Athens hospitals that mercury was extremely efficacious in influenza cases. Mercurial treatment tried on pneumonic influenza has been attended with splendid results.

—The board bill, together with the material destroyed by rats, yearly amounts to approximately $30 on the average farm. There is no bag limit on rats, and it behooves the farmers and all others confronted with the high prices of grain to get the rats killed on their premises.

Mrs. Muller's truck was badly damaged on the state road in Queen Annes on Monday when the driver lost control of it. The car was ran into the ditch at the roadside and upset, but no one was hurt. Mr. Odie Cannon brought the damaged truck to Chestertown for repairs.

—Mr. G. W. Keeler had one of the largest white corn crops in this section of the state. Some of the ears weighed two pounds each. Mr. Keeler raised this immence crop in spite of the fact that a drouth prevailed at the time which made the corn crop a much smaller one than if the weather conditions had been more ideal.

—The Chestertown Lodge of Moose was most highly honored last evening by a visit from the Supreme Lecturer, Mr. W. T. Giles. This was an unusual and rare treat. Mr. Giles is a native Eastern Shoreman, and has worked himself up to the highest position in the Supreme Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose. A large crowd heard him at the Moose home.

The Game Law In Kent

We have had numerous inquiries regarding the game law in force in this county and for the benefit of the ones interested we publish below a part of it, which covers the whole law:

Under the State-wide Game Law before a person can hunt, pursue and kill birds and animals in the open seasons he must obtain a license from the Clerk of the Court, except in the cases of persons owning farms, tenants and their children. No one below 14 years of age can obtain a license, except upon the written request of parent or guardian. The law says that all persons must carry their licenses to be accompanied by a written permission of the tenants or owners to gun on their lands.

Woman's Defense Council

On Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock Mr. Frederick O'Brien, late Food Administrator of California, now working with Mr. Hoover in Washington, will speak at the Eastern Shore Inn.

Saving food is the most important part of the Defense Council work at present. All members of the Defense Council, the Red Cross and all branches of War Work, are cordially invited to attend this meeting and bring their friends.

Mr. O'Brien has a message to bring us; he has traveled in all parts of the world and knows conditions thoroughly. Ladies and gentlemen are invited, both from the town and county. Tea will be served.

WOMAN'S DEFENSE COUNCIL
Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, Chairman.
