Musical Moments

By ADAH K. JENKINS

In his 23 years as conductor of the Baltimore Park Band, Charles E. Gwynn Sr. concluded the annual Sunday series of outdoor concerts with a double presentation on the Mansion House lawn at Druid Hill Park.

The concert, which was open to the public without charge was held from 2:30 p.m., attracted a warmly appreciative audience.

As principal soloist at his alma mater, Hampton Institute, and member of the Elks and Maryland State Guard bands, as well as organizer and director of the Baltimore Post Office Band, Mr. Gwynn is experienced in planning programs that appeal to the various age levels who enjoy the summer music.

The audience applauded the Gwynn's Swinging Twenty in two appearances that included "Tribute to Basie" and "Business in B Flat."

Foot-tapping marches and stirring overtures completed an enjoyable afternoon that also included solos by Foy McCoy, David Parham and Harry Ford, trumpeters; Charles Strother, tenor saxophonist; Weldon Irvine, clarinetist; David Parham, trombonist; Sharette Kern, flutist; Charles Kemp, baritone horn and John Hamacker, drums and bells.

Featured solos by members of the band were "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" by Donald Brink, trombonist and "The Trumpeters' Prayer," by William Stockdale.

Guest soloist of the concert was Mary Fletcher, soprano, heard in "People Will Say We're In Love" and "If He Walked into My Life," both appealingly sung and well received.

The audience participated in the ever popular "Sing Along," led by Matthew Fraling.

Charles Bagley was assistant conductor. He is also first clarinetists.

The summer concerts presented throughout the city by the four municipal bands and a jazz combo were sponsored by the Bureau of Music of the Dept. of Recreation and Parks. Miss Stephanie Sodaro is music and administrative supervisor.

Erroll Garner has completed his first concert tour of South America, followed by a tour of outdoor festival concerts in France and Copenhagen.

Earlier in the season Garner appeared for sold out houses in Berlin, Hamburg, Zurich, Lausanne, Toulouse and Paris.

Helinski supports 24 hr. Public Defense system

AWARD BRINGS A SMILE — Mrs. Ethel B. Handy smiles as she accepts the Department of the Army certificate commending her for her meritorious performance of duty while serving as administrative technician in the office of the Inspector General from January, 1968 through June, 1970.

A round-the-clock Public Defender system for Baltimore was proposed today by George J. Helinski, candidate for State's Attorney.

He said he supports the establishment of a Public Defender system to comply with U.S. Supreme Court rulings regarding rights of defendants in preliminary hearings.

"I would take the idea one step farther," he said, "and make sure that a Public Defender was on duty 24 hours a day."

"Very often, a police officer will make an arrest in the early morning hours. The suspect will want to make a confession.

"But the police are prohibited from accepting it, under the Miranda decision of the Supreme Court, until the suspect has waived his rights to a lawyer."

"If a suspect has no money, it is up to the authorities to obtain defense counsel for him. At 3 a.m., it is very difficult to get a volunteer defense lawyer to come down to the stationhouse and advise a suspect of his rights.

"So what happens? The confession is postponed until morning. By that time, the suspect often has second thoughts, and decides not to make any admissions. The result, sometimes, is a case lost."

"By having a Public Defender on duty 24 hours a day, this occurrence would be avoided.

"In addition, it would save money by eliminating the necessity of keeping police officers overtime into the next shift."

A recent Supreme Court decision said indigent defendants must be represented by defense counsel at preliminary hearings.

To comply, Maryland has obtained funds from the federal government through the Law Enforcement Assistance Act to hire public defenders through January 1.

At that time, the January session of the General Assembly will be asked to appropriate funds for public defenders.

Mr. Helinski, who was Deputy State's Attorney for six years, is running for the office on a 18-point platform, the chief plank of which is to go after big-time dope peddlers in Baltimore.

youth are shown under the direction of Mrs. Esther McAllston of the Freedom House Neighborhood Council, front row second from left as they prepared for their daily bus trip to Camp Concern at the Bainbridge Naval Training Station in Harford County. Camp Concern, a program of the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation for disadvantaged inner city children is in its third year of operation under Captain James Smith. The Freedom House Neighborhood Council supported the program by rounding up neighborhood children, securing their parents consent, and sending a neighborhood adult leader to accompany the bus which the city provided. Freedom House is located at 1234 Druid Hill Ave. Dr. Lillie M. Jackson is founder of Freedom House, Mrs. Betty Graves, secretary, Rev. Walter Hillderand, Treasurer, Mrs. Louis Williams, Youth Director, and Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, Counsel.

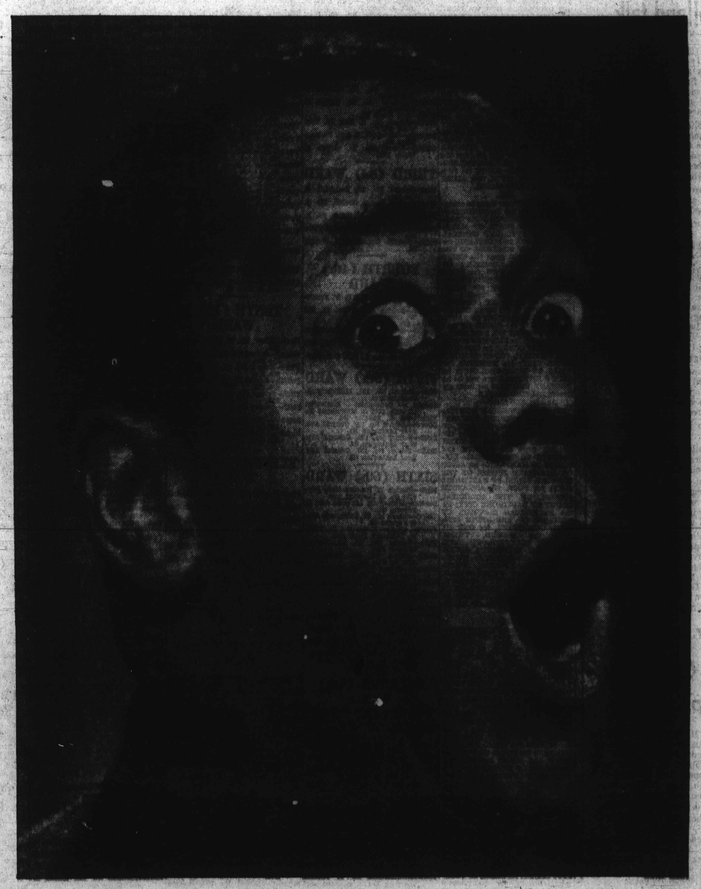
PALL MALL - so friendly to your taste



This fall, Flip Wilson will be running his own weekly comedy hour on the NBC Television Network.

The decision to make Flip an important part of NBC's prime-time schedule was designed to appeal to a very special group — those 200 million Americans who love to break up laughing.

So now Flip joins Bill Cosby, Diahann Carroll, Johnny Brown and the other black stars who make it every week on NBC.

NBC'S Record: The "Flip" Side

Not to mention Dean Martin, Bob Hope, Johnny Carson, Rowan and Martin and a lot more. Put the whole package together and you've got what it takes to make NBC's new television season the very best one we've ever presented.

We hope you'll catch it all. And in particular that you'll try flipping your dial to "The Flip Wilson Show" every Thursday night. Flip's going to be very big — in color and black-and-white.
