H. SACHS & SON

Fall Season 1918-19 is very much in evidence at our store

New and up-to-date merchandise is coming in every day, and when complete we will have one of the best selections of LADIES', MEN'S and CHILDREN'S goods, than ever before, consisting of the following lines, namely:

Ladies' Department.

SUITS, COATS, DRESSES, FURS, MILLINERY, SWEATERS, SKIRTS, WAISTS, ETC.

Men's Department.

SUITS, OVERCOATS, PANTS, HATS, SWEATERS, FURNISHINGS, ETC.

Children's Department

WE CAN CLOTHE YOUR SCHOOL BOY OR GIRL COMPLETE.

DRESSES, HATS, SWEATERS, FURNISHINGS, BOYS' SUITS, MACKINAWS, PANTS, CAPS, BLOUSES and SHIRTS.

No doubt you have heard everywhere of the tremendous advance in prices of all classes of merchandise; you will find it quite different here.

We are selling our goods this season at the same low prices as heretofore, and if any advance, it is so little as not to be noticeable to any extent. This is due to the fact that we made all our purchases early in the season before the goods advanced. As most of our goods are in, we invite you to come in now and make an early selection, we have just what you are looking for.

The Planting

Who plants a tree may live
To see its leaves unfold,
The greenness of its summer garb,
The autumn tinge of gold.

Who sows the seed may find
The field of harvest fair,
The song of reapers ringing clear,
When all the sheaves are there.

But time will fell the tree,
The rose will fade and die,
The harvest time will pass away,
As does the song and sigh.

But whoso plants in love,
The world of hope and trust,
Shall find it still alive with God—
It is not made of dust.

It cannot fade or change,
Though worlds may shattered be,
For love alone has high repose
In immortality.

MARSHALL FOCH

A Brief Hisotry Of The Greatest Soldier Of The Age

Ferdinand Foch, now Marshal of France and Allied Commander-in-chief, is the son of an obscure French administrator and was born August 4, 1851, in the small city of Tarbes in the Pyrenees in the south of France.

The Franco-Prussian disasters for France at Metz and Sedan in 1871 happened just a few months too early in his life for him to participate in them, but military impressions were constantly before him in his school days—even when he was, for a time, under churchly, clerical teachers and formed those strictly religious habits which have since distinguished him.

He always showed marked talent for the exact studies, such as Mathematics and logic.

He became a Captain in the French Army in 1878 and entered the Ecole de Guerre (French College of War) where he later was an instructor and finally became a professor, and where he actually taught many of the student army officers who have since served under him so brilliantly.

In 1908 he became a Brigadier-General and after several other promotions, July 1914, when the Great War broke out, found him actually at the post which was regarded as the Post of Honor in the French Army, namely Commander of the 20th Corps stationed at the city of Nancy.

The records show that both as a professor and as a soldier Marshal Foch has always laid great stress on the higher education and training of officers who are to command. He has also steadily maintained both in the college and on the field that for any army to gain victories it must absolutely have good commanders and it must have the fullest confidence in those commanders.

Marshal Foch is that rare combination of an offensive and a defensive fighter, equally skilled in both capacities. He is also a skillful calculator and analyst, willing at times to take a chance, after a full anlysis of the conditions, but never reckless.

At the First Battle of the Marne in 1914 his keen perception of the situation and his own initiative contributed largely to the success of the French. It was during the height of the desperate fighting then, when the army under Foch was practically the central or pivotal one in the line protecting Paris, that he sent his famous message to Joffre: "My center yields. My right falls back. Situation excellent. I attack."

As a professor and as a soldier Marshal Foch has always been a deep student of psychology. He has no regard, however for the Kaiser's famous phrase, "The Will to Conquer," because he believes that unless it be just and right this Will cannot be finally imposed. He believes that a good cause is more than half of the battle, and that the smallest private in the ranks should be instructed and made to see the rightfulness of what he is fighting for and that every army unit should be so imbued with this spirit that it will fight as if the success of the entire battle depended on its action alone.

A part of Marshal Foch's idea as to the essential attitude of mind of the soldier is embodied in his widely quoted statement that: "A battle is never materially lost so long as you have faith in victory."

GIVEN BIG RECEPTION

President Wilson Accorded Highest Honors In France

President Wilson entered Paris on Saturday amid the boom of a hundred guns in salute and a greeting at the railway station and along the route to his temporary residence by enthusiastic throngs estimated to total nearly 2,000,000 persons, whose cheers set the air vibrating.

President Poincare, Premier Clemenceau and other French officials met the Presidential party at the railway station, together with French and American military officers and prominent civilians, while the Republican Guard band, called out in his honor, greet him with the strains of the Star Spangled Banner.

President Wilson's appearance on the broad-carpeted and palm-bordered approach to the station through glittering lines of sabres caused the vast throng to cheer and shout. Their efforts were taken up by such masses of people as the French capital rarely has seen in its history.

After the presentations and other formalities of welcome had been concluded, the President and Mrs. Wilson and the other members of the party entered open carriages of state and drove under overcast skies along the appointed route, escorted by the mounted Republican Guard between solid ranks of French troops.

The entire week has been devoted to fitting tributes to President Wilson by the grateful French people for the services of the United States in their hour of need.

Theatened To Burn Centreville.—Two anonymous letters have been received during the last few days by R. Bascomb Eaton, of Centreville, stating that certain negroes have banded together to burn down Centreville. The letters have been turned over to the authorities and it has been found that a white person is at the bottom of the whole affair. An arrest may be made at any time.

—While there is no more beer or whiskey being made in the United States, there is said to be enough of the latter on hand to last until about the first of June, while no more whiskey can be sold after July next. It is doubtful if either will ever be made again in this country.

—Frank Baker claims to be through with baseball and will remain at his home in Trappe this year, although several baseball managers have made him big inducements to sign up for this year. Frank Baker is a relative of Mr. B. F. Rust, of Chestertown.

CARGO OF SUPPLIES GOES TO ARCHANGEL

Red Cross Sends Relief Ships for Allied Soldiers and Civilians in Starving Russia.

A relief ship was recently sent from this country to Archangel by the American Red Cross with 4,600 tons of drugs, food, soap and other supplies for the use of the Allied soldiers and needy civilians in that part of Russia. The vessel's cargo was valued at $1,511,233.

Later, another ship was dispatched carrying 200 tons of similar supplies furnished by the American Red Cross, the total expenditure for the two shipments amounting to over $2,000,000.

Major C. T. Williams of Baltimore was in charge of the party of thirteen which accompanied the shipment from this country. He was formerly a member of the Red Cross Commission for Roumania. Major Kirkpatrick, at one time a member of the latter commission, but recently attached to the Army Medical Corps, heads the medical end of the Archangel expendition. Drugs and general hospital supplies constituted the greater part of the cargo sent from America.

While the chief concern of the expedition was providing comforts for American and Allied fighting men in that part of the world, all efforts were bent to get relief to the Russian soldiers who were returned from German prison camps at the rate of about 15,000 a week. The condition of these men was pitiable. It has been estimated that 90 per cent. of them were tubercular.

In addition to drugs and food, almost every imaginable article on the list of supplies sent over was for the comfort, convenience and pleasure of the Allied soldiers. Just a few of these articles were playing cards, razor blades, jewsharps, mandolins, accordeons, ukaleles, phonographs, cameras, skates, wigs, whiskers, grease paints, footballs, snowshoes, slippers, hockey outfits, indoor baseballs, moving picture outfits, Bibles, prayer books, boxing gloves, games, music, books, cigarettes, candy and dried fruits.

The need of prompt relief for the inhabitants of towns along the coast of the White Sea and on the Kola peninsula, many of whom were facing starvation, was found to be imperative. Scurvy had broken out among the people at these places, adding to the general distress.

The towns to which the relief expendition was sent are virtually isolated from the outside world because of the treacherous coast line, shifting sand bars and uncharted waters. An exceptionally early frost, even for that part of the world, ruined the harvests, which were expected to improve conditions. Statements, printed in Russian, explaining the work of the Red Cross, were distributed among the inhabitants.

TRIBUTES FROM SECRETARY BAKER

Following a tour of South England, Secretary of War Baker made this comment on the work done by the American Red Cross for our boys:

"These are the things which count. The American Red Cross is to be congratulated on the way in which it is looking after our boys. It is doing fine work."

Following his return from France, Secretary Baker wrote this note to the American Red Cross in London:

"I left London so shortly after my drive to Winchester that I had no early opportunity to thank you for the courtesy of the touring car which you placed at my disposal for the trip. On this trip to Europe I have received fresh and noteworthy evidence of the astonishing efficiency of the American Red Cross operations in France and England. I have been delighted to see how much the American Red Cross has done to weld hearts of the allied people together."

Replacing the Orchards.

The American Red Cross has given $10,000 to assist in the replanting of trees in the orchards laid bare by the Germans. With this sum 40,000 fruit trees will be replaced in the devastated orchards of Belgium and northern France.

Enoch Latham, shoemaker, High St., says: "Whenever I caught cold, it seemed to settle on my kidneys and I suffered untold pain. When I straightened up it seemed as though I were stabbed. My kidneys acted too frequently and I had to get up several times at night to pass the secretions. I had dizzy spells and on different occasions my eyes gave me trouble; a mist seemed before them. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. I purchased them from M. A. Toulson's Drug Store and they gave me great relief."

Mr. Latham is only one of the many Chestertown people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Latham had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60 cents at all stores.
