INDUSTRY-EDUCATION PROGRAM launching at a luncheon last week sponsored by McCormick and Company Inc. witnessed as guests school and McCormick officials and pupils of Lee Junior High No. 72 among whom were (left to right) Howard Marshall, assistant director of Human Relations; Mrs. Laureen Ritter of School 72, Robert Young, Lisa Flanigan, Keith Bailey, Archie Lee Donald White, Howard Cooper, Delores Davis, Deborah Crews, James Sydnor and (sitting) Sarah Chisholm.

School 72 has in-plant training at McCormick spice company here

The McCormick — General Henry Lee Junior High School Industry Education Program was launched Monday for the school year 1970-71 at a luncheon held at McCormick and Company, Inc.

Among guests were Dr. Thomas D. Sheldon, Superintendent of Public Institution, Baltimore City Public Schools, and Louis Bed representing Robert L. Karwacki, President, Board of School Commissioners.

Culminating a year and a half of intensive preparation and evaluation, study programs were developed by School No. 72 in cooperation with the spice firm. This pilot program pioneers a new concept of education utilizing in plant training with the application of prelearned techniques and study habits at the Junior High School.

The 22-section program for classes at the General Henry Lee Junior High School is outlined in learning package brochures written by Mrs. Laureen Ritter, Mrs. Carolyn Knox, Mrs. Beverly Crisp and other teachers of School No. 72.

These brochures were presented at the luncheon to the prsident of McCormick and Company, Inc., Harry K. Wells; and John C. Doub, General Manager of the McCormick Division.

Dr. Sidney Blum, principal of School No. 72, coordinated the details and preparation of the program with Howard Marshall, program director at McCormick.

Among those attending the inauguration luncheon were Edward Biller, Supervisor of Social Studies; and the following students from School No. 72: Robert Young, Archie Lee, Keith Bailey; Delores David, Lisa Bailey, Delores David, Lisa Flanigan, James Sydnor, Sarah Chisholm, Deborah Crews, Donald White, Howard Cooper, Parents of the children participating also were present.

From McCormick were T. Carter Parkinson and E. Clayton Shelhoss, Executive Vice Presidents; K. Brantley Watson, Director of Human Relations; Robert B. McFadden, Director of Human Relations Services; and J. Fred Ogburn, Director of Human Relations of the McCormick Division.

Economy meals for good eating

A medley of processed fruits, now in plentiful supply, will be among the good buys at the food stores in the weeks ahead.

Look for features on canned fruit cocktail, canned applesauce and apple juice. For the economy-minded menu planner, it will be an opportunity to stock up the pantry for more thrifty meals in the weeks ahead.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, stocks of canned fruit cocktail have been running record high. A large pack of canned applesauce and apple juice is also indicated because of the bumper apple crop this year plus supplies from the huge production of last year.

• • •

These convenient, ready-to-eat fruit products can be a boon to the busy homemaker in any meal of the day. Serve fruit cocktail for a tasty appetizer or dessert, or even with the breakfast dry cereal. Applesauce can be a side dish or dessert, or an ingredient in cakes, pastries, even in meat loaf, baked beans, and curries.

Apple juice makes a cool refreshing drink or a comforting hot spicy drink. Serve as is or enhanced with mint, cinnamon, nutmeg or other punch ingredients.

Here's a menu for a day's good eating using foods that are plentiful and reasonably priced:

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Oatmeal
Cinnamon Toast
Milk
Coffee or Tea

LUNCH
Split Pea Soup
Tuna Salad Sandwich
Fruit Cocktail
Milk

DINNER
Barbecued riblets of lamb
Baked potato
Tossed Salad
Applesauce chiffon pie
Milk
Coffee or Tea

This recipe for Applesauce Chiffon Pie is for the dessert for the dinner meal:

You will need one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, three eggs, separted, one and one half cups applesauce, one-eighth teaspoon ginger, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup milk.

Also one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, nine-inch baked pastry shell, or graham cracker shell, and nutmeg if desired.

Sprinkle gelatin on water; soak a few minutes. Beat egg yolks slightly, and add the applesauce, ginger, cinnamon, milk, lemon juice and rind, and half the sugar. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, 20 to 25 minutes. Add gelatin to the hot mixture; stir until dissolved. Cool until thick but not set.

Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff. Add rest of sugar slowly beating constantly. Blend with the thickened gelatin mixture. Pour into the shell and sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired. Chill until firm.

Hints Household

A dryer can't read your mind. You must decide about load size. If you put in too large a load, it will crowd the dryer drum and clothes will come out wrinkled. Clothes need room in the dryer to tumble freely and fluff out.

• • •

Dental floss is ideal for sewing on buttons. It's stronger and will last longer than thread.

• • •

To protect the colors always turn colored printed dressed wrong side out when drying in the sun.

• • •

Never store your vaccum cleaner near a furnace or radiator. The heat can damage it.

• • •

If you launder blankets, bedspreads, curtains and other large pieces in your bathtub, use an old-fashioned plumber's plunger to force suds and rinse water through the fabric. This produces suction that simulates the agitation of washing machines.

• • •

Cast-iron gas range burners need to be removed occasionally for a thorough wash-up. Clean the hollow fuel tube with a bottle brush, and use a pipe cleaner to scrape out the small holes. Then wash in hot soap or detergent suds, rinse, wipe off and place in a warm oven to dry completely.
