Life's Greatest Miracle

I've seen the sun at morning break
The sable canopy of night,
I've seen the hills and fields awake
To beauty with the coming light.
I've seen the power of God, divine,
In ways mysterious and strange.
And now upon life's battle line
I've seen the souls of mortals change.

I've marveled at the birth of spring
To see the orchards come to bloom.
How glorious the blossoming
That follows after winter's gloom!
The miracles of life abound,
Beyond the grasp of human ken,
Out of the cold and barren ground
I've seen the roses grow again.

Now I have seen the soul awake,
And looked upon a glorious youth
That once had lived for pleasure's sake
Go forth to battle for the truth.
I've seen the light of fire divine
In eyes that once were dull and cold.
Oh, privilege superbly fine!
I've seen the souls of men unfold.

I've seen men spurn the easier way
To tread the rugged heights of pain.
I've seen them turn from gods of clay
To worship one that shall remain.
I've seen them march from pleasure's ways
To answer when the helpless cry,
And in these dark and troubled days,
For liberty I've seen them die.

UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES

The following is a letter, in part, from Private Frank Lambert, Jr., to Postmaster T. D. Bowers:

You can see by this time just what Uncle Sam's men did to Germany. Some of the German prisoners said that if the others knew how we treated them that they would all have given themselves up long ago, but they had been led to believe that we killed them. They also said that they would also have given themselves up, but our artillery was heating them so hot that they could not give up, and their own artillery would not let them go back—so there you are.

This war certainly has been the worst ever known, and no one knows anything about it at all only the ones that have been on the front and have been in the same. We have been on the front since September 13, being on same from that time until the guns ceased firing on the 11th hour, 11th day of the 11th month of the year.

I have been in some very close corners and thought at times that my time had come, but thank God that he must have been looking after me in this terrible war.

Where some of the large shells bursted the holes are as large as 20 feet across and 6 feet deep.

Some of the many towns that have been shelled are so bad that there is only corners of some of the buildings standing.

I will be able to tell you a great story when I return.

We are only waiting for the day to come when we will return. It may be a month, it may be six—we can't tell.

Letters from Sergeant Colin F. Duyer indicate that both himself and those in his company will be home in January or February.

Ensign Lester W. Baldwin has been spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Baldwin.

Lieut. Charles G. Hines, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was in Chestertown last week looking well.

The casualty list recently contained the name of Sergeant George M. Biddle, of Crumpton, as having been wounded in action. He was shot in the right hand.

In our moment of rejoicing for the boys who will return to their homes and loved ones, let us cast a look toward Him who holds the souls of the fallen, who will not return, and whose glittering valor rests alone on the arm of his mother, his father, his sister or his brother, in the form of a golden star.

Perhaps the highest former football star in the service is Maj. Gen. Peyton Conway March, Chief of Staff. Back in the eighties General March was the star fullback of the Lafayette eleven.

Many complaints of wounded or discharged soldiers being over long in receiving pay have been heard. We believe these will all be settled as soon as possible.

All the stores must close at 5 o'clock except drug stores.
