WHEN YOU FINISH READING YOUR AFRO PASS IT ALONG TO A FRIEND

On The Town

WITH THE PUB CRAWLERS

Hey there, gaylifers! Things are looking up.

Oh yeah, like you Crawlers are gassed no end to see Ole Man chicken out, and make way for friendly and soothing King Sol.

The weather man sez, and frankly we hardly know how to believe him, springlike weather will hold forth for a while.

This, of course, is good news for club operators, who have been taking a lacing as per usual.

NORTH END — When you make it here, tell Floyd Bartz and gang that you want to run up a $64 check before you make with the loot. It's guaranteed to get you thrown out on your front page editorial.

Other houses are lining up various projects for the coming of sweet spring. But the old devil clock and deadlines prevented us from getting a rundown.

Such listing will follow in subsequent sevens, but in the meantime, drop by these spots and you'll be ahead of even the Crawlers.

Chick's, Phil's, Red Fox, Vilma, Lucky Number, the Rally Club, Knotty Pine, Wagon Wheel, Jones Cocktail Lounge, and while you are about it, spit to the suburbs and you'll find that Dotson's and Adams Cocktail Lounge still the paradise of gay times.

Until later, swing easy.

How Cutty Sark got its name

The ancient "Berry's Coffee Mill" still stands at No. 3 James Street in London, England. Over 300 years have passed since its romantic, dimly — lighted rooms were opened by the forerunners of the present Berry Bros. and Rudd, Ltd.

The fine spirits that have been enjoyed there by such famous personages as Beau Brummel, Napoleon III, and Lord Byron, were at that time simply called "Berry Bros. Scotch Whisky."

However, one day in the 1870's at a luncheon given at the Old Establishment, it was suggested that this grand whisky be given a more distinctive name, rather than a house name. Many good ones were proposed—some serious, some witty—but one received almost unanimous approval.

THAT VERY DAY, the seasoned Scotch clipper ship, bearing the proud ship and her name.

This shield is still used as the Cutty Sark label today, unchanged except for slight revisions required by the United States Treasury Department.

And, the excellence of this superb whisky remains unchanged as well. A blend of 24 carefully chosen Scotch whiskies, it possesses a delicate flavor and aroma that have always pleased those who appreciate fine quality.

For this race to reach London first was the Kentucky Derby of the shipping world, and the round-the-globe journey was the subject of bets reaching to thousands of pounds.

Little wonder, then, that one of the guests, having won heavily on the outcome proposed that the whisky be called "Cutty Sark," after the swift ship that had beaten the field.

Curiosity helps him

A young man, who admitted that his curiosity got him in trouble with the police, ducked the fate of the proverbial cat, in Criminal Court this week.

In freeing James Ernest, 20, 200 block Dallas Ct., on charges of serving as a "lookout" for Burglars, Judge Joseph L. Carter said:

"Maybe curiosity did kill the cat, so you'd better let your's cool off."

Ernest testified that he followed three other men who burglarized a drugstore in the 2400 block Reisterstown Rd. last December because he "was curious."

Following their arrest, Ernest said he asked a policeman friend if he was wanted by the police.

"I heard they were looking for me," he said, "and I was curious to know why."

ERNEST WAS placed under arrest and later charged by the Detective Bureau as an accomplice in the burglary, he testified.

Denying any knowledge of the crime, Ernest admitted knowing the three men who pleaded guilty to the crime, and said he loaned them a screw driver and crowbar.

Asked why he loaned the tools, Ernest told Julius Rothstein, prosecuting attorney:

"They told me they had a 'joint' and needed them. Since I knew the fellows, I loaned the tools without asking questions."

Supporting Ernest's testimony was his mother, who lives at 2500 block Madison Ave., one of the three pleading guilty.

"He (Ernest) wasn't exactly in it," Cox stated nonchalantly. "He was following behind, I guess," he added.

Asked why did he signed a statement implicating the other man, Cox said:

"You can't pay any attention to what's in that. Them people (police), put down what they want to anyhow."

Mr. Romano asked Cox did he read the statement before signing it. His answer:

"Yes, I read it, but I didn't pay all that stuff any mind. They ask you what they want and answer the questions like they want to," he said lazily as spectators roared with laughter.

For his part in the burglary Cox received two years in the House of Correction. A like sentence went to John H. Hall alias Johnny Bruce.

Sphinx Speaks

The snow Sunday morning had us in the club making cancellations for the Baltimore and Philadelphia Oldtimers' basket ball game. But the gang started pouring in, insisting on going. They wouldn't miss it for anything.

The Philly Oldtimers had a sellout crowd and hosted us beautifully. The game was a thriller. Tied at the end of regulation time, it was decided in Baltimore's favor in a three minutes overtime period, Final score: 34-33.

We carried a capacity bus, food, drinks, singing, jokes and dancing. Bus Johnson, Snow Carroll, Nat Stevenson, Percy Smith, Ronnie, Scottie, and Eggie Henson were some of the players.

Not Allor and Royal Wasto were spectators.

Rap Wheatley was not on hand because his wife, Anna, broke her ankle, sorry to say.

Brother Jim Wheatley of Philly attended the game. He asked about the gang and will be down with Philly-Old Timers for a return game, Sunday, March 12, at the Winchester St. Armory.

The Sphinx Club, the players, the Old Timers and other interested parties have organized to make this occasion a huge success.

Frank Veney, in top shape, says he will play.

We also have to thank the Young Pharaohs of the Sphinx Club for changing the date of their art show and cocktail party, slated at the club March 12. It will be held instead on the 19.

Also thanks to the Bibs for changing their cocktail party from the 19 to 26 to accommodate the Old Timers' affair.

Charley Raison took us to the Fairview Gold Club in Philly, where the gang, led by Will Jones, of Club Pyramid, and "Everyday" Smitty, brought bottles of drinks.

They stay, drank, mixed, crooned and sang "For All We Know." When they left, all were singing "Gonna Raise the Ruckus Tonight."

Sam Johnson, club V. P., and the president treated us swell.

Not Allor started a ripple when he poured too much water on River on the bus. Lee Shipley was in and told me that Ruth Shipley in DC. was ailing. Annabelle Murray ailing in Philly. She is spending a couple days at the hospital. Francis (Ham Gravy) Grey stopped by Sunday and Monday and reports he's feeling lots better.

"Mouse" Dorsey must still be sick, so see! Jessie Toston of the Rendezvous is on the well list. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell and Jess had a swinging party, Wednesday afternoon.

Floyd Barts of Northend, Walter Brown of Uptown dropped in. They are doing a nice job on NNLBA membership. We are planning a gala affair for the coming June.

Alonzo (Tweedy) Rogers, YP, selected as deputy marshal in D.C., Wilbur (Mooch) Johnson, now custodian, Maryland State Penitentiary, Linwood Johnson, from laundry truck to parking lot attendant.

William (Rally Billy) Johnson, ex — bartender, Sphinx Club, was told by Judge Douglass at Western, Tuesday, to return portable TV he's been sporting around, back to his old flame. He had to sneak it from his new girlfriend.

He calls it "breach of promise." I call it "Jesse James rides again." He drunk rammed the back of Bus Johnson's car while he was in the club, Tuesday.
