COLONEL ROOSEVELT DEAD

Noted American Ex-President Succumbs Suddenly At His Home Monday Morning

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who was the 26th President of the United States, passed away while he slept at his home on Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, N. Y., on Monday morning at 4.15. The immediate cause of his death was pulmonary embolism or lodgment in the lung of a clot from a broken vein. Death came to him painlessly. Three physicians had been in attendance upon the Colonel since he was taken to Roosevelt Hospital seven weeks ago to be treated for what was believed to be sciatica. The patient's trouble was later diagnosed as inflammatory rheumatism. This, it is said, effected nearly every joint in his body.

The Colonel suffered a severe attack of rheumatism and sciatica New Year's day. None believed his illness would prove fatal. The former President sat up most of Sunday and retired at 11 o'clock Sunday night, and his condition was not considered serious.

The deceased Ex-President leaves a wife and three sons, Lieut.-Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Captain Kermit Roosevelt and Captain Archie Roosevelt, all three of them seeing active service in the late war. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, and while the services were simple and no eulogies were made, it was nevertheless attended by many of the notable men of the nation who were friends of the Colonel.

The Ex-President, while but 60 years of age, was one of the most active men in the country until within a few weeks of his demise. He has led an active, a useful and a strenuous life, not only in politics, but in literature, travel, study along various lines and affairs that pertained to the nation and to the world. He was President of the United States for seven years, following the death of President McKinley. He was the recognized leader of the Republican party, which organization will be compelled to look far to secure one to replace him, both for intelligence and for vigor. He has been the idol of a large following for a generation.

A brief history of his life is as follows:

Born October 27, 1858.
Entered Harvard 1876.
Graduated and married Miss Alice Hathaway Lee, of Boston, 1880. (She died in 1884.)
Member New York Legislature 1882-1884.
Lived on North Dakota ranch 1884-1886.
Ran for Mayor New York 1886; defeated.
Married Edith Kermit Carrow, of New York, December 2, 1888.
New York Civil Service Commissioner 1889-1895.
President New York City Police Board, 1895-1897.
Assistant Secretary of the Navy, 1897-1898.
Organized with Surgeon (now Major General) Leonard Wood, Rough Riders in Spanish War, 1898. Served as Lieutenant-Colonel of Regiment.
Promoted Colonel for gallantry at Las Guasimas; mustered out September, 1898.
Governor of New York, 1899-1900.
Elected Vice-President of the United States November 4, 1900.
Succeeded to the Presidency on the death of William McKinley, September 14, 1901.
Intervened in Pennsylvania coal strike, causing settlement in October, 1902.
Recognized Panama independence, paving way for construction of canal, November 13, 1903.
Elected President November 8, 1904.
Mediated to end Russo-Japanese War, peace made at Portsmouth, 1905.
Received Nobel Peace Prize, 1906.
Sent American Fleet around world cruise started December 16, 1907, ended February 22, 1909.
1909-1910—Went on African hunt. Toured Europe on return.
Special Ambassador of United States at funeral of King Edward, 1910.
Progressive Party candidate for the Presidency in 1912; defeated.
Shot during campaign speech in Milwaukee, 1912; bullet hit spectacle case.
Visited South America and lectured in various cities, 1913.
Sued Newett, newspaper editor, who had charged him with habits of intoxication; won suit, libelous charge being withdrawn May 31, 1913.
Made exploring trip in Brazil, 1914.
Sued by William Barnes, Republican, for libel; verdict found in his favor May 22, 1915.
Made trip to Trinidad early in 1916.
Nominated by Progressive Party for President, June, 1916; declined, and supported Ex-Judge Hughes vigorously for President against President Wilson.
Offered to raise division for service in France, 1917.

Since that time has been tireless in his efforts to promote Liberty Loans, and promote the war by magazine and newspaper articles, speech-making, etc., and was considered the logical candidate of the Republican party for the presidency in 1920, had his health permitted it.

Died Monday morning, January 6, 1919.

GERMANY SHOULD BE WATCHED

Defeated and Discredited Nation Expects To Split Allies And Thereby Get Easier Terms

Germany hopes to split the Allied countries before the Peace Conference passes its sentence upon them. This defeated and discredited country wishes to obtain at the Peace Conference:

First, supplies of food from the Allied nations.

Second, escape from full payment for the damage she has wrought.

Third, and principally, lack of restriction as to supplies of raw materials and absolute freedom to reenter the world markets as a favored competitor with the nations she attacked.

The public believes, however, that the Allies will not allow themselves to be hoodwinked by the crafty Germans.

Unless they impose upon Germany the terms, which justice dictates, that nation, now defeated, may within a generation, get herself in shape again to wage another war.

Germany hates France; whereas, before the war her feeling for France was outwardly one of disdain.

Germany dislikes Britain—or "England," as the German always puts it.

Germany masks her distaste for this nation by acclaiming America as solely responsible for the German defeat.

Germany, minus the imperial eagle, is still anxious for revenge.

German newspapers are hailing President Wilson as "boss of the world" and sole dictator of the Peace Conference. They hope thus to arouse British jealousy, distrust and animosity toward America.

The propagandists are ignoring France, although they fear that she wishes to seize German territory on the west bank of the Rhine. Their hope is that America will stop this.

But while Germany hopes and expects all these leniencies on the part of the countries which she pillaged and raped, we firmly believe that after the Peace Conference has adjourned she will find her dream of world dominion at a complete end, and she will be compelled for generations to think of hardly anything else other than the paying of the immense indemnity that the Allied nations will have levied upon her.

Horticultural Show Next Week

An unusually large number of people are planning to exhibit fruit at the Peninsula Horticultural Show in Bridgeville on January 14-17. Although some of the largest exhibitors may not have as much fruit as they have had in former years. The total prizes offered for fruit and vegetables will amount to about $2000, prizes well worth the time and cost of making exhibits. Special prizes of pyrox are offered by the Bowker Insecticide Co, 50 lbs as first prize for the best box of apples and 25 lbs. for the second prize for the second best box of apples.

Prizes are offered in order to secure the exhibits but the educational results are the real rewards that come from the exhibition of fine fruit. These rewards come to all who visit the show and examine the fruit and learn how such fine results are accomplished. But the exhibitors themselves get the greatest rewards for their interest is more keenly aroused and they go home determined to do better next time. The profit of fruit growing is in direct proportion to the quality of the fruit produced and the profit of orcharding is the final reward that is desired.
