Low bid $933,500 for Morgan dorm

The Leimbach Construction Company's bid of $933,500 for the reception of a new boys' dormitory was accepted by the Morgan trustee board Thursday.

The Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, which is lending the funds, and the state Department of Public Improvement must also approve the award.

ON THE Eastside

By Charlotte W. Downie

Prettiest birthday party on our Eastside this past week was the one given for small fry Michael Robinson, who was all of 7 years. Michael's mother the late Mrs. Helen Robinson, who passed a few weeks ago, had planned to give him a birthday party before her untimely death.

Several of her long time friends and neighbors got together and followed through with the affair.

The celebration was held at the honoree's home, 2854 E. Federal St. Hostesses included Mesdames Alice Stokes, Barbara Gillis, Janice Jackson and Sarah Baldwin. Also Misses Helen and Sophie Robinson, Michael's two sisters.

HELPING "MIKE" celebrate were Pamela Cook, Brenda Stokes, Rhonda Stokes, Angie Colvin, Lexie Colvin, Laverne Smith and Levette Smith, Beverly Pernel, Renee Crosby, Malissa Cameron, Cookie Cannon, Vesta Jackson;

Also attending were Billy Bleunt, Manuel Tabron, Freddie Jackson, Kenny Jackson, Michael Kelson, Rodney Cook, Gregory Thomas, and Kenny Thomas. Michael McCormick, Vernon Jackson, Benjie Colvin, Melvin Colvin, Kenneth Colvin, Preston Bradford, Phillip Hatton, Melvin and Darrell Robinson.

THE OFFICERS and members of the Commuters Savings Club met recently at the pretty new home of member Mrs. Maggie Logan at 4123 Kathland Ave.

This group of Eastside matrons work hard all during the year to help make our Eastside a better place to live, and are making much progress.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Ada Spencer, president; Mrs. Eliza Mae Ogleby, vice president; Mrs. Mildred Thornton, recording secretary; Mrs. Rebecca Gregory, Mrs. Katie Henderson, treasurer; Mrs. Maggie Hayes, chaplain; Mrs. Maggie Logan, editor, Mrs. Mildred Stamper and Mrs. Rowena Norflect.

NEIGHBORS, watch out for the wonderful neighbors in the 900 block of N. Washington St. They are about to organize under the leadership of one of our most promising young men on the Eastside ... who incidentally does a bang up job also of getting NAACP memberships... and did a grand job with the Register and Vote Campaign a write back ... Tell you more later...

Speaking of new organizations—What about the newly organized E. 22nd St. Neighborhood Club?

The purpose of the club is improvement in the community.

Officers elected at the initial meeting were Mrs. Marlon Robinson, president; Mrs. Ella Walls, vice present; Mrs. Alma Nixon, recording secretry; Mrs. Emma Williams, financial secretary; Mrs. Ophelia Mathis, treasurer, Mrs. Saline Booker, assistant secretary; Sadie Williams, social secretary; Iain, Mrs. Ada Spencer, editor and Mrs. Marion Snowden.

ALL ABOARD for the annual trip of the Royal Moon Beans Social and Savings Club ... The members and their friends are leaving this Saturday night for Coney Island ... Mrs. Viola Jones is the president and Mrs. Marie Smallwood is the business manager ... The buses will leave from 424 E. Lafayette Ave.

Golf club rejects Judge Watts' son

Refusal by the Baltimore Junior Golf Association to accept the son of Municipal Judge Robert B. Watts as a member was brought to light Thursday.

At the same time, the reason given for turning down the youngster proved to be something less than legitimate.

RODNEY WATTS, 17, a senior at Mt. St. Joseph High School, was rejected when he applied for membership in the association early this week. The one-dollar registration fee that had been sent along with his application, was returned to him with a letter of explanation.

The letter, written over the signature of Robert Swindell, "regretted" the action but blamed the refusal on the grounds that "some of the private clubs" where the BJGA tournaments are held, maintain bans on colored participants.

SWINDELL, interviewed at his realty office Thursday afternoon, made the same assertion to the AFRO.

He declared that he visited the Watts residence in person after receiving the membership application, and "explained to him verbally" that there could be no guarantee that he would be permitted to play in the tournaments.

According to Swindell, the association felt it was unfair to ask the city to open its courses to the BJGA year after year, so it decided to change to a rotating system among private clubs. "Some of these clubs," he volunteered, "do not welcome colored guests, and we have no control over this."

YOUNG WATTS had been anxious to enter the Maryland State Junior tournament this weekend at the Suburban Club, consequently the rejection—which automatically blocked his participation — came as a bitter disappointment.

When the boy told his father, Judge Watts, about the incident, the latter called the AFRO to inquire as to the policy at the several private clubs where Swindell and his association promote their meets.

IMMEDIATE CONTACT was made with Ralph Beach, pro at Suburban, and it was determined that no such racial bans exist at the club.

"I don't-know even now," Beach told the AFRO, "that the entry list doesn't include colored boys. I have seen the entries, but they are just names to me. I have no way of identifying any of them according to race, and what is more I have no desire to do so."

SWIDELL'S explanation was further proved unsatisfactory on a check of the list of other private clubs scheduled as host of Baltimore Junior Association events.

It is generally known that Pine Ridge is available to players of all races, since the facilities have been open to tam entries in the Eastern Open in past years, also to colored players using the course as a municipal facility.

THE SAME is true at Forest Park, which is another of the clubs on the BJGA calendar.

Elkridge, Manor and Five Farms (Baltimore CC) are the remaining facilities in the plans of the association. At presstime, no policy based on race had been determined at these clubs. — SAM LACY ventilation of all rooms. Kitchens and bathrooms must be equipped with mechanical ventilations, if there is no such ventilation otherwise.

10. A bathroom must not be used as a passage to another room, a corridor, the basement or to the exterior. And a person must be able to walk to any part of the dwelling unit from any other part, without going through a public hall.

THIS MEANS, according to a BURHA spokesman, than in order to qualify for a FHA FHA loan under the relaxed restrictions, all ten of these conditions must be met by the property in question.

If they, or some of them, do not already exist on the property, they must be written in the rehabilitation agreement along with whatever other repairs are necessary.

The spokesman said officials in the Harlem Park area are now reviewing long-standing FHA loan applications to determine how many can be brought under the ten basic FHA conditions.

To what extent these relaxed restrictions will facilitate FHA loans in urban renewal areas is not yet readily apparent, the spokesman said.

WHILE THE qualifying property owner will still rave to spend at least the same amount of money to rehabilitate his property, the FHA insured loans are expected to make it easier for him to obtain the necessary financing.

Interest rates under these loans are lower, with longer term financing.
