UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES

Lieut. Norman Crouch has arrived in this country and is expected home most any day.

William Dean, colored, who was reported missing, has been found and is reported wounded. He is a son of George Dean, of Chestertown.

Mrs. Mary A. Starr, of Galena, has received a very interesting letter from her son, Corporal William L. Starr, of the 79th Division, in which revelations of the thrilling race across the Atlantic in going to the battle front is told. This is one of the first letters to reach the States since the censorship was lifted, in which the actual efficiency of the American destroyers in ruining German submarines is cited.

Aboard the transport the 310th Field Artillery sailed from Philadelphia on July 14, 1918. For three days the Maryland boys, which included scores of Kent County soldiers, were on the Atlantic, finally reaching Halifax. After spending several days at Halifax, the race across the Atlantic was started.

The trip was zig zag on account of the fight with submarines. Five days after leaving Halifax, Corporal Starr says the fleet, surrounded by 25 convoys, was attacked.

Referring to this sea episode Corporal Starr says: "The U-boat battle took place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It was sure some exciting time. Our destroyers sunk five out of the eight attacking submarines. We were all ordered to our life boats after putting on our life preservers. We were already to go over, but our Yankee gunners proved the best marksmen."

The second U-boat encounter occurred the following night. Again the attacking hour was 2 o'clock. Referring to this battle Corporal Starr says: "We had our second submarine scare, but there were no shots fired. The Yanks were ready to go in action and the Boches hurried away."

That the German sea dogs had no respect for humanity is told in a few words by Corporal Starr. "On board with our regiment was 250 Red Cross nurses. We were flying the Red Cross flag with our dear American flag, but that made no difference, for the Hun was willing to send those 250 girls into eternity if possible. Could you imagine such uncivilized war tricks?"

Since then Corporal Starr tells how he met a friend from Kent county. The friend was no other than a can of tomatoes. But meeting that can of tomatoes with a Kent County label pasted thereon was like meeting a real friend with a human voice. We will use Corporal Starr's own words in describing the affair to his mother. "Mother, what do you think? The other day while standing at the mess tent, I picked up a can of tomatoes, with a label of the Lambson cannery pasted on it. I just simply had to stand there for about three minutes and hold that can and read every word on the label. I could hardly believe I had found some thing from dear old Kent County. Memories surely cropped up in my mind, and for the balance of the day my mind went back to the home 3500 miles away. This old world isn't large after all, when you can see a can of tomatoes packed from near your home town in the States."

That romance weaves webs in real life much stronger than those imagined in fiction, was again demonstrated last week, when a Queen Annes Co. girl, who for the last year has believed that the man she was to wed had been killed in France, received a telegram Tuesday which indicated there might be some mistake, and that he might be returning to this country, badly wounded or sick, but still alive. Fearful that the report may not be true, and that the telegram may eventuate in nothing more tangible than details about his death, but hopeful that she may meet Lieut. William McK. Kensey, the man she was to marry, Miss Julia Anthony, a Centreville trained nurse, left Saturday morning for New York City to find out what she could regarding him.

Lieut. Henry Kratzer returned to his home in Kent county last Monday having recently received his honorable discharge from the aviation corps. Lieut. Kratzer enlisted in the aviation corps about a year ago and soon became a pilot, having particular ability along these lines. He landed in France about three months before the close of the war and saw some active service.

COUNCIL OF DEFENSE MEETS

Each Kent County Worker Presented With a Certificate Showing Position They Have Held

An important meeting of the Women's Section of the Maryland Council of Defense of Kent County division was held at the home of the County Chairman, Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, on Monday afternoon, Feb. 10.

Mrs. Hubbard entertained the District leaders and Chairmen of the various sections of the Council of Defense work, presenting each with a certificate of their position they have held, signed by Mrs. Shoemaker and the County Chairman. A number of those present ordered pins that have been designed for Defense Council workers and which Mrs. Shoemaker wishes them to wear.

A badge of honor and certificate for annual membership has been conferred upon Mrs. Hubbard by the Maryland Forestry Association for public service in promoting the interest of forestry in Maryland.

Miss Copper's work in the county during the past year was highly commended and her record shows that Kent has led all the counties of the state under her able supervision during the past year. Upon motion it was agreed that the District Leaders should continue to co-operate with Miss Copper during the coming year.

The ladies present who had been members of the Liberty Loan Committees consented to serve in the next Liberty Loan drive, which will be launched in April.

The question of an appropriate memorial to be erected to our soldiers and sailors was discussed at length. Several proposed the bridge across the bay, an arch or monument or obelisk received the most attention. Those present, however, were unanimous in their decision for the bridge.

The Council as a war auxiliary goes out of existence the fifteenth of this month, except the Liberty Loan Committee. The question, "What will become of it?" is a very important one. It is not proposed to allow it to die out. The spirit of progress and co-operation which has animated it all these months must continue growing stronger and more determined to secure a cleaner world to live in. The "home fires" are to burn more fiercely now and after the boys come home, until the neighborhoods and communities to which they belong are purified of the vices and temptations from which they have been safe-guarded in camp and a new order of Christian knighthood be raised and established that will forever strengthen the whole fabric of society. This cannot be accomplished without the co-operation of the men. May we hope for this?

A resolution was passed, approving most heartily of this moral cleaning up. Mrs. Hubbard spoke most convincingly of the tremendous aid in accomplishing this moral cleansing. A social center would be providing not only recreations of various kinds, but everything necessary to the welfare of a well ordered community. This social center to be known as the "County Club." A motion to endorse such a means of moral and social uplift was passed without dissent.

Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Hubbard told of the meeting in New York in the interest of the League of Nations. They stated very emphatically that unless the United States stood by their President in this matter it could not be accomplished. Upon motion of Mrs. Wm. G. Smyth the following resolution was placed on record: "Resolved, that we desire to express our sincere appreciation of the able and devoted way our County Chairman, Mrs. W. W. Hubbard, has fulfilled her position as Chairman of Kent County Section of Maryland Council of Defense."

The resolution was passed unanimously. Mrs. Hubbard served refreshments upon small tables consisting of chicken salad, beaten biscuit, coffee and celery, maron peach ice and cake. All present voiced the option that it had been a most pleasant and profitable meeting.

PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN.

Government To Aid In Road Building

Now that the national government is paying more and more attention to the work of permanent road construction, it may be only a few years before Kent County will become the possessor of thoroughfares built by the assistance of national funds.

A statement issued this week, giving a survey of the amount of aid furnished the various states by the federal government under the law providing federal aid in the construction of road, shows that Maryland received for the years 1917, 1918 and 1919 an aggregate of $263,013.90. The allotment for Marriland for 1920 will be $173,894.81, making a total of $436,907.90 for the four years.

After consultation between the Maryland State Roads Commission and the Roads Building Division of the Department of Agriculture, six projects have been approved involving 79.66 miles of new roads. The total estimated is $922,437.19? of which amount the government will contribute $453,650.12. Of these six projects, five are already in operation under agreement between the state and federal authorities, aggregating 27.55 miles, the total estimated cost of which is $549,748.61, of which the government contributes nearly half, namely, $250,532.77.

Favors Ferry Instead Of Bridge

A report disapproving of the proposed bridge across the bay and recommending a line of ferry steamers or better boat facilities as the best means of bringing the Eastern Shore trade to Baltimore was submitted to the First Branch of the City Council Monday night by the committee appointed a few weeks ago to promote closer commercial relations between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The committee said that after investigation it reached the conclusion that the principal reason so large a portion of the trade of the Eastern Shore goes to Philadelphia and New York is due in part to progressive business measures practiced by the business men in those cities.

The committee concluded that a bridge over the bay would not affect to a great extent the trade with Baltimore. The committee also said that unless the bridge was built very high it would interfere with an intra-waterway between New England and the Gulf of Mexico, which had been recommended.
