Buick Utility

UTILITY, as expressed in the various Buick Valve-in-Head models for nineteen-nineteen, is a composite thing, made up of those elements which may be considered vital factors in the serviceability of a motor car.

This utility has been arrived through the experience of nearly twenty years, during which time the Buick course has been characterized by unswerving fidelity to accepted engineering ideals, and constructive advancement has been made by the processes of elimination and improvement.

Always, Buick cars have been developed, not re-designed. And for nineteen-nineteen they reach the highest pinnacle in this development. Each model has a certain scope, a particular range of usefulness. Enough models have been provided in the complete Buick line to enable any purchaser to select a Buick car that is exactly equipped to serve him to the utmost limit of his demands for utility.

The Joy of Peace.

How pleasant it is to go back to the little ways of peace. One can idle an hour or two away with a frivolous book and do it with a clear conscience, without a substratum of thought running through the mind that we should be actively up and doing, engaged in one of the innumerable ways of winning the war. One can drift into a playhouse and watch a musical comedy's mild amblings and let the ear be titillated with light tunes without feeling that perhaps it is not just the thing to do in days of darkness and sorrow. The glihts—the bright, white, reassuring lights—are there again before the theatre, telling us that fuel economy is no longer imperative, that evenings after a full day's labor can again be spent idly and luxuriously. One can even invest an idle dollar in a box of chocolates because one feels that sugar-saving is no longer quite so necessary. These, of course, are days of reaction. Soon we will return to the sterner things. We will worry about the league of nations and the freedom of the seas; we will be precipitated into the problems of reconstruction. But a little lull has insidiously placed itself between the grave days that are gone and the busy days that are to come. And this little lull, we find, is welcome and a thing to be cherished. —Collier's Weekly.

The Cost of the War.

Exclusive of expenditures by Belgium, Portugal, Roumania, Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria, the total cost of the European war was fixed at $179,000,000,000 in an official estimate made public Saturday and based on data in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board, the Secretary of the Treasury and the bulletins of the Swiss Society of banks. The table was compiled on estimated expenditures to last January 31.

Total expenditures of the Allies and the United States were fixed at $119,581,000,000, exclusive of loans among themselves, which totaled $18,375,000,000.

The individual expenditures of the nations were given as follows:

Great Britain, $37,100,000,000; France $27,000,000,000; United States, $18,481,000,000; Russia, $18,000,000,000; Italy, $10,000,000,000; Serbia, $8,000,000,000; Japan and Greece, $1,000,000,000. The loans made by these powers and included in the individual expenditures, although not added to the total as a separate item, were as follows:

Great Britain, $8,500,000,000; France $2,000,000; United States, $7,875,000,000. The total expenditures of Germany were given as $36,500,000,000 and of Turkey $23,000,000,000, making an aggregate of $59,500,000,000 for these two members of the Germanic Alliance.

The Tomato Outlook.—This time last year the canners and growers were considering the price of tomatoes and contracts were being made. What is the outlook this year? No one seems to know. At 50 cents per basket both canners and growers made money last year. The government is out of the market this year, but there are still the same ones to feed. Some say the best plan is an open market and no contracts. This would probably result in smaller acreage, but would mean sales to the highest bidders and cash payment. The contract system has been more satisfactory to both the canners and growers, and Kent farmers seem to prefer contracting to selling on the open market.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE WINS

Defeated St. John's In Great Contest—Chestertown High School Defeats Wyoming High School

In the hardest fought basketball game for two years on the Washington College floor, St. John's was defeated by Washington College on Friday evening by the score of 19 to 15. St. John's took the lead at the start by scoring three fouls. Their lead was short-lived, however, because W. C. with two goals and a foul shot took the lead soon after and made the score 5 to 3. The first half ended with this score and without St. John's having scored a single goal. At this juncture it was plain that Washington College had the best team and that unless some accident occurred, they would win the game.

The beginning of the second half justified this assumption, because W. C. jumped far into the lead and threatened to make a runaway of the game, soon piling up a lead of ten points. Toward the close of the game, however, with three of the W. C. regulars put out of the game for minor offenses, which should have hardly been noticed, St. John's threatened to tie the score by caging the ball several times and helped by a number of foul shots.

But at the time when the St. John's star seemed in the ascendency, Young seized the ball and dashed through the whole St. John's team and caged the ball, thus giving W. C. a fair lead and making the prettiest and most opportune play of the whole game. This brilliant play put a damper on St. John's playing and the substitutes who replaced the regulars put up such a defence that barred the visitors from the cages.

The game was an excellent one, and reminded us of two or three years ago when Coach Kibler's great basketball teams showed visiting teams how the game could be played. Lankford and Young starred for Washington College, the whole team putting up a good exhibition.

The line up:

Washington	Position	St. John's
Robins	F.	Semier
Walls	F.	Spielman
Lankford	C.	Recher
Young	G.	Biegel
Ford	G.	Batty

Scarcely less interesting than the main contest was the game played preliminary to the main event between the Chestertown High School team and the Wyoming, Del., High School team. While the score was 21 to 5 in favor of the Chestertown team, the game was a hard fought one, the local team piling up its lead in the last part of the game, when the visitors seemed to lose heart.

The game was anybody's game during the first half and, in fact, the visitors seemed to have the best balanced aggregation at times, but the second half saw the Chestertown lads almost reign the ball at will, especially toward the close of the game.

Smith and Strong starred for the Chestertown High School team.

Two Negroes Die Suddenly.—The sudden deaths of Lizzie and George Johnson, colored, occurred at Georgetown, Kent county, on Monday night. The doctor said that heart trouble caused their deaths, they having been in perfect health the day previous. Mr. William Embert, one of Chestertown's insurance agents, had insured them on them on Monday.

—President Wilson, who left France last Saturday, will reach Boston on February 25.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Chestertown Citizens Show A Way

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the torture of [illegible] backache, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Chestertown citizen says:

Mrs. May C. Frazier, High St., says: "I suffered from my kidneys and backache. At times I had dizzy spells and black spots before my eyes. My back ached when I had to bend over and my kidneys didn't act right at all. I surely was feeling miserable until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from The Stam Drug Co. I used them and had great relief."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Frazier had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
