Halley's Comet passes as thousands watch

ON THE EVENING OF MAY 18, 1910, from vantage points atop many of the city's leading hotels, the elite of New York society observed Halley's Comet.

The phenomenon was seen at particular brilliance, much to the pleasure of those attending the roof parties—where many Bellows products, including our fine Kentucky bourbons, were being served.

That year another phenomenon—the Bellows "electric" shown below—appeared on the city's fashionable avenues, making deliveries to the residencies of such Bellows clients as J. P. Morgan, Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Jay Gould.

TODAY, our customers (many of famous families who have been clients of Bellows for more than six generations) tell us no bourbon can match our Bellows Club Bourbon in character, quality and flavour.

While we agree with alacrity, for we know of the care with which it has been brought to maturity and peak flavor—we hasten to add our belief that none equals our Bellows Bourbon in value.

You have but to price and taste a bottle of our truly splendid Kentucky whiskey to ascertain that today, as for 132 years—

Only the best is labelled BELLOWS
